Supervisors Will Consider Delaying Reappraisal Work

Chairman Calls Special Meeting At Request Of Mrs. Schultz

The Marin County Board of Supervisors will meet in "special emergency session" Saturday morning to consider requesting a delay in the county assessor's reappraisal program.

Chairman Walter R. Castro said today he had called the special meeting at the request of Supervisor Vera Schultz of Southern Marin District.

Castro said Mrs. Schultz asked that the board consider requesting the assessor "to suspend application of the new appraisal values in District 3 (Southern Marin) until a more equitable method can be devised."

Mrs. Schultz was not immediately available for further comment on her request.

Castro said he also is inviting the county auditor, the county counsel and a representative of the State Board of Equalization to the Saturday meeting.

The meeting followed a mounting public and political clamor against the program of reappraisal of all Marin County property on a four-year schedule, with about a fourth of the county reappraised each year.

Mrs. Schultz's opponent for supervisor in the June 7 election, J. Walter Blair, has made charges that such a program is unfair to Southern Marin because the program started in that area.

Assessor Bert W. Broemmel said he would appear at the special meeting and "be happy to discuss the whole program." He said he was distressed, however, that the program "has become a political football."

"Apparently my responsibilities as an assessor have become an issue in a supervisorial campaign," Broemmel said. "This program actually is nothing new. It started last year with knowledge of all concerned and Sausalito and Bolinas area already have been reappraised and the property owners paid taxes this year on the equalized values."

Until it was made a political issue, Broemmel said, his infor-

FREDERICK L. MARCUS
Quits sheriff's force

Marin's First Negro Deputy Sheriff Quits

Fredrick L. Marcus, 41, first Negro deputy sheriff to work for the county full-time, resigned yesterday for "personal reasons."

Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos disclosed the resignation this noon.

"I accepted the resignation," the sheriff said, without further comment. Dist. Atty. William O. Weissich was present in the sheriff's office at the time the resignation was disclosed.

WEISSICH REPLY

District Attorney Weissich said, in response to a question, that he was not present because of any criminal complaint involving Deputy Marcas.

Marcus was hired about two years ago under Sheriff David Menary. Since then, he has done an efficient job and was once named "Public Servant of the Month" for nabbing three armed on a market rooftop in Tamalpais Valley.

Marcus said he has a private business, the Sausalito Employment Agency, which has been taking up more and more of his time.

GROWING BUSINESS

He said he cannot do justice to both jobs and so decided to devote full-time to his growing business.

Marcus said he enjoyed his work as deputy sheriff and never came up against race incidents of any kind during his service for the county.

"I received perfect cooperation from the sheriff and his staff and the public," Marcus said.

Herter Says Nikita Wrecked Summit To Appease Critics

Heads Of State Quit Paris After Fiasco

PARIS (UPI) — Secretary of State Christian A. Herter wrote the epitaph of the summit conference today with a charge that Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev deliberately torpedoed it to appease critics in the Soviet hierarchy.

As President Eisenhower, Khrushchev and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan departed, the NATO permanent council unanimously condemned the Soviet actions. It affirmed support for future efforts by the Western Big Three to deal with Khrushchev, if — and when — he cools off.

President Eisenhower departed in the cold light of dawn aboard a jetliner for Lisbon, Portugal and a welcome by hundreds of thousands of Portuguese who hailed him as a hero.

Eisenhower expressed "disappointment" at the failure of the summit. But he made no recriminations against Khrushchev, who yesterday had insulted the president in an angry outburst at a press conference.

NIKITA SOUR

Khrushchev, charging again that the United States "prevented the holding of the summit conference" flew off to East Berlin, looking sour. He waved his fist on arrival but confined his remarks to a warning that Eastern Europe was lost to the West.

Prime Minister Macmillan sadly flew home to report tomorrow to the House of Commons on the summit that was his dream—and which Khrushchev blasted to dust with his demands that America apologize for the U-2 spy plane incident before he would attend the meeting.

'BE PREPARED'

Unsmiling, Macmillan arrived in London in a downpour and called the summit fiasco an "unhappy episode."

"We must be, and we will be prepared for difficulties and dangers," he said.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko remained behind in Paris and will leave tomorrow for New York to raise

General Fears 'Irrational' War Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — Air Force Gen. Thomas D. White told senators today it might be wise to reinforce this nation's defense because of irrational behavior at the Paris summit conference.

White's reference to irrationality came as he was questioned by senators about collapse of the Paris conference brought on by actions of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

"I have seen indications recently that irrationally could enter into a certain nation's decision to launch an attack," White told Sen. Leverett Saltonstall (R-Mass.)

The Air Force chief of staff said that earlier this year he was convinced that United States defenses were so strong "that no rational decision could be made to attack us."

"What would be a deterrent to a rational point of view might not be a deterrent to an irrational point of view," White said.

Sen. Dennis Chavez (D-N.M.), presiding at hearings on a 39-billion-dollar defense money bill, asked White what deterrents could be stepped up quickly.

White said probably the easiest would be adding two more squadrons of Atlas missiles.

VISITS BERLIN

K Says He Still Seeks Peaceful Coexistence

BERLIN (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev flew into East Berlin today from the wrecked summit talks, saying the Soviet Union will stick to a policy of seeking "peaceful coexistence."

But, looking serious, the Soviet Premier returned to the tack on the United States in an airport speech. He declared circles that wanted to apply the law of the jungle had regained the upper hand in the United States.

"The government of the United States made the summit conference impossible," he said. "But the questions which were to have been discussed there have not lost their significance. These include the conclusion of a peace treaty with the Germans and a solution of the problem of Berlin which is connected therewith."

"In view of the new situation, we have to talk with Comrades Ulbright and Grotewohl. I think that the upcoming exchange of views will be useful for the peace of Europe."

Khrushchev made no new threats against West Berlin but said he was going to talk the Berlin problem over with East German Communist leaders.

Hundreds of thousands of East Berliners, released from factories, offices and schools, cheered and waved to Khrushchev on his 25-mile trip from East Berlin's airport to the residence of East German President Wilhelm Pieck.

West Berliners, who had seen Khrushchev on four previous visits, said the reception was the biggest he ever has had in Berlin.

Harder Work For Peace Asked By Ike

LISBON Portugal (AP)—President Eisenhower said today the wrecking of the summit conference means "we must tighten our belts, keep our chins up" and work harder for peace with justice and freedom.

He spoke informally shortly after receiving a rousing, heartwarming welcome from 250,000 staunchly anti-Communist Portuguese upon arrival here for an overnight stop. He is to visit President Americo Rodrigues Tomaz and Premier Antonio Salazar before returning home tomorrow.

"There is no reason to be dismayed or disheartened. We have had these conditions before in dealing with the Soviets," he said.

"Rather than be dismayed we must tighten our belts, keep our chins up and each of us work a little harder for the great cause of peace with justice and freedom."

Eisenhower spoke to U. S. Embassy workers and members of the U.S. military mission here after riding in an open car through streets lined by thousands of cheering, waving Portuguese.

2nd PLAN AMENDED

Pharmacy Unit Junks Curb On Drug Ads

FRESNO — The California State Board of Pharmacy today threw out a proposed industry regulation involving drug advertising, while another was amended by proponents.

Chairman Max Weisburg of Los Angeles took the action on advice of counsel after it was questioned whether the board had jurisdiction to adopt the proposal. The regulation had been advocated by 17 druggists and employees in the San Francisco Bay Area.

The regulation proposed that "No licensee shall advertise any dangerous drug, which may be dispensed only on the legal prescription of a licensed parctitioner, by use of its official name, generic name or trade name, or by referring to its physiolgical or therapeutic effect, which such advertising is directed to the public."

Sen. John F. McCarthy (R-San Rafael) testified that "Prohibition of advertising is not the prerogative of the board" and suggested that the proposal was a matter for the legislature to study. Rejection of the proposal also was advocated by the California Pharmaceutical Assn. on similar grounds.

James Nielsen, attorney for the association, amended the advertising section of its proposed "rules of professional conduct" when the board opened its public hearing. The original section was opposed by State Consumer Counsel Helen Nelson, McCarthy, Assemblyman Sheridan N. Hegland (D-La Mesa), Jack Craemer, managing editor of the San Rafael Independent-Journal and representatives of the STRASBURG, Colo. (UPI) — Mrs. Albert R. Thomas, 60, of 159 Tulane Drive, Larkspur, was killed and her 63-year-old husband seriously injured today when their car collided with a semi-trailer truck on Highway 40 near here.

Thomas, a correctional officer at San Quentin Prison, was reported in poor condition at Colorado General Hospital in Denver. He suffered internal injuries.

The driver of the truck, 29-year-old Franz Bluck of Bell, Los Angeles County, was reported in fair condition at the same hospital with neck, shoulder and leg injuries.

X-15 Soars To Its Greatest Altitude

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE (AP)—The X-15 rocket plane shot up to 107,000 feet today, its highest flight yet but still short of the record for research plane of 126,000 feet.

Air Force Maj. Bob White flipped on all eight barrels of the X-15's engine seconds after cutting loose from the B52 mother ship at 45,000 feet.

Four minutes of full thrust carried him to the new altitude mark and a speed of 1,350 miles an hour.

TWO FATALITIES

Jetliner Collides With Light Plane High Over Paris

PARIS (UPI) — A Caravelle twin-jet airliner collided head-on with a light plane 7,000 feet over Paris today. The jet landed safely with a ripped fuselage, torn rudder, dead engine and 19 injured passengers.

The light plane disintegrated in air, killing the pilot instantly. Its 140-horsepower engine ripped through the airliner's fuselage like a can-opener, injuring 19 of the 31 persons aboard, one fatally.

The injured included an American, identified as Ariel Eisenberg, 52, of Forest Hill, N. Y.

One of the injured Francois Quermont of Paris, died in a Paris hospital after the crash.

The passengers included Mme. Jacques Soustelle, wife of a former Gaullist minister who was fired from the cabinet in February in a dispute with Gen. Charles de Gaulle over Algerian policy. She suffered only superficial injuries.

The collision came barely 22 minutes before Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev took off from Orly Field aboard his own Soviet jet for Berlin. His flight was not affected by the accident, which took place nearly five miles from the field.

The passengers aboard the Caravelle were strapped in their seats for a landing on a flight from Algiers when the small plane streaked into view and smashed into the jet.

The engine ripped loose and sliced through the Caravelle like a can-opener, showering the passengers with jagged fragments and hitting one of the two big jet engines, which are mounted back near the tail section.

The Caravelle, which flies at speeds approaching that of sound, was believed flying at 400 to 500 miles an hour when the collision occured. Pieces of the small plane fluttered to earth over a wide area.

The 31 persons aboard the airliner included nine children and a crew of six. Three hostesses aboard calmly walked down the ripped-open corridor and urged the passengers to stay seated.

The main part of the tiny sports plane and its dead pilot were found about seven miles south of the airport.

The light plane crashed into the roof of the jet just behind the pilot's compartment. After tearing off the forward part of the fuselage ceiling, it hurtled against the starboaard jet engine. Wreckage entered the engine intake and stopped the engine.

AFTER AIR CRASH — A twin-jet Caravelle French airliner is shown on a ramp at Orly Field in Paris following its safe landing today after it had collided in mid-air with a light plane. The pilot of the smaller aircraft was killed and 19 persons aboard the airliner were hurt, one fatally. The light plan chewed a hole in the top of the transport's fuselage and kocked out one engine. Kennedy Campaigning Hard On Eve Of Oregon Primary PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy stepped up the pace of his campaigning today on the eve of Oregon's Democratic presidential primary.

His only active opponent, Sen. Wayne Morse, said he still thinks he'll pull in 60 cent of the vote tomorrow as a favorite son candidate.

Wherever he went yesterday, Kennedy kept hearing people tell him they thought he could beat Morse. He kept saying he considered that a most difficult and unlikely task

Three other senators are on the Democratic ballot--Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, Lyndon B Johnson of Texas, and Stuart Symington of Missouri. Humphrey is out of the presidential race. Johnson and Symington haven't campaigned here.

Morse put it up to Oregon Democrats to repudiate Kennedy as an intruder.

However, the Massachusetts senator told them not to waste their votes on Morse, but to award their 17 delegates to Johnson, Symington or himself.

This is the last major primary contest before the Democrats convene in Los Angeles July 11.

Oregon law binds national convention delegates to the winner of the primary on the first two ballots, unless he receives less than 35 per cent of the convention votes on the first test. In that case, they are released.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon is unopposed on the Republican ticket for 18 delegates.

A bid of $6,200 by Fred N. Woods of San Francisco was highest of 31 opened by the General Services Administration in San Francisco yesterday for 6.85 acres of surplus federal land two and one-half miles northwest of Bolinas.

The property was formerly part of San Francisco's harbor defenses. Additional to the basic single parcel of 6.85 acres are road easements of about 2.13 acres, according to George F. Phillips, GSA regional commissioner.

Japan Demonstrations

TOKYO (UPI) — Fist fights broke out in the corridors of the Japanese parliament and a swelling throng estimated at 15,000 snake-danced and shouted anti-American slogans in the rain outside today in opposition to the new Japan-U.S. security treaty.

Drug Official Fired

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Welfare Secretary Arthur S. Flemming has fired a top federal Food and Drug Administration official who became a key target of Senate investigators.

Flemming demanded the "immediate resignation" of Dr. Henry Welch within hours after the Senate antitrust and monopoly subcommittee produced evidence yesterday that the government official was paid $287,142 over a 10-year period from his interests in private medical publications.

Welch, a native of Newburyport, Mass., was the $17,500-a-year chief of the Food and Drug Administration's antibiotics division. Flemming said Welch "deliberately misled his superiors" about his outside income.

A far-ranging storm system hit the country's midsection during the night with tornadoes, high winds, rain and hail.

One man died near Tulsa, Okla., as flying debris caved in the top of his car during a brief but strong windstorm.

The Weather Bureau said a tornado damaged barns and houses in the Hagarville, Ark., area. Funnel clouds were also sighted near Hot Springs, Morrilton and Atkins, Ark., but did no damage.

Observers sighted other tornadoes near Sallisaw, Okla., and Lincoln, Neb., but neither apparently touched grounds.

However, Oklahoma and Nebraska were battered by winds and hail.

IJMUIDEN, Holland (UPI) — Two ships collided in the North Sea today, forcing 44 persons, including two women, to take to lifeboats in thick fog. All were rescued.

Three lifeboats were launched, two from the badly damaged Swedish freighter Mongabara and one from the British tanker Workman.

No serious injuries were reported aboard either ship. Neither was in any immediate danger.

Ataturk was the father of the Turkish Republic. The emotional and sobbing students met at his tomb to chant patriotic songs and pledge themselves to follow his path to freedom and independence.

U.S. To Orbit Reconnaisance Satellite Soon

LOS ANGELES (AP) — President Eisenhower has ordered an end to U-2 spy plane flights —but the Samos reconnaisance satellite is coming up.

This country is so far along with its Samos program that the first of a planned network of them should be circling the earth within the next four months.

Experts say it will do a far more effective job than the U-2 could—and will be much harder to knock down.

DIFFICULT TARGET

"We have done a number of things to lessen the vulnerability of Samos satellites," an Air Force officer disclosed. "I won't say what those things are, but Samos will not be an easy target."

The high-ranking officer, who declined to permit use of his name, said there had been no speedup in the Samos program since the U-2 incident because Samos already had a top priority.

The Samos satellites, containing photographic and television equipment, will be boosted into polar orbit by Atlas missiles from launch pads at Point Arguello, 150 miles north of here.

EVERY SQUARE MILE

Whirling around the earth's poles, they will be able to scan every square mile of the earth's surface and relay to Allied ground stations the location of Soviet missile sites and concentrations of troops or war materiel.

Some Samos cameras will be designed to focus on objects that are relatively small from their altitude of 100 to 400 miles—such as missiles on launch pads. Others will be designed to scan wide areas.

Each satellite probably will be able to take films for later study and also to televise scenes immediately.

Nixon Says U.S. Dealt Quietly With Red Spy

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The case of a Soviet employee of the United Nations secretariat, caught spying at the time of Premier Nikita Khrushchev's visit to the U.S. last year, was handled efficiently and without international uproar, says Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Nixon contrasted the incident, revealed officially for the first time yesterday, with Khrushchev's use of the U-2 spy plane incident to scuttle the summit conference in Paris.

Despite the apparent possibility of a return of the East-West cold war, Nixon declared that he doubts Khrushchev will resort to force.

"He believes he can gain his objective of world domination without war,' the vice president declared in a speech at a sales executives' convention.

Nixon said the Western nations must prove they have the stamina to resist.

The revelation of the Soviet spy case enlivened the wind-up of the vice president's upstate New York tour. It took Nixon almost the entire day to fill in the details of the incident, which ended last January with the expulsion of the Soviet U.N. employee. He was identified at U.N. headquarters as Vadim A. Kirilyuk, a former political affairs officer.

At first Nixon said two members of the Soviet U.N. delegation had been caught spying in Illinois at the very time Khrushchev was addressing the U.N. in New York. Later, an aide said Nixon meant to say the incident occurred in Springfield, Mass.

Then Nixon confirmed that the pair actually had not been arrested. Later, he said one, a U.N. secretariat employee, had been sent home after an investigation by Dag Hammarskjold, U.N. secretary-general.

Another had not been directly involved and is still in this country, said Nixon. An American from whom the pair sought highly classified information is in the clear, the vice president said.

Later, Sen. Albert Gore (D-Tenn.), said in Washington that Nixon used the report to further his political fortunes. But a Nixon aide said the whole thing was mentioned by Nixon just to illustrate the "method the United States used in quietly handling an incident which has some parallels to the present situation."

Medical Research Fund

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A congressional advisory group today recommended a record 664-million-dollar appropriation for government-sponsored medical research in the coming year to "mobilize" the nation's research potential against disease and disability.

The total recommended would top by 264 million the 400 million dollars asked by President Eisenhower for the National Institute of Health, the government's medical research arm.

JURY LAUDS EFFICIENCY OF COUNTY GOVERNMENT

More Facilities, Personnel Urged For Several Marin Departments

Most of the departments in Marin County government are well run and ably supervised, but there is a sore lack of facilities and personnel in some departments.

These conclusions were reached by the Marin County Grand Jury, discharged this week after serving nearly 16 months.

Oliver J. Olson Jr., foreman, and George W. Thierbach, secretary, headed the grand jury. Committee chairmen included Richard C. Paine, A. Von Rotz, Louis G. Freitas, Burt C. Wheeler, Mel J. London and John A. Lesoine.

The jury's findings and observations are given in a 90-page final report.

The grand jury's probation, jail and juvenile committee made these recommendations:

Additional space is needed for the county probation office until such time as the new civic center is completed.

Adequate parking spaces should be provided for the professional staff of the probation department.

A larger staff is needed to give closer supervision of probationers. Salaries paid probation officers should be equated with those of similar qualifications in other counties.

The juvenile division of the probation office also needs more staff members. A central index for juvenile offenders should be established in the sheriff's office. Marin is fortunate in having such a well-qualified superintendent (David Fogel) at its' juvenile hall, it was stated.

Recommendations for juvenile hall include the following:

Separation of children, according to age, sex and seriousness of crime. It is not fair to house neglected children for example, with law violators. More complete medical attention should be provided. The hall should have its own kitchen. At present meals are hauled in from the county farm.

County Probation Officer Walter Busher and his staff were described as dedicated, hardworking individuals.

In the county jail idleness of inmates was termed the big problem. The sheriff is deeply interested in the county's having a modern jail at the new civic center which will give inmates a chance to do useful work, it was reported. And the committee was "impressed by the spirit of dedication which Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos obviously manifests."

Warden Fred R. Dickson and his staff were complimented for the excellent condition of San Quentin Prison.

The welfare department under Betty Presley is ably directed, it was said, and Marin can be justifiably proud of its record. But it lacks office space and personnel to handle indigents who need long-term psychiatric care.

There are virtually no cases of fraudulently obtained welfare aid payments that go undetected in Marin, the jurors found.

In the health department, the staff was found to be inadequate to handle increased need for services—particularly in inspection of food handling establishments and sanitation.

The health department, under Carolyn B. Albrecht, is one of the most efficiently run agencies in the county, the report noted.

A special committee was recommended to see that Marin County accepts responsibility of properly reimbursing all hospitals for the care of indigents. Marin County Hospital District board and Administrator S. Ames Pence have done an exemplary job of operating Marin General Hospital, it was stated.

The County Medical Department under Rafael G. Dufficy appears well organized and efficiently run, according to the grand jurors.

Consideration of the creation of a special agency to collect delinquent bills for all county departments was urged. The county should be more strict in caring for people from other counties at the Marin County Hospital and Farm, it was also stated.

Administration of the county hospital and farm appeared satisfactory to the jurors.

The Legislature should take steps to overhaul the education code to make positive the authority which belongs to the county board of education and to the county superintendent of schools, it was asserted.

The jury recommended that the next grand jury appoint a committee to devote its time exclusively to studying the county's school system. Its goal would be to resolve overlapping authority and unify as many school districts as possible.

The Housing Authority of Marin, the Marin County Redevelopment Agency, and executive director Bert Klahn are "doing a very fine job" in making the Marin City area more attractive and a more valuable asset to the county, the report said.

County Fire Chief Charles Reilley should be publicly commended "for the fine but little known work he has accomplished," it was declared.

Mrs. Virginia Keating, county librarian, was commended for her supervision of the county library service. But, it was added, the library building is substandard, quite possibly dangerous, and overcrowded.

The jurors said the location of the auditor-controller's department with a public thoroughfare through the center of the office makes this operation appear inefficient in that noise and confusion of people passing through tend to distract personnel. "The grand jury committee left with the feeling that there is much confusion and little personnel control." The new civic center with new office space will undoubtedly bring more efficiency and supervision, it was noted.

County Clerk George S. Jones runs an efficient office with minimum wasted effort, according to the jury, and the county records office is neat and businesslike, but overcrowded.

The jury also noted that:

Tax Collector-Treasurer M. F. Donohue operates a very efficient office. He believes treasurer and tax collector should be separate.

Municipal court clerks, under Edna M. Lemke, are efficient and businesslike, and Marin is fortunate in having a person of Mrs. Lemke's caliber.

County assessor's office appears to be efficiently run.

Multiplying Fish

EAST CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — The care and feeding of two small zebra fish is simple. But problems can develop when the number grows to between 500 and 1,000.

Jeffrey McLaughlin, 14, won the two small fish on a bet, and began his hobby as an amateur ichthyologist with an ordinary fish bowl.

Now he has eight aquariums, with five additional tanks in reserve in the basement.

He has added representatives of 20 varieties of fish and so far has run into only one real problem.

He can pick out and identify each breed—but he has trouble spelling the names.

Condemnation Of Larkspur House Held Up

A stay of execution was given a Madrone Canyon home last night by the Larkspur Council.

The property of Mrs. Helen Martin at 328 Madrone Avenue has been the object of official city scorn since 1958 when, according to City Manager Ronald E. Piper, a broken sewer line first attracted attention to the decrepit condition of the dwelling.

According to Mrs. Martin and two tenants who now lease the premises, considerable repair work has been done on the home and it is being brought up to as "reasonable" a standard as available time and money permit.

The council agreed to withbold threatened condemnation proceedings and meet again with Mrs. Martin and her tenants, Carlin Drais and Jack Snyder, to discuss progress on the rejuvenation of the 44-year-old home. Drais and Snyder are performing the repair work, Mrs. Martin said. Inasmuch as they are electronic men and not builders — and operating with limited funds—the work is understandably slow, it was said.

Supporting Mrs. Martin from the council floor was Mrs. Jane Epidendio, recently defeated council candidate who has filed court action for a recount of the votes which placed Daniel Allen in office over her by four votes.

"Why is this house being singled out?" Mrs. Epidendio asked. "If you are going to start condemning houses in the canyon, you are going to have to condemn a lot of them." She added that she had, at one time, lived in the house herself.

Killer, Slated To Die Tomorrow, Reprieved

George Albert Scott, who left a 16-year trail of crime that reached its climax when a Hollywood film executive wouldn't give up his wallet, today received a stay of execution. He was scheduled to die tomorrow in the San Quentin Prison gas chamber.

Justice William O. Douglas of the U.S. Supreme Court today granted the stay.

Scott was convicted of killing Kenneth F. Savoy on Dec. 30, 1958.

The stay was asked by attorney Morris Lazine of Los Angeles, who said Scott is mentally unbalanced. He said evidence of Scott's mental condition had been presented to Gov. Edmund G. Brown but Brown took no action. He also said Scott was denied a fair trial because of actions of the trial judge.

The stay will remain in effect pending final Supreme Court action on an appeal for Scott to be filed later.

Scott, 37, was scheduled to be the 171st person to die in the prison gas chamber, and the third in May.

Apparently a night-long vigil by the Marin Committee for the Abolishment of the Death Penalty will be called off. The committee was scheduled to start protesting at the main gate at 10 o'clock tonight, with the demonstration to last until the time of the execution at 10 a.m. tomorrow.

Savoy, 35, an executive at Samuel Goldwyn Studios, entered a Hollywood bar just as Scott and an accomplice were leaving. Scott pointed a sawed-off shotgun at Savoy and demanded his wallet.

"I'm single and have no responsibilities," Savoy responded.

"No one will miss me. If you want my wallet, you will have to shoot me first."

Scott killed Savoy by shooting him in the stomach. The force of the slugs hurled Savoy three feet.

Later Scott robbed a Los Angeles bar and boasted to its patrons "I'm the guy who shot that guy in the stomach in Hollywood."

He was captured Jan. 25, 1959, in the company of a former woman wrestler at a Texarkana, Ark., motel but only after police shot the motel full of holes and fired a dozen tear gas grenades.

At the sanity trial which followed his May 20, 1959, conviction, Scott tried to slash his throat with a razor blade concealed in his month.

Morals Offense Charge Denied

William Clinton McCullough, 42, of 82 Alexander avenue, San Rafael, denied yesterday he attacked a 15-year-old girl in his car last November.

McCullough is foreman of a chemical company in Southern Marin. He is the father of five children.

He was arrested on May 11 by Inspector Donald E. Midyett on a complaint by the girl's mother and school officials. McCullough is charged with a morals offense involving the girl.

Judge Leonard A. Thomas of Marin Municipal Court ordered McCullough to appear in court next Thursday for setting of a date for a preliminary hearing.

Mill Valley Recreation Program Approved

The summer recreation program for the Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Commission was approved with a budget of $3,240 net cost at last night's Mill Valley City Council meeting.

The net cost is the same as last year's but there will be an expanded program, with some fees higher and an increase for out-of-city participants from $1.50 to $3 per family.

Couniilman Joseph E. Sheeks voted against the budget, saying he thinks the city is merely providing a baby-sitting service. He said this is the third year he has voted against it.

"I think the program is a waste of money. Each year it goes up and the people wonder why tax rates go up and then they scream loudly to the assessor," said Sheeks.

Acting Mayor George W. Blackwell, who is childless, said, "Let's do it for the children." The program starts July 4.

The council also:

1. Granted the Optimist Club permission to operate a merry-go-round and ferris wheel at the Youth-O-Rama Saturday and Sunday at Recco 17, subject to the police chief's recommendation on closing hours.

2. Voted a resolution repealing the two-hour parking limit on Miller Avenue center strip between Reed and Evergreen streets.

3. Agreed that Councilman George D. Monardo is to work with manager Granville L. Beedle of the Chamber of Commerce to try to get directional signals at the end of Richardson Bay Bridge turnoff to Mill Mill Valley.

5. Approved warrants totaling $21,190.

Tam Election Set Tomorrow

Student body elections will be held at Tamalpais High School tomorrow in the class periods immediately following the lunch hour.

A candidates meeting will be held at 11 a.m. in the Mead Outdoor Theater, where each candidate will present his platform.

Candidates are: For president, Edward Collins and Stewart Hindley of Mill Valley; for vice president, Alan Eshleman and Sue Gillett of Mill Valley; for secretary, Pamela Tresnon, unopposed; for treasurer, Claudette Bochino and Peter Dodd of Mill Valley.

Running for rally commissioner is Steve Clark of Mill Valley, unopposed. For songleaders are Linda Brown of Mill Valley, heading the Seven Ups, and Rycke Thompson of Mill Valley, heading the Sweet Nothin's. For yell leaders are Cary Carillo of Sausalito and the Wee Three and Roger Drexler of Mill Valley heading Ben and His Two Hers.

54 Seek Redwood Student Offices In Vote Tomorrow

Novato's recent election record of 27 candidates will fall tomorrow when Redwood High School students go to the polls to choose from 54 hopefuls seeking student body offices.

The more than 1,250 students will hold an election rally in the school gymnasium at 9:30 a.m. and will cast their ballots from 2 to 3 p.m. The rally will climax more than a week of campaigning.

Doug Herst, class president for three terms, as sophomore and junior, will face Ned Griffith for the student body presidency.

Running unopposed are Don Deane for vice president and Paula Daly for secretary. The president, vice president and secretary all serve one semester. Commissions serve the entire year.

Seeking jobs as commissioners are Dave Ryta and Keith von Borstal, athletics; Jerry Whitney, Nan Ronnenberg and Carlene Conradi, elections; Terry Worth and Kent Shew, finance; Mike Spencer and Dana Bean, public relations, and Judie Block and Linda Young, social activities.

In the running are three yell-leading groups (including two all-male) who, with songleaders, serve only during football season.

In one group are Tom Kearns, Pam Wallace, Dick Chambers and Ronnie Sue Anderson; the "Four Boys" include Boyd Cahill, Lorin Vogel, Bob Talmadge and Chris Lewis; the "MYQ," or modern yell leading quartet, includes Jay Rodrigo, Pete Pike, Eric Southmayd and Rick Sims.

Four groups are running for songleaders. They are "Les Girls" with Carol Ensler, Mary Rodden, Ellie Cleveland, Maureen Johnson, Bonnie Chrysler and Nancy Bagnal; the "Kick-Offs" with Rickey Seigel, Merilee Ellis, Esther Tarics, Melinda McGrane, Jackie Moose and Susan Spiller; The "Bobby Sox" with Ann Cassidy, Margie Miller, Mick Pritchett, Mary Neecke, Dawn Urbais,, Marge Deedy and Ann French; and the "Highlights," who include Pam Armstrong, Penny West, Kathy Lonsford, Sue Webster, Joan Phillips, Dottie Zuern and Jane Meyer.

Thief Gets Coins From Marin City Jukebox

A thief broke into Brown's Barber Shop in Marin City and took off with more than $40 from the jukebox coin container, the barber shop owner complained to the sheriff yesterday.

Group Protests Appraisal System

Directors of the Almonte Improvement Club last night declared themselves in favor of a fair assessment to all people in Marin "and said they do not believe the present proposed method of assessment is fair and equitable.

A letter to this effect will be sent to Marin County Assessor Bert W. Broemmel, said Patrick H. Price, president. The stand is in relation to the reappraisal of property values in Southern Marin.

The vote was unanimous, Price reported.

Blasts Rock Big Arsenal In Norway

LILLEHAMMER, Norway (UPI)—A military munitions dump blew up today at Ringebu, setting off a chain-reaction of explosions.

The explosions ripped through the area when other structures filled with artillery grenades blew up one after the other.

The blasts continued through the day, and police said that they expected them to go on "for two or three days."

The military arsenal consists of more than 300 buildings. About 40 soldiers were in the camp when the first explosion went off.

No deaths were reported. A score of soldiers suffered minor injuries, the most serious of which was a broken leg.

OLYMPIAN ARRIVES — Kwaker-Snater (Noisy Frog) is greeted at San Francisco International Airport last night after his arrival from Holland en route to Angels Camp, where he will be a dark horse, or frog, in the annual international frog-jumping olympics. Holding the Dutch entrant is Robert Van Groninger, 12, grandson of the frog's owner. The competitor was proselyted from a Holland canal. (AP Wirephoto)

Many Nations Enter Frog Jump Contest

ANGELS CAMP (AP)—Summit conferences and their failures may come and go but the international jumping frog olympics remain a beacon of international cooperation.

There are no entries from the Soviet bloc. But the Calaveras County Fair has frogs from The Netherlands, Lebanon, the Philippines, Japan, Germany, Switzerland, Jordan, England, Kenya, the British West Indies, Canada, Australia and South Africa.

The contest supposedly began in 1863. The yarn was immortalized by Mark Twain.

IT'S HYPOTHETICAL

Budget Being Drafted For Unified District

A hypothetical budget for a hypothetical school district in West Marin will be presented the augmented committee of the Marin County Committee on School District Organization when it meets next month.

E. L. Blackmore, administrative assistant to the county schools superintendent, told the original committee at a meeting last night in San Rafael that the hypothetical district, will be none other than the present Tomales Union Joint High School District. (A union district is one made up of like districts—in this case elementary districts—and a joint district spans a county border.) Such a unified district would be governed by one board for all grades, kindergarten through 12th.

Blackmore said the hypothetical budget will be drawn up in the county superintendent's office.

If there is time, a second hypothetical budget for another hypothetical unified district will be drawn up. It would include the districts of Bolinas, Stinson Beach, West Marin, Pt. Reyes, Nicasio and possibly Marshall.

Other than these districts and those in the Tomales district, the only other district being considered for possible unionization or unification study is Lagunitas.

Blackmore explained that the augmented committee members from Lagunitas will be asked to remain on the committee until the study has been completed, although it is known the Lagunitas district does not want to be part of a West Marin setup. It was pointed out that Nicasio, too, is not interested.

Blackmore said the hypothetical plan could be drafted so that Nicasio can be removed easily.

He said that either silence or approval from members of districts in Sonoma County indicated they might agree with a unified district on the lines of the present Tomales Union Joint District. The subject came up at a meeting of the augmented committee earlier in the week in Tomales. The full committee is scheduled to see the plans June 15; the augmented committee, June 20.

He said later the idea could be altered to leave out the Sonoma territory or to present some other arrangement.

As the committee last night was discussing the appointment of two more members to bring it to full strength, Mrs. Adele S. Alpers of San Rafael won approval for her suggestion that a "high school-minded person be appointed."

Mrs. Alice Buck of Mill Valley said she would resign at the end of next month because she is returning to Virginia. It was decided a "high school-minded person" will be sought from the Tamalpais Union High School District to replace her.

The committee then appointed William Bricca of Ross and James Gibson of Novato to fill the existing vacancies left by William Cassidy and Catherine Grimes.

Judge Advocates 'Switches' In School Policies

LONG BEACH, Calif (AP)—Teachers should have a strap handy to keep discipline in public schools, says Municipal Judge Charles T. Smith.

"Today a great many families are ignoring discipline in the home on the theory that the schools are doing it," Judge Smith said yesterday. "But teachers are not meting out punishment because boards of education frown on it. It's a vicious circle."

Smith sentenced a parent to five days in jail for slapping a teacher. Ambrose Cosgrove, 51, said he struck Miss Helen Nies because he thought the teacher had slapped his 10-year-old son Terry.

Christ And Cuba

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Back from a tour of Southern Baptist mission stations in Cuba, B. M. Crain, business manager of the denomination's Home Mission Board, says the island country has "religious freedom . . . for the first time."

"Our people feel safe to go and come at night to attend worship service as they please," he says. "The difference in the way the people now live and the way they used to live is startling.

"Southern Baptist missionaries in Cuba report today the greatest opportunity in history to win Cuba for Christ."

'POGO' FACTION UNITES

Political Party Emerges As Marin College Readies For Student Vote

By CARLETON WILLIAMS

The battle cry of "I Go Pogo!" rang out across the College of Marin campus today as the school's first student political party tested its vote-getting muscles.

Campus balloting, in an election which will name student body officers for the first semester of next year, opened today and will continue tomorrow at the Stone Bench from 11 a.m. until 1 p.m.

Complete with "big-time" political atmosphere, including a cow bell, an election rally was staged yesterday in Olney Hall where all candidates whose names will appear on the ballot exhorted the assembly to get out and vote for yours truly.

Climaxing the rally was a surprise appearance of Phyllis Diller, comedienne from San Francisco's Purple Onion, who told the students she was completely taken by their beautiful campus.

"As a mater of fact, I have a son whom I would like to send here," she said. "As soon as I can spring him from Alcatraz, that is.

"I understand that's your big campus," she added.

Carrying on the spirit of Miss Diller's entertainment, voters on both days will cast their ballots to the accompaniment a campus combo headed by Winston Searles and made up of guitars and bongo drums.

At stake are the offices of president, vice president, treasurer, cheer leader and song leader. The names of 12 candidates will appear on the ballot but, according to campus scuttlebut, the number may be more than doubled by writ-in candidates who failed to meet the election petition deadline.

For what is reportedly the first time in the political life of the college, voters will be urged to vote for a ticket of candidates—the Pogo slate.

Emerging from isolated campus bull sessions into an organization which claims more than 100 loyal supporters, the Pogo party stands four-square for a student union on the campus, longer library hours, improved student body benefits, more lectures and cultural improvements and a new cafeteria.

When asked how the new political upsurge was being received by the long-beards among the administration, one student replied: "They didn't have time to stop it. It just grew."

Sample quotes from aspirants at yesterday's rally:

Barry McGough (president): "I stand for a student newspaper and student opinion polls. We can't do a job unless we know what it is you want us to do."

Fred Brown (president): "I promise to work for a student union and a new cafeteria. This is the only college I have ever seen with such a poor cafeteria."

Ralph Shanks (vice president): "I would like to see a new and varied social program that will make your college life more worthwhile."

George McIntosh (vice president): "I go Pogo."

Lois Barkowska (secretary): "Service—service to our school and country — is a word we should place in our working vocabulary."

Cecile Lusby (secretary): "I hope you will vote for me. But whoever you vote for—get out and vote!!"

Margaret Theil (treasurer): "I feel very qualified to handle your money since I have worked for a bank."

Daryl Sattui (treasurer) "A vote for me is a vote for sound financial government."

Judy Werbelow (treasurer): "I have a new system of finance I would like to see put into use."

Mike Kelly (cheer leader): "I will not be content to continue the tradition of lack of spirit. I am not a reactionary."

Both song leader candidates, Kay Darneter and Marlene Drago, sought votes on the basis of their past experience as high school song leaders.

Votes will be counted and the names of winners announced as soon as officials count the ballots at the close of tomorrow's voting.

Mill Valley Orders Stop Signs Placed Near High School

The city council of Mill Valley last night ordered stop signs on Miller Avenue and Camino Alto—both directions, east and west, as a temporary expedient until final plans for traffic control at the intersection are accepted.

Signs should go up in about two weeks, City Manager A. E. Almcrants said.

Five people — four women and a man—were present at the meeting representing the Tamalpais High School Parent-Teacher Assn. and requesting that stop signs be installed at the highly-trafficked intersection.

Mill Valley Commuters Criticize Bridge Board

The Golden Gate Bridge District was again the target of the Mill Valley Commuters Club board of directors at its Tuesday meeting.

President Edward J. Boessnecker said the district "apprently intends to go ahead with its plan of imposing traffic arches upon the bridge."

Director A. P. O'Neill told the board that exact change machines are to be removed from the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge toll plaza as uneconomical but the Golden Gate Bridge board plans to continue using the machines.

The board authorized Boessnecker to urge the removal of exact change machines from the Gate bridge as an impediment to the passage of commuter traffic. The president noted that such lanes could not be used by commuters with commute tickets.

Boessnecker said, "for a fraction of the cost of installing the traffic control arches, the bridge district could modernize and renovate its toll plaza so as to eliminate the present bottleneck of traffic at rush hours."

He reported that Greyhound Lines has placed larger buses on certain morning runs to eliminate the standee problem.

The annual potluck dinner of the club will be held at 7 p.m. Wednesday at the Outdoor Art Club and is open to all commuters, he said.

Two Men Named To Sausalito Plan Board

Robert Nissen of 303 Caledonia Street and Dr. Thomas Wiper of 60 Atwood Avenue were appointed to the Sausalito Planning Commission at Tuesday night's city council meeting by Mayor Philip S. Ehrlick Jr.

The appointments, approved by the council, bring the commission to its full strength of nine members.

Wiper is a doctor of medicine and Nissen is a grocery clerk working at Budworth's Grocery at 310 Caledonia Street.

Laborer Freed Of Charge Of Lewd Acts

Forest Knolls laborer Joseph Gabriel, 53, who tried to assault a housewife in Lagunitas last August, was freed yesterday of another charge involving lewd acts toward a 4-year-old girl in Fairfax.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Roger P. Garety moved to dismiss the child molest case in Marin Municipal Court because he feels the 4-year-old girl is too young to qualify as a witness. However, Garety said he feels he has enough evidence from this incident to ask that Gabriel's probation be revoked.

Last December, Gabriel drew a suspended prison term and three years' probation for attempted assault on the housewife on a lonely road in Lagunitas. The woman said he had offered to drive her home from a tavern but stopped on a lonely road, ripped her clothes and attacked her. Gabriel pleaded guilty of attempted rape.

A hearing to revoke Gabriel's probation is set for Monday before Judge N. Charles Brusatori in Marin Superior Court.

Gabriel was arrested two Sundays ago on suspicion of molesting the 4-year-old at her Fairfax home. He gave his address as the Forest Knolls Trailer Court.

Mill Valley Council Acts To Prevent Another 'Mud River'

A highly vociferous group of Mill Valleyans got prompt action from the Mill Valley City Council last night to prevent Joseph Redmund of Tiburon from creating another "river of mud" such as ran in Mill Valley in the winter of 1955-56.

The council ordered Redmund cited on a charge of violating the subdivision ordinance in starting new excavation in his Greenwood Highlands subdivision. He was blamed for rolling boulders and rivers of mud when he excavated in the same area five years ago.

The council also called on City Engineer Stanley M. Bala to explore possibilities for remedying damage already done by Redmund's excavating.

Mrs. Benjamin Dreyfus of 1 Blithedale Avenue told the council:

"Nothing he (Redmund) can do is good. It would be better to stop this man as it is. Take money out of city funds if necessary. It will cost the city more if he goes on pouring mud down that hilside. I urge you to go and look at it. It could not be reinforced with steel."

Paul E. Taylor of 140 Woodbine Drive protested in person and by letter for a group of residents of Woodbine Drive, Upland Drive and Greenwood Way.

He said in his letter that Redmund's work on a road to provide access for a subdivision was first protested in the winter of 1955-56. Taylor said Redmund, who has seven lots in the city and more outside adjoining in the county, had asked the city that his county property be annexed.

The city, Taylor said, told him to proceed, taking the necessary steps, and Redmund agreed to follow the recommendations of the city engineer. "This was only a dream," Taylor said. The city council could not complete the steps for annexation and the project was abandoned.

At that time, Taylor said, the neighborhood was plagued after a heavy rain with mud and rocks blocking city streets and causing considerable nuisance and damage.

Gradually, Taylor said, the area became overgrown, which partially corrected the flow of rocks and mud after rains.

But on May 6, of this year, Redmund appeared again with a tractor and began to carve out "what appear to be ill-conceived roads."

"Must we relive in 1960 the same troubles we had in 1955?" Taylor asked the council.

City Manager A. E. Almcrants told the council he and Bala have been trying to control Redmund in his mudmaking excavations but that he has been indifferent to their orders.

It was brought out that Redmund's excavation permit was issued in 1956 and was good for only four months.

Councilman Joseph E. Sheeks said he was "a little bit mistrustful of Redmund" and suggested an injunction to stop him.

Bala said it is an impossible situation.

BIRTHDAY SUIT APPROVED AS HOME ATTIRE

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—A man should be permitted to be nude in his own home without being accused of indecent exposure, Judge A. J. Henderson said yesterday.

"I don't think it's unlawful," he said. "I was in the nude myself the other morning when I let the cat in."

He directed a jury to acquit Rex Peacock, 24, of the charge. Peacock was said to have walked about in the nude in his trailer home.

But the jury deliberated for only a few minutes before bringing in a verdict of guilty.

Henderson read the instruction again. After another short deliberation, the jury found Peacock innocent.

Tam Valley Park Work Start Slated

Heavy construction equipment will be used to commence clearing and leveling Ricketts Field at Eastwood and Glenwood Avenues in Tamalpais Valley Saturday morning.

The field is being developed by members of the Tamalpais Valley Improvement Club as well as other valley residents for a baseball diamond and a picnic and recreation area. Martin Brothers Supply and Bristol and Assocaites, both of Mill Valley, are providing men and equipment at no charge to the valley residents to start the clearing, Mrs. Neva Gill said.

Russian Space Ship Starts Wider Orbit

LONDON (AP)—The Soviet Union's space ship satellite was late arriving over Britain today, inducing speculation that the cabin said to contain a dummy astronaut may have been ejected.

Scientists manning the Jodrell Bank radio telescope said the four and one-half ton satellite had swung out to a wider orbit. It was circling the earth in about 94 minutes instead of the previous 91.2 minutes.

This raised these two possibility, scientists said:

Either the Soviets had ordered the satellite by radio into its new orbit or the spaceship had split away from the sealed cabin.

Such a decrease in the satellite's burden would automatically make it veer out farther the earth, scientists said.

Similar findings were reported by the government industrial and scientific research station, which reported the satellite about 15 minutes late on a previous orbit.

Soviet scientists reported soon after the space ship was launched last Sunday that the astronaut cabin would be ejected as soon as sufficient had been transmitted on the traveling conditions a human passenger would experience.

Rocky Mountain bighorn sheep, for the first time since 1886, may be legally hunted in New Mexico.

Larkspur City Workers Voted 5 Per Cent Raise

Larkspur's city employees will all take home a 5 per cent wage raise on July 1. But the city Council last night withheld action, pending further study, on a proposal that four of the employees be given special upward salary adjustments.

City Manager Ronald E. Piper suggested the four employees who are in the top brackets of the city's salary schedule be given the opportunity to gain future raises by the addition of another salary step.

Acceptance of the proposal would give the employees involved the over-all 5 per cent raise, plus an additional 5 per cent upward adjustment on the schedule, or a total increase of 10 per cent as of July 1. It would also assure additional future raises for other jobs in which employees reach their present ceilings in the future.

The council agreed to study the proposal after defeating by a 4-to-1 vote a motion by Councilman Lesly A. Daveler that would have upped the wage range for the jobs, but would have dropped the four employees back a step, thus giving them only a 5 per cent hike on July 1.

Out of 15 city employees, seven will automatically get a 10 per cent increase since they are due automatic 5 per cent step increases in July along with the over-all raise.

Piper said the raises would still leave Larkspur city salaries "on the low side" as compared to other Marin cities.

There's No Room For Fishermen At Their Wharf

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The fisherman at Fisherman's Wharf are complaining. They say there's room for everybody but them.

The men who man the little crab boats say tourists are scrambling all over the place, bay rubbish is scarring their boat hulls, and restaurants and curio shops are taking over the wharf space. And the fishermen can't find a place to park their cars.

"We're just dirt down here," said Albert Spadero, secretary of the Crab Boat Owners Assn.

"They say it's a fishermen's wharf. What a laugh."

CARILLON COMPLAINTS

Mill Valley Council Says It Can't Stop That Music

The Mill Valley City Council decided last night that bells are outside its jurisdiction.

Acting Mayor George W. Blackwell (Mayor Robert D. Huber is away on business) told the council that he and the police department had received a number of complaints about the carillon bells atop the Northwestern Savings and Loan Assn.'s Mill Valley office at 130 Throckmorton avenue.

Personally, said Blackwell, he doesn't approve of the bells, but "there is no ordinance against their ringing."

And he hastened to add that the loan company told him it had received many call from people who like the carillon.

City Manager A. E. Almcrants read letters opposing the carillon from Jim Peterson of 40 Woodside Drive and Mrs. Paul Fourman of 70 Woodbine Drive. Peterson's letter called the bell-ringing "violation of privacy . . . advertising in the peculiar guise of a public service."

Blackwell said the loan company "has indicated it will be delighted to stop the music if a sufficient number of people want them stopped and inform the company."

The council decided to let it go at that.

Proof that not everyone dislikes the bells came today to the Independent-Journal in a copy of a letter sent by employees of Mayer's Department store to the Northwestern Savings and Loan Assn. Twenty-five persons signed the letter, which said: "We, who work in the area where we can hear your carillon, enjoy every note . . . It is impossible to understand how anyone can find your lovely bells offensive."

REHABILITATION STRESSED

Hospital, Farm Bonds Backed By Panelists

Marin County's elderly folk should be given every chance to forge their way back into the main channels of life, County Administrator Donald A. Jensen said on radio station KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board" today.

"No one should be just crossed off and put into a bed to stay," said Jensen in stressing that the problem of the aged has recently grown more pressing because of greater life expectancy, and current indications are it will increase still further in the future.

Jensen and three others discussed the proposed two-million-dollar bond issue for the Marin County Hospital and farm to be voted on at the June 7 election. Kitty Oppenheimer had a tougher task than usual as moderator because there was no argument except for some critical queries answered during the question period.

It was brought out that County Clerk George S. Jones obtained no opposing view for inclusion with the ballot information. This was stressed by both Jensen and by Fred F. Enemark, chairman of the citizens' committee for the bond issue, in declaring one questioner off base when he indicated that there had been a Marin County Taxpayers Assn. expression against the bonds.

Enemark dealt mainly with the financial aspects and said a bond issue would be "far and away the best and cheapest way to finance" the job. "Leasing would cost at least one-third of a million dollars more," he said.

Enemark said the projected cost of $9,500 per bed will be about one-third the usual cost, also that provision of 175 beds for the indigent sick and aged would be the "Central core of a plan for the future" with the expectation that 315 beds will be needed by 1990.

Describing the architectural aspects, Eugene Crawford of Crawford and Banning, designers of the proposed building, said it will be of single-story residential design planned to "Permit a vigorous rehabilitation program . . . to prolong the period of usefulness of our senior citizens.

"This should get people back on their feet and out of county care rather than let them vegetate."

To a question about the present structure, Crawford said "the county is on borrowed time." He forecast that if replacement is not speedily scheduled, the Bureau of Hospitals and the state fire marshal "Will crack down" because of substandard unsafe conditions.

Dan C. Davis, treasurer of the citizens' committee, said the bond issue "Gets down to the factor of economics. It is decidedly to the interest of the citizens of Marin because it means a saving in future taxes."

If the public gets full facts, the bond issue will be passed, Davis forecast.

Questioned about unusual features of the plan, Crawford termed it "essentially sound, and unusual in that it is so flexible and geared to cope with developments of the future. There have been drastic changes in such care during recent years and we may expect more which this plan can handle easily and economically."

Jensen stressed, in response to a question that "acute care" can still be best provided in other hospitals.

Questioned as to whether husband-and-wife provision will be made, Crawford said this wasn't considered medically advisable, would be costly, and would reduce flexibility of facilities.

Enemark pointed out that it is felt best to maintain husbands and wives in familiar surroundings if they are not ill.

To a question as to why transients should be taken in while residents aren't "unless they sell their property," Jensen pointed out that state law allows a lien against property but said "there never has been a case where an individual has been forced to sell his home." Transients, he said, are returned to their home areas.

The program was tape-recorded and will be rebroadcast at 12:30 p.m. Sunday.

San Rafael Recreation Board Meet Canceled

San Rafael Recreation and Park Commission will not hold its regular meeting this month, Recreation Director Joseph Rodota reported today.

The next reglar meeting of the commission will be June 29 at 8 p.m. in the San Rafael City Hall.

Widening Of Strawberry Road Rapped

Four residents of Ricardo Road in Strawberry protested the proposed widening of their road at last night's meeting of the Strawberry Recreation District and indicated they would push the complaint further by writing to the county planning commission.

Warren Ringen of 104 Ricardo Road, a spokesman, said the widening proposed by the planning commission would create a traffic hazard because it would speed up traffic on an already dangerous and steep road.

The planning commission, said president L. J. Smith of the recreation district, wishes to widen Ricardo Road from 24 feet to 40 feet on a portion between Belvedere Drive and the district's south boundary. The board of trustees said it felt a 28-foot road with a sidewalk on each side would be satisfactory.

The board approved a summer program budget of $3,100.

State Agency To Start Bomb Attack Aid Plan

CONCORD (UPI) — The State Department of Motor Vehicles will begin a registration plan in July designed to help reunite separated member of families following nuclear bomb attack.

Members at the regional meeting of the State Disaster Office outlined the plan yesterday for the vehicle department in keeping with Gov. Edmund G. Brown's policy that each staff agency should have a pre-arranged task in case of disaster.

Circuit Aide Visiting Witnesses

Verville G. Johnson, circuit minister and traveling representative of the Watchtower Society, is visiting the San Rafael Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses this week.

Johnson, under direction of the Watchtower Society's New York headquarters, directs and organizes the activity of Jehovah's Witnesses in the North Bay counties.

The week's activity includes house-to-house calls in San Rafael, San Anselmo and Fairfax. Johnson is accompanying local witnesses.

At 8 o'clock a.m. Saturday an audience participation Bible question period entitled "New Things Learned" will be held. A 30-minute discourse by Johnson dealing with improving the ministry will conclude the Saturday evening session.

Sunday at 3 p.m., Johnson will give a public talk, "What Does It Mean to be a Christian?"

All meetings will be held at the San Rafael Kingdom Hall at 10 Woodland Avenue.

Play Opens At Seminary

The newly formed Seminary Theater Circle, composed of students of the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo, gave its first performance last night of a play, "Sign of Jonah."

It will be repeated tomorrow at 8 p.m.

The play, directed by seminary student Jennette Gudgel, is a psycho-theological work in which the German playwright, Guenter Rutenborn, attempts to expose the guilt of Germany and the world for the atrocities of World War II.

The production in Alexander Hall at the seminary includes actor Alan Villesvick as Jonah, Wayne Purinton as judge, Tish Knox as Queen, George Johnson as Archangel Gabriel, John Shellenberger as Archangel Michael, Jim Speer as Archangel Raphael, Jon Sinclair as a merchant and Holly Bartges as an average woman and John Wedge as an average man.

Swimming Classes Resumed At Club

The Santa Venetia Swimming Club has resumed swimming classes for the summer, Mrs. Robert O'Connell, instructor, announced today.

Each course runs 10 days. Non-members as well as club members may register, said Mrs. O'Connell. Classes for mothers and pre-school children began Monday, and classes for those of school age will be started when summer vacation begins.

The school is located at 100 Granlee Road, Santa Venetia.

Amateur Radio Club To Meet Tomorrow

Members of the Tamalpais Amateur Radio Club will meet at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Novato Veterans of Foreign Wars Hall to continue preparation of plans for location of a club station in Novato.

The station would be used in civil defense exercises. Members participate in mobile transmitter hunts in Marin every Saturday night. The club also offers code practice for beginning "hams."

PICKPOCKETS PREYING ON GIANT FANS

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Candlestick Park, where major leaguers try to steal bases, is also becoming a "pickpocket's paradise," according to Public Utilities Commissioner Thomas White.

White said he had heard "many anguished cries" going up all about him recently as departing fans suddenly discovered loss of their wallets.

He suggested that the Municipal Railway service try to load its buses faster after games to cut down on the time pickpockets can mingle in the crowd.

Supervisorial Candidates Asked To Talk

The recently organized San Anselmo Citizens for Good Government will sponsor a Second Supervisorial District candidates' night at 8 p.m. next Wednesday at the Isabel Cook School, San Anselmo.

Dwight A. Nelson, chairman of the organization's platform and policy committee, said candidates H. W. Killian of Greenbrae and Frederic D. Kerr of Ross have accepted invitations to appear at the meeting. Nelson said incumbent William D. Fusselman has not yet indicated whether he will attend.

Mrs. Ward Duffy of Fairfax, a former chairman of the League of Women Voters, will be moderator. Russell Spatz, vice chairman of the good government organization, will be chairman.

Nelson urged all voters in the district to attend. The district includes Fairfax, Sleepy Hollow, San Anselmo, Ross, Kentfield, Greenbrae, San Quentin, Lomita Park, Larkspur and Corte Madera.

He said the meeting will give candidates the opportunity to discuss issues "affecting the local citizen as well as analyze those potentially in the offing, review qualifications and state a program of objectives.

"It is known," said Nelson, "that one of the prime questions to be posed will be concerned with county support of an idea gaining wide support among taxpayers that consolidated government of groups of small communities is a solution for those faced with taxpayer revolt as costs of local city governments continue to increase."

Dinner To Honor Congressman Set For Next Thursday

Rep. Clement W. Miller, seeking re-election from the First Congressional District, will be honored at a fund-raising campaign dinner, sponsored by prominent Marin Democrats, next Thursday at the Bermuda Palms Motel in San Rafael.

Miller, who is unopposed for the Democratic nomination, will fly from Washington for a tour of the district before the June primaries. He will be the main speaker at the dinner.

The fund-raising event will cost $6 per plate and is slated to begin at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are available from the Marin Democratic Headquarters in San Rafael.

MARINITE TESTIFIES

Pay-TV Explained To Assembly Committee

Hal H. Schwartz of 189 Miller Avenue, Mill Valley, told an interim state assembly committee in San Francisco yesterday of how Angel Toll Vision planned to finance television programs without advertising but backed by sale of tickets.

Other witnesses before the eight-man committee on public utilities and corporations included Matthew M. Fox, president of Tolvision, Inc., and Chester I. Lappen, general counsel and vice president of International Tolemeter Co., who agreed that pay and commercial TV could co-exist peacefully and prosperously.

Fox described a closed circuit plan whereby bills would be worked out by combination of automatic scanner and computer, checking as to which sets were on and what programs were being watched.

An attachment to the antenna base, weighing six pounds, could make available three TV channels and two audio channels for music. He said that after spending six million dollars his company is physically ready.

Lappen said his company has already successfully introduced pay television to West Toronto, Canada, using a coaxial cable taking three channels to each user. In this system coins must be used with two of the channels offering first-run pictures and hockey at a usual $1 cost while the third channel offers local programs free.

Schwartz complained he had not received answer to questions he submitted to the committee at its Los Angeles hearing last November.

Chairman Rex M. Cunningham disclaimed knowledge of the matter and asked, "What were the questions about?"

"Well, the questions were why the committee had raised questions as to public integrity," said Schwartz.

"There were no such questions raised," Cunningham retorted.

Schwartz then told Cunningham the committee had interrogated him "very strongly on how our system would take care of free riders."

This led to explanation of how Angel Toll Vision proposed to operate.

The plan would be to finance programs by "pre-subscription," Schwartz said. Viewers would vote on proposed programs, agreeing to be charged either against credit cards issued by Angel Toll Vision or through charges against their phone numbers.

Angel Toll Vision would advise commercial broadcasting companies when it had enough subscription orders to finance a given program. If insufficient support were gained the program would not be given and no charges would be made against intending subscribers.

The committee's only other meeting was held in Los Angeles and at the conclusion of yesterday's hearing, Cunningham said it will not meet again.

DRUGS

California Newspaper Publishers Assn.

Craemer said he was afraid the amendment could be used to restrict newspaper advertising placed by drug stores.

McCarthy read an opinion handed down by the legislative counsel's office in Sacramento that the board does not have authority to prohibit drug stores from advertising prescription drugs by name.

The Drake Pharmacy of San Anselmo has been advertising in the Independent-Journal the names of drugs and their prices.

The amendment provided that "No pharmacist should make, permit to be made, conduct or otherwise participate in advertising of professional services in violation" of the state Business and Professions Code, and advertising "shall be considered misleading if, although true, it has the tendency to deceive the public."

Nielsen contended the amendment allows the board to impose disciplinary action on members of the profession while the state Business and Professions Code only provides for criminal action. He said "Each case would depend on its own facts" when considered by the board.

The amendment was endorsed by Hegland, while Carlyle Reed of San Diego and Kenneth McGilray of Sacramento, CNPA representatives, urged that offenders be called before the board only after a criminal conviction because of the difficulty of determining false and misleading advertising.

Donald Levine, representing 400 students of the University of Southern California School of Pharmacy, objected to the amendment. He contends it "add no additional power to the board and only re-enforces the state professions code."

William Cole, representing Mrs. Nelson, told the board the amendment "appears to be all right," but he urged a delay in adoption to allow the consumer counsel additional time to study it.

In a statement placed before the board by Cole, Mrs. Nelson charged that the original proposal could be used in the future "to limit even further the trickle of facts our druggists are now permitted to give us."

"We have laws in California governing false and misleading advertising wherever they occur," said Mrs. Nelson. "I cannot perceive any reason why we, as consumers, need more and special protection from our pharmacists . . . This proposed regulation denies the druggist the right to give customers and potential customers information they need to be discriminating customers."

Exposure Charge Dropped Against San Rafael Man

A charge of indecent exposure was dropped yesterday against William Peter Sculley, 63, of 1 West End Avenue, San Rafael, because the victim, a teen-age girl, could not identify him as the offender.

The girl, aged 13, took the stand yesterday before Judge Leonard A. Thomas of Marin Municipal Court and described the man she had seen as dark-haired, thin and tall. The description does not fit Sculley.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Roger P Garety moved for dismissal of the case because identification could not be made.

The girl and a companion told police they were walking near West End Avenue on the evening of May 11 when they saw a man exposing himself in the window of Sculley's home. Sculley denied the charge and explained that a friend was visiting his home about the time of the alleged incident.

Crash Hurts Marin Man

A Corte Madera man was treated for bruises at Marin General Hospital last night after a car in which he and his wife were driving overturned in a sideswipe accident on Paradise Drive.

A car occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Paul P. Sink Jr. of 105 Sonora Way, struck a vehicle driven by Daniel Coleman, a San Francisco engineer, when Sink's car went out of control in a skid on the soft shoulder of the road, reported Sgt. David McIntosh of the Corte Madera Police Department.

Mrs. Sink was not injured, nor was Coleman.

Sink was cited for driving with an expired operator's license, McIntosh said.

Reconstruction work is under way on the section of Paradise Drive where the accident happened.

Deer Park School In Fairfax Burglarized

A burglar prowled through Deer Park School in Fairfax last night, strewing papers around the rooms and lighting a fire in an archway in one of the classrooms, sheriff's deputies reported today.

Raymond L. Cox, maintenance man at the school, discovered the break-in at 6 p.m. yesterday.

Teachers To Get Pay Hikes In Kentfield

Kentfield School District trustees last night approved salary raises for teachers, a little less than the 3 per cent asked by the Ross Valley Teachers Assn.

A total of $100 was added to each salary grade in the first five salary classes, and $25 increments were added to the other grades so the total highest raise in grade five will be $200.

Supt. Harold R. DePue had recommended a 4 per cent increase. He said the schedule adopted last night, at an adjourned meeting, was presented by Trustee George McKenna of Greenbrae, and represented approximately a 2.9 per cent increase.

The board also approved paying $300 extra to two full-time teachers who will be assistant principals at Greenbrae and Wolfe Grade Schools. Each will work two extra weeks each year, in addition to taking on principalship duties.

At the same time trustees gave final approval to the following salaries: DePue, $13,500 ($500 less than he is paid as superintendent of the confederated San Anselmo, Kentfield and Fairfax districts); $10,800 to the administrative assistant for instruction, Anthony Bacich, who also will take over the rapid learner program; $10,300 to George Renworth, principal at Kent, and Kenneth Preble Jr., principal at Wolfe Grade.

SUMMIT

the spy plane issue in the United Nations.

The Security Council will meet by Monday to consider the charges of aggression.

In the meantime, U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold poured oil on troubled waters. He said he does not believe the danger of war was increased by the collapse of the summit parley, although the chance of a war starting "by accident or incident" always is present.

Secretary of State Herter, who flies home tomorrow, spoke for the West at the NATO ministers' meeting and said the United States was convinced Russia would have forced the collapse of the summit meeting even if the spy plane incident had not occurred.

Herter repeated what already had been stated by Russia—that these flights had been going on for four years.

Powerful forces in the Soviet hierarchy were demanding an end to the "personal diplomacy" of the ebullient Khrushchev, he said, because they felt his friendly approach was weakening the Soviet bloc without winning it anything in return from the West.

Sources reported the gist of Herter's evaluation of the reasons for the sudden appearance on the diplomatic scene of a truculent Khrushchev ready to scrap the summit with an ultimatum for an American apology that he knew would not be made.

If the U-2 incident had not happened, the Soviets would have found another pretext, Herter said.

Some American officials said privately they believed Soviet Defense Minister Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky was sent along to Paris to see to it that Khrushchev did not hold any intimate talks with Western leaders. Everywhere in Paris that Khrushchev went, Malinovsky was sure to go, too.

The NATO allies braced for a new cold war chill. The Soviet bloc was rallying to the Kremlin cause and Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai took pains today to hail the Khrushchev stand.

The West closed out its attempt to bring the world peace with Eisenhower's statement that the allies were "even closer than before in determined pursuit of peace with justice."

BEV ADLAND SENT TO HOME OF PREACHER

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Blonde Beverly Adland, 17-year-old playmate of the late actor Errol Flynn, today was ordered placed in the home of a cowboy-actor turned preacher.

Superior Court Judge Allen Miller ended a week-long hearing on sex delinquency charges against the teen-ager by granting the application of Rev. Leonard Eilers and his wife to take her into their home.

Eilers has accompanied Beverly's mother, Mrs. Florence Adland, 53, regularly to court and given the troubled girl some of evangelist Billy Graham's books to read.

Labor Group Challenges Candidate

J. Walter Blair, candidate for county supervisor from Southern Marin, was sharply challenged on his labor policies at a meeting of the Marin Committee for Political Education (CIO-AFL), last night in San Rafael.

Lawrence Palacios, business agent for Laundry Workers Union Local 26, challenged Blair for having signed a "right-to-work" petition in 1958.

The Laundry Workers Union last year picketed one of Blair's self-service laundries in San Rafael until forbidden to do so by a superior court injunction. The appellate court has reversed the superior court in the case, it was learned today.

All but one of the county's supervisorial candidates appeared at the COPE meeting. Speaking were Mrs. Vera Schultz, incumbent and Blair's opponent in District 3; William D. Fusselman (incumbent), Frederic D. Kerr and Harvey W. Killian, District 2, and James H. Marshall (incumbent), District 4. Marshall's opponent, George H. Ludy, was not present.

Also speaking were John F. McCarthy, incumbent Republican, and Charles M. Geller, his Democratic opponent for Marin's state senate seat.

James Smith, COPE president, conducted the meeting.

Killer's Unique Petition Gets Quick Denial

Los Angeles cop killer Marion James Linden, 46, asked for a grand jury investigation of San Quentin Warden Fred R. Dickson yesterday in his latest attempt to halt his execution.

Judge Thomas F. Keating of Marin Superior Court received Linden's petition for a writ of prohibition at 9:36 a.m. and refused the writ at 11:07 a.m.

Linden, quoting from newspaper accounts of Caryl Chessman's execution last May 2, contended that a federal judge in San Francisco ordered a stay of execution for Chessman for at least another half hour. Linden contends that the order was received seconds before pellets were dropped, and there was time for the execution to be stopped. Even if the pellets had been dropped, Warden Dickson should have made effort to rid the chamber of gas and revive Chessman, Linden alleges.

Linden contended that at the moment the federal judge ordered a stay, Chessman's life came under federal jurisdiction, and Warden Dickson committed a crime in not halting the execution or trying to administer aid to Chessman to save his life.

Linden was scheduled to die last Aug. 7, but a stay of execution was issued on Aug. 6 by the U. S. District Court and has not yet been vacated, according to Warden Dickson.

Reed District Board Eyes Survey Report

By CORENA GREEN

For three years the Reed School District has been involved in a program of self evaluation.

Objectives were established, questionnaires were answered by the parents, and the results were handed to San Francisco State College for evaluation. Last night at a membership meeting of the Reed District Parent-Teacher Club, the board of trustees evaluated the evaluator.

Proposals of the team from the college centered on one basic idea: to improve learning in the classroom through a systematic plan for school expansion.

PROPOSALS USED

Many of the proposals which the college recommended have already been put into use, others rejected, according to Supt. Paul R. Stouffer.

Among those in use are teacher participation in curriculum development and increased use of supplies. Through state aid $18,000 in maps, globes, projectors and microscopes have been acquired, he reported. Many recommended facilities have been added, such as an all-purpose room and library at Bel Aire School, Stouffer said.

TOP PRIORITY

A material service center from which teachers could obtain materials will be given top priority, Stouffer said.

A recommended fulltime curriculum consultant was rejected by the board in favor of another plan, Stouffer reported. "The time will come when size-wize such a consultant is needed. At present the consulting is done at the various grade levels," he said.

The report further recommended establishment of a committee to evaluate the goals that have been set up.

'SHORTSIGHTED'

The survey reported "shortsighted" resistance on the part of the district to the use of "sociometric" tests. Challenged on this point by Burton Jacobson of Belvedere, Stouffer said the staff had objected to certain questions in the test.

Jacobson also challenged Stouffer's statement "science has been taught all too well. We could have managed without some of the discoveries of the physicists. Concentration on a study of the humanities might have borne more fruit."

NO ANSWER

Stouffer's statement was in answer to a recommendation in the report that the curriculum is too limited for the needs of pupils in the Reed district.

Stouffer, said he feels there is room for improvement in the "social studies" field which the report termed inadequate, particularly at the primary level.

The board came in for a share of criticism from the college survey. Trustee Alfred J. Azevedo, who heads a San Francisco adult school, suggested the criticism stemmed from the fact that board meetings were conducted informally.

MEETING

mation bureaus, which are being conducted in all areas affected, attracting only the usual number of taxpayers. In Tiburon and Homestead-Tamalpais Valleys, only a "normal number" attended, he said. It became a campaign issue just before the Mill Valley bureau opened and that meeting was doubled in size, Broemmel declared. Last night in Larkspur-Corte Madera, not in the affected supervisorial district, the number again was "normal," he said.

County Counsel Leland H. Jordan said he has accepted the invitation to be present at Saturday's meeting.

Disc Jockeys Arrested On Bribe Counts

NEW YORK (UPI)—Five disc jockeys who allegedly accepted payola were among seven persons arrested today on a grand jury information charging commercial bribery.

All seven were charged with taking graft payments from recording companies and distributors in return for promises to plug recordings.

Alan Freed, sometimes called the father of rock 'n' roll, was charged with 26 counts in two informations. He was accused of accepting $10,000 from a recording company in 1958 and with taking bribes of $20,650 from six other companies in 1958 and 1959.

Freed now is a disc jockey for station KDAY in Los Angeles. He was fired from WABC-TV in New York when he refused to sign a statement that he had not taken payola.

The others accused of accepting commercial bribes are Peter Tripp, station WMGM; Mel Leeds, station manager for station KDAY; Tommy Smalls, disc jockey for station WWRL; Harold B. Jackson, disc jockey for WLIB; Jack Walker, disc jockey for station WOV, and Joseph Saccone, recording librarian for WMGM until last March.

RESCUE OPERATIONS

Five Injured On Icy Mt. McKinley

Valiant efforts were being made today to save five persons who lie injured and helpless on the icy slopes of Mt. McKinley in Alaska.

Rescue workers, all being coordinated through the Rescue Control Center of the Fourth Air Force at Hamilton Air Force Base, were trying to reach the five at the 18,300-foot level of the 20,320-foot mountain — North America's highest peak.

Early today, rescue center officers diverted a Military Air Transport Service C-124 Globemaster to Seattle to pick up a team from the Seattle Mountain Rescue Council. A group of about 40 was to start from the 6,000-foot level to climb the mountain.

Four of the injured five, John Day, 50, Pete Schoening, 30, and James and Lou Whittaker, 31-year-old twins were members of a Pacific Northwest mountain climbing party led by Day. The fifth injured person, Mrs. Helga Bading, 31, was a member of another group led by Paul Crews of Anchorage.

All were described as in "very serious conidtion," reported United Press International.

Rescue operations were called off last night after a bush pilot dropped batteries, a stove and a tent to the victims.

Earlier attempts yesterday to take the injured from the mountain were thwarted when a helicopter pilot failed to locate the accident scene. Another rescue try almost ended in tragedy for the 'copter pilot when his machine caught fire. The pilot was able to get his craft back to its home base at Fort Greeley, 72 miles from the mountain, and avert disaster.

Officers at Hamilton explained that ordinarily it is impossible for a helicopter to operate at such high altitudes.

Reds Scale Everest From The Hard Side

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Unconfirmed reports today said the Chinese communists and a team of Russians had beaten out an Indian team in a race to the summit of 29,028-foot Mount Everest—the first time the mighty peak has been scaled from the almost straight-up Chinese side.

A radio message from Katmandu also said a joint British-Indian-Nepalese expedition had conquered previously unclimbed Annapurna-2, the 26,041-foot neighbor of the Annapurna made famous by Maurice Herzog.

A Katmandu dispatch said a team of Chinese approached the Everest peak from the "impossibly steep" north side in an effort to strengthen recent Chinese communist claims to the peak on the Nepal-Tibetan border.

A broadcast today from Radio Pakistan said the Chinese and Russians had reached the top. A rival Indian delegation was last reported at the 25,850-foot level May 11 on the south col, halted temporarily by bad weather.

There was no official confirmation of the reports.

Pioneer Passes For A New Try At Letting People Know

This week there was a change on the airwaves. We mention it here because it not only marked the passing of an old pioneering friend of many of us, but also initiates a new and exciting service in news dissemination.

Gone from the air are the call letters KJBS. We'll miss them. KJBS was one of the pioneer stations of the Bay Area. We can recall sitting before a crystal set wearing a pair of earphones and finally hitting the right spot with the cat's whisker to hear those call letters.

Not since KPO also disappeared do we recall a similar nostalgic, the breaking of one more link with "the olden days" of radio.

Now, instead of KJBS, the identification will be KFAX, an obvious play on the word "facts," because this is to be an "all news" station.

KFAX plans a full program of world, national and local news reports, commentaries, sports news, in-depth reports, entertainment news, news of food, travel, the weather and women. In fact, except for commercials spaced in between, there will be nothing but news, not a single disk jockey.

We welcome this type of a station to the airways. We believe that the more news people will absorb, the better. KFAX is making a brave new stab at reaching people with things they should know more about.

We aren't afraid that if this catches on that people will stop reading the newspapers. Many publishers were afraid of just this when radio first became an important medium of mass communication. But it didn't work out that way. The more people hear about the world we live in, the more they want to read about it. The sooner all the people of the world can learn as much as possible about each other, their habits, dreams, and ideals the sooner we will find a common meeting ground. The sooner we'll find true world peace.

It may be significant that KFAX began broadcasting just as the summit meeting was becoming bogged down in misunderstanding. We don't know if a venture such as KFAX can succeed. Time will tell. We wish it every good luck.

Tell Us About Your Trip—Briefly

This summer countless Marinites will vacation in this country and abroad. When they return, their minds will be full of the wonders they have seen. Prick them and they will bubble over with talk.

When you return from your vacation this year and somebody says, "Tell me about your trip—," beware! Unless he is going where you have been, or has been there recently, he's probably no more interested in your trip than one dog is in another's fleas.

The gift of enthusiasm is a wonderful thing, but expended recounting one's vacation, blow by blow, it can be a bore. Most listeners will yawn about the story of when the bear chased grandma, unless, of course, it caught her.

Moral: After a good trip keep a tight lip, unless your friends are frantic. To do more is often a bore.

BABY GIRL STARTS FOR MOON

Two-and-a-half-year-old Eileen decided to take off for the moon when she got bored playing in her backyard. Her trip into space consisted of climbing a 50-foot television antenna tower which was next to her home.

When she had nearly reached the top her 4-year-old sister, Diane, spotted her. The older child's screams brought her mother rushing to the scene.

After scaling the tower, she clutched her daring daughter with one arm and clung to the metal girders with the other.

When firemen got them back on solid ground, the mother collapsed. But little Eileen was completely unperturbed and simply said: "I'll never go to the moon again, Mommy. Not until I get big!"

The generous share of enthusiasm and enterprise instilled in children by the Almighty needs guidance and direction. But make sure that it is properly harnessed and channeled, not suppressed or stifled.

"All thy children shall be taught of the Lord; and great shall be the peace of thy children." (Isaias 54-13)

Bless all children, O divine Master, with big vision and daring for all that is good.

When You Have Cold, You Need Fewer Friends With 'Sure Cures'

NEW YORK (AP) — So you are just waiting your turn at the office water cooler, and you sneeze, and a friend says:

"You got a spring cold. If I were you, I'd take some hexylphlojulep."

"What's that?"

"A new miracle drug. Knocks out a cold before it gets started."

So you go to the drug store and the pharmacist says, "Hexylphlojulep? Sure. It is $8 an ounce. A word of warning: This is a very powerful medicine. If you get any side effects, better discontinue it at once."

"What do you mean — side effects?"

"Well, for example, you might hear strange sounds."

Then you go over to the soda counter, get a glass of water and take a big gulp of medicine. The next thing you hear is a plaintive voice in your head saying, "I am Judge Crater. Where is everybody?"

Unnerved, you throw the medicine away.

You should have learned your lesson by now, but you haven't. Over the next five days you try the following sure-cure cold remedies suggested by office pals:

1. Drinking cold buttermilk while taking a hot shower.

2. A jar of pickled herring mixed with equal parts of honey and lemon.

3. Three glasses daily of a concoction made up of bourbon, vinegar, and a tablespoonful of bicarbonate of soda.

4. A bedtime slug made of equal parts of vodka, epsom salts and maple syrup.

5. A MIXTURE made by stirring a few drops or pills from every bottle in your medicine cabinet into a glass of steaming sauerkraut juice.

On the eighth day you collapse at your desk. You wake up to find yourself in a hospital, and a doctor standing beside you just putting down a stomach pump.

"Is my cold any better, Doc?" you ask weakly.

"Cold?" he replies, puzzled.

"YOU DON'T have any cold. What you do have is one of the worst cases of stomach fatigue in the history of medicine."

The trouble is that the rest of your life you are left wondering about which remedy really worked. How did you cure your cold?

County Can't Build Schools

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

In connection with the Civic Center project, I am hearing the expression of opinion that Marin would be better off to use the money to build ten more schools. May I observe that this is like comparing eggs with shoestrings. Let me recite a couple of ABCs.

Schools cannot be financed by a county. They are bought through school districts, uncontrolled by county management.

The Civic Center will be admirably financed. Part of the site (no small part, either) will be paid for by the state from race-track profits accumulated some 30 years. A lot of the remainder needed has already been accumulated in the Treasury — the county will not be paying a nickel in bond interest on that.

Finally, when the center can be occupied, the county can stop paying out $60,000 a year in rent!

I think Marin can thank its luck in having elected and retained people with the brains and foresight to handle its affairs so well.

HISTORIC MILESTONE

U.S., California Agree On Joint Water Plan

By JERRY HARRELL

SACRAMENTO (AP) — An agreement has been signed paving the way for coordinated operation of state and federal water projects on the Sacramento River system.

Officials of the State Water Resources Department and the U. S. Bureau of Reclamation called it "historic" and "a milestone in state-federal relationships."

Harvey O. Banks, state water resources director, said the pact removes any possibility of a "legal cloud" over the state's rights to sufficient water for the Feather River Project.

THE AGREEMENT — the first between the United States and a state — is aimed at assuring equitable distribution to customers of the federal Central Valley Project and the state Feather River and Delta Diversion System.

The agreement, signed by the bureau and the department at the Capitol Monday, provides:

The Central Valley Project needs 8,300,000 acre-feet a year in the Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta, and the state 5,260,000 feet.

In dry years, when available water falls below those levels, apportionment to the two systems will be pro-rated.

The state will support federal filings for permits to unappropriated water on the Sacramento and in the Delta.

The Bureau of Reclamation will not protest state filings for the Feather River and Delta Diversion projects.

THE TWO agencies will continue to exchange plans and operations data and set out specific details of the coordinated operation.

Private parties' filings on the affected waters won't be affected by the agreement.

Hugh P. Dugan, regional director of the Bureau of Reclamation signed the agreement for the federal government.

He said the agreement is the foundation for a series of more detailed agreements on the operation of the two big water systems.

"It's simply an agreement on the use of water in the Delta," he told a reporter.

Banks, who signed for the state, said:

"This agreement, in my opinion, erases all doubt over the capabilities of the bureau's Central Valley Project and the state's Delta Diversion projects to satisfy water service deliveries contemplated in the planning of the two projects."

The federal government supplies many San Joaquin Valley points with water diverted from the Delta. The Delta is to be the pool for state water transported from the north to the south under the state water plan.

THE STATE'S water requirement in the agreement includes 2,100,000 acre-feet a year for storage in the San Luis Reservoir, planned as joint federal-state storage project.

The agreement is not related to a separate suit over Fresno water in which the federal government claims it owns all unappropriated water in California.

"The agreement has no relation to existing suits," Dugan said.

Need First-Rate U.S. President

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

When, oh when, is everybody going to wake from their slumber of peace and prosperity and begin to think seriously about having a man of great stature and ability elected to the office of President of the United States for the next four (perhaps eight) years?

Americans should be looking for inspirational leadership and greatness in their next President, but instead seem to be settling for second best. The two political parties aren't far behind, and the press seems to be increasingly overawed by the candidate who wins the latest popularity contest.

To find a "winner" at any cost seems to be the prevailing need of this election year. But will America be the real winner in the years hence with a Mr. Nixon or a Mr. Kennedy in the White House, and our two best men — Mr. Stevenson and Mr. Rockefeller — shunted aside by election year apathy and indifference?

It's about time a lot of us forgot about such outdated and self-defeating slogans as "two-time loser" and "can't win," and demand for ourselves a really first-rate choice for President this year.

TRY AND STOP ME

BENNETT CERF

A couple of female golfers had taken two hours to play seven holes, and their caddy — not to mention the male foursome behind them — was on the verge of an apoplectic fit. The eighth was a 3-par water hole. One woman dribbled her ball down the hill to the foot of the pond (it was 40 yards across) and asked the caddy, "What club should I use?"

"That's the green right over the pond," said the caddy. "A number nine should get you there."

The lady didn't think too much of this suggestion. First she pulled a number seven iron out of her bag, then a spoon — and then she finally made up her mind.

"You know what I'm going to do?" she announced. "I'm going to carry my ball across." And she did.

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

South Marin Taxpayers Revolt, Labor Housing Lack Are Similar

There's a taxpayers' revolt in Southern Marin; Marin County Labor Council reports a major share of Marin's working force lives elsewhere because the union members can't afford to live here.

Maybe there's a connection between the two.

Contention of those circulating petitions against the reappraisal of Southern Marin properties is that the valuations are set so high that those with rental properties cannot realize a living from them without hiking the rents too high.

CONTENTION of the union members is that rents in Marin already are too high.

County Assessor Bert W. Broemmel says the market, not the assessor's office, fixes the values. He is appraising, as the law requires, at "fair market value," he maintains.

Union members say they can't afford to buy homes they help build in Marin. The price tags are too high.

This would seem to bear out Broemmel's contention regarding the market.

It may, also, point up two other factors:

1. APPRAISING for tax purposes at actual market value may end the era of fat-and-easy profits from real estate in Marin. Many of the same persons complaining of increased taxes resulting from increased appraisals have long regarded Marin real estate as a sure thing for quick turnover at inflated profits any time a sale was desired.

2. There is something radically wrong with the economy of a county which can't house the workers it employs while construction is its principal industry.

THE MOVE to create a public works department for the City of San Anselmo may have some unexpected side issues.

One of them may be that Carmel Booth, who has dedicated years to her home city, may move elsewhere.

Prior to the April municipal elections, a rumor was started that Mrs. Booth and her husband, James, planned to sell their San Anselmo home.

She denied it then. She won't flatly deny it now. They reportedly have their eyes on Lake County, where they often go vacationing. Booth, a painter, can work there just as well as here.

INCIDENTALLY, the public works department may not prove quite such a money-saver as City Administrator Douglas Flautt predicts.

But scarcely anybody could contend that Nello Marcucci, with a second fire station about to be built, has time to be public works boss, building inspector and fire chief all at once.

Marcucci fought the public works director idea when it was advanced by then-City Manager Arthur W. Brewer. Now he says, "I don't care one way or the other. I'm going to retire in three years anyhow."

As originally urged by City Councilman Carleton G. Little, the public works director job would also abolish the part-time city engineer job of John C. Oglesby.

This reporter happened to be covering the Daly City Council for another newspaper when it abolished a fee-system city engineer set-up (with the job held by Edwin M. Smith) in favor of a fulltime public works director and city engineer.

Smith's fees for his last year as Daly City engineer totaled about $22,000. The council thought that was a great deal of money.

First year's costs of the city operated engineering department totaled about $24,000.

IN 3-SIDED STRUGGLE

K May Be Fighting To Hold Red Control

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

PARIS (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev's performance at the summit meeting that failed to get off the ground indicates he is engaged in a struggle to maintain his claim to lead world communism.

Because of that, a new cold war freeze may be in prospect comparable even to the dangerous 1948 Stalin days of the Berlin blockade.

Unless he got an apology from the President of the United States, Khrushchev insisted, he could not negotiate with the U. S. President. This, he added in an aside, was a matter involving the internal politics of the Soviet Union.

The implication is that Khrushchev is engaged in a three-sided struggle with (1) the Stalinists, (2) the military and (3) the Chinese Communists, who have been nagging him for what appear to them to be reckless adventures in peace making.

KHRUSHCHEV, destroyer of the image of Stalin as a demigod, seems to have bowed to the Stalinists.

The Soviet chieftain has been required to kick overboard all he has built with great care over the past three years. Apparently, in the Stalinist and Red Chinese view, his peace gestures went much too far and threatened communism as a constantly moving, dynamic force.

Khrushchev for years has been fascinated by the idea of a Soviet Union so powerful and so economically prosperous that it could turn the world toward communism without exporting revolution or supporting it by overt force.

THIS HAS BEEN costly to Communists in various areas.

In the Arab nation of Iraq, for example, Communists felt strong enough months ago to make a grab for the whole country. They lacked only the assurance of Moscow's support. Khrushchev not only withheld it, he advised them against moving.

In other backward, formerly colonial countries, where communism places its best hopes for expansion, what looked like fairly cheap victories were sacrificed to Khrushchev's long-range peace offensive.

In quest of his sort of peace — one in which the Soviet Union, after bringing about a degree of nuclear and other disarmament, would still be in a position to dictate terms to the rest of the world — Khrushchev also pared the strength of the Soviet army and ran into opposition there.

THIS HAS increased the domestic pressure, apparently, on the Soviet leader. It is noticeable, Western experts say, in the ranks of the officers particularly. About 250,000 of them are marked for demobilization. Many are slated to move from the comfortable, caste-system life of the Soviet officer class to jobs in still dreary farm or industrial areas.

The fuss Khrushchev raised about the American intelligence plane was far out of proportion to its importance unless he really was anxious to blow up the summit.

KHRUSHCHEV, in a sense, may himself have been the object of an ultimatum. That is, he could carry on his peace campaign in the West only if he could come home with an apology from President Eisenhower and a promise never to use aerial intelligence near the Soviet Union again.

He may have won a round in his struggle at home if he can demonstrate that he put Eisenhower in his place, at least to the extent that the President suspended plans for future U.S. flights over Soviet territory.

But Khrushchev has suffered a severe reverse on the world stage.

FRIENDS NOW, BUT FOR HOW LONG?

A lion, a lamb and a goat generally wouldn't constitute a very peaceful trio. But these three at the Philadelphia Zoo are still too young to know any better, and they get along very well together. Zoo hostess Ava Wecht had her hands full with the three-week-old lion cub and the somewhat older lamb and goat as she displayed them for the photographer. (AP Wirephoto)

Russ Visitor Asks Asylum From British

EDINBURGH, Scotland (UPI)—A member of a Russian cultural delegation asked British police for political asylum today.

Government sources identified the Russian as Anatoly Nakashidze, 28, an engineer and industrial manager from Soviet Georgia.

Nakashidze, a member of a Soviet miners' delegation touring Scotland under a cultural exchange agreement, walked into an Edinburgh police station with his request, the sources said.

The Russian is married and has a six-year-old daughter, the sources said. His mother and two sisters live in Georgia.

The rest of the 30-member delegation of Soviet musicians and dancers discovered Nakashidze was missing when they checked out of a hotel prior to flying to London this morning.

Lawyer Tells Of Contacts With Power Commissioners

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Lawyer Thomas G. (Tommy the Cork) Corcoran testified today that he had been contacting members of the Federal Power Commission about utility cases for 10 years under both Republican and Democratic adminstrations.

The one-time New Deal "brain truster," now a $60,000 a year pipeline company lawyer, again defended his conduct as legal, perfectly proper and above board. He told House influence investigators he was surprised at this stage to hear his frequent FPC contacts "characterized as inappropriate."

The investigating subcommittee questioned Corcoran for the second day about off-the-record conversations he had last October with three FPC members about a pending decision on the petition of Midwestern Gas Transmission Co. to build a pipeline from Canada to the Midwest.

Corcoran insisted, as he did yesterday, that in these chats he did not discuss reasons why Midwestern should be allowed a 7 per cent rate of return on its investment—although he contended he would have had a legal right to do so if he desired.

Rep. John E. Moss (D-Calif.) asked if Corcoran regarded his conduct as in accordance with prevailing practice before the FPC. Corcoran said it was.

"All approaches for the purpose of expedition are part of the accepted practice before the commission at this time," he said.

Dr. Paul A. Siple recorded an officially accepted temperature of minus 102.1 degrees at the South Pole on Sept. 17, 1957.

Garden Hill Zoning Request Hits Snag

The Mill Valley City Council referred the request for rezoning a portion of Garden Hill subdivision from one-acre to 10,000-square-foot lots back to the planning commission last night.

The action was taken in spite of an angry, arm-waving attack by developer Manuel Gomez, who owns part of the proposed subdivision.

Gomez said he had been seeking the rezoning since November. "Why have you designated this property as the bugaboo of Mill Valley?" he demanded.

"Last meeting you told me something would be done this week . . . Now if the planning commission does not get its slope policy they would like to have the thing hashed back. They have raised my taxes again on the darned thing. How long should I wait—for the next race?"

The planning commission had granted the rezoning with a stipulation that, if the city council did not approve a proposed slope policy, the matter be sent back to the commission for reconsideration.

The council decided last night it would not accept the slope policy but would try to work out a slope ordinance. The policy, which Gomez said he favors, would have been effective on his subdivision if passed. It would increase lots in width and size according to increases in natural ground slope.

City Atty. Thomas C. Nelson said the slope policy should not be created in the proposed manner since it would enable the planning commission to change the ordinance whenever it saw fit.

The council decided that Councilman Michael Wornum, the city attorney and Planning Commission Chairman A. A. Hemmerling should meet to work out a slope ordinance.

Hemmerling said it was never the intention of the commission to rezone Gomez's property down to 10,000-square-foot lots without a slope policy or some other restriction.

Gomez was still angry but agreed to wait some more.

PLUMB CONFUSING

Catching This Suspect Was Lead Pipe Cinch

San Anselmo police were plumb confused by a Lagunitas plumber early today.

But not too confused, because they put Floyd Miller, 55, in jail.

Miller was observed backing his truck out of the driveway of Thomas Kelly at 11 San Rafael avenue at 12:10 a.m. He was pursued by a police car after Kelly said Floyd knocked down his fence.

Miller was taken into custody at the home of Policeman James Orr at 119 Scenic avenue. He had gone there, police said, to see whether Orr could fix a traffic ticket he had received Tuesday.

Miller couldn't tell police what he was doing in Kelly's driveway. And when he got to the county jail he said he didn't have the keys to his vehicle, that he had given them to a friend.

He was booked for hit-run driving involving property damage and driving without an operator's license (for which he had received a ticket Tuesday).

Police said Miller's driver's license had been revoked.

Brown Asks Hiring Of Apprentices

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Gov. Edmund G. Brown said today the skilled labor force in California has not kept up with industrial needs.

Speaking to the California conference on apprenticeship, Brown said he had been told that not more than 25 per cent of employers qualified to train apprentices actually have any apprentices on their payrolls.

The governor told conference delegates he hoped they would develop plans, "including incentive systems which will encourage more employers to open up apprenticeship opportunities for our youth."

S.R. 'Ideal' For State Tournament; Local Kids Star At Universities

San Rafael, as you probably read on page one of Monday's Independent-Journal, will become the semi-professional baseball capital of California this summer when it plays host to the state Semi-Pro Championships.

According to State Commissioner S. L. "Brick" Swegle, the National Baseball Congress has selected our Albert Field as the "ideal site" for the state tournament, so it looks like it will be a permanent fixture here.

The tournament will feature the outstanding crop of non-pro talent on about 16 to 20 teams from throughout the state. Each club is loaded to the hilt with ex-professionals and potential major leaguers. For example, five members of last year's runner-up team, the San Mateo Blues, went on to sign professional contracts.

Approximately 30 games will be played here, beginning with a double-header on Friday night, July 29, and ending with the state final playoff on Aug. 11. The winning team pockets, $1,000 cash and a trip to the national championships in Wichita, Kansas starting Aug. 19.

Since the Giants will be on the road most of the time the state playoffs are in action here, Marin fans can keep themselves entertained with top notch sandlot ball right in their own backyard.

Incidentally, hats off to the Parks and Recreation Commission, Director Joe Rodota and Dick Shirley of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce for helping convince the National Baseball Congress that San Rafael is indeed "ideal" for the big baseball show.

TWO OF OUR former local high school stars have done great things as freshmen in university.

They are trackster Doug Ketron, formerly of Drake High, and baseballer John Boccabella, the ex-Marin Catholic whiz.

Ketron last Saturday etched his name in three different record books with a great performance in the two-mile run at the Far Western Conference track and field championships at Chico. The University of Nevada freshman's 9 minute, 37 seconds clocking established modern records for the conference, university and Chico Stadium. Pushing him to the record was a runner named Lane from Sacramento who finished just one-tenth of a second behind Ketron in what was a dilly of a duel. Ketron took the lead on the sixth lap and held on for dear life.

The former Drake star also ran the mile, finishing fourth in 4:27.3.

Now, for Boccabella, a big, powerful yearling at Santa Clara.

John, who bypassed lucrative pro offers to further his education, had a banner year with the Santa Clara frosh ball club. On a team that won 24 games and lost only four, third baseman Boccabella led in hitting with 42 safeties in 89 attempts for a .471 average and led in runs batted in (45) and homers (10).

That Santa Clara infield, by the way, is a "dream" setup with Boc at third, Ernie Fazio at short, John Giovanola at second and Ken Flanagan at first. Each infielder batted over .400 during the season!

The academic report on Boccabella, too, is bright. He made the honor role in his major, Business Administration.

REDWOOD HIGH should be proud of its athletes, particularly the swimmers who recently won the Marin County League championship. Redwood is the only school in the swimming league without a pool, but Coach Paul Daly's kids were so dedicated to practice they borrowed whatever body of water they could find, including the tanks at rival Drake High and the Edgewater Inn, plus private pools. In the latter, the kids would start practice at 6 a.m.!

THE NAVE FAMILY of San Rafael, Bill Sr. and Jr., Bob and Rich, jetted to Chicago Sunday to attend the Brunswick Co.'s two-week school on bowling management and promotion. All this in preparation of the opening of the 32-lane, Nave Lanes at Ignacio, now scheduled for early September.

The Naves, incidentally, will visit with a fellow Marin Countian while in Chicago—Joe DeMaestri of San Anselmo who will be in the Windy City with the Yankees to play against the White Sox.

OUR SPIES tell us Sports Illustrated Magazine is preparing a feature on Gordon Tovani, the bare-footed place kicker from Kentfield who will tryout for a job with the Oakland Raiders in the new American Football League this summer.

AND SPEAKING of publications, the May issue of Athletic Journal discusses the theory behind the system used by Redwood High's 1959 championship football team.

"Adapting the Wing To the Unbalanced Line" was written by none other than Bob Troppman, Redwood's head coach. It is his eighth contribution to Athletic Journal since 1951. The prolific Troppman formerly authored opinions on drills, morale, music as stimulus to athletics, the place of the parents in an athletic program, multiple offenses and tackling.

SUGGESTED TITLE for one of those "mixed" leagues at local bowling houses — "Ball and Chain."

Manager Tom Coates of Greenbrae Lanes tells us he has 70 husband AND WIFE teams in league play each week.

KAYOS MARK OLYMPIC RING TRIALS

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The field was cut to 40 today as the nation's finest amateur boxers resumed the battle royal for a trip to Rome in the Olympic Boxing Tryouts at the Cow Palace

The crack leather pushers clash in the semi-finals tonight with the 10 final bouts slated for tomorrow night.

Off their quarterfinal showings, such favorites as Harry Campbell of Detroit; Cassius Clay of Louisville, and Vincent Shomo, of New York, were on the glory road.

They were heavy favorites and all came through with knock out victories over other champs last night.

Campbell probably was the most impressive. The ex-Army ace, now a freshman at San Jose State College, never even untracked his powerful right as he K.o'd Tommy Zangla, of Boston, in the first round with a stiff left ot the chin.

BANG-BANG . . . PLUNK

Campbell jabbed the Michigan ace a couple of dozen times with the left and then laid him out just before the bell.

Clay, a professional-type boxer and two-fisted puncher, disposed of Henry Cooper, a Marine from Memphis, Tenn., in the third round.

Schomo, scoring his eighth consecutive knockout, easily handled Freddie Martin, of San Francisco, scoring a TKO in the second round.

However, one of the best fights of the evening was in the 155-pound class where Bobby Foster, the Air Force champion from York, Pa., got off the deck to win over Bob Conrad, of Dallas.

Conrad had Foster down for the eight count in the first round and Foster's eye was badly cut. Between rounds a doctor examined it and considered stopping the bout. But the physician listened to Foster's pleading and allowed the fight to continue. Foster then turned tiger and belted Conrad into submission.

DECISION BOOED

Elmer Rush, the heavily muscled Army heavyweight champion and a favorite to represent this country in Rome, had tough sledding before getting a close decision over Wyce Westbrook, of Cincinnati.

Rush absorbed about 50 left hooks to the stomach in the last two rounds but staggered to a unanimos decision that was booded by the crowd.

In another fine bout, Joe Bliss, a 132-pound Indian from Nevada, came from behind to score a third round knockout over John Dixon, the Navy champion. Bliss was on the receiving end in a first round slugging match But he came back with some powerful lefts in the second and third rounds and finnally the referee had to stop the bout to save Dixon from further punishment.

Busch Denies Hemus Through As Manager

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Owner August Busch Jr., denied reports yesterday Solly Hemus was to be replaced as manager of the St. Louis Cardinals.

It's Sad Sam Vs. Spahn Tonight

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Sam Jones goes against the great Warren Spahn tonight as the San Francisco Giants attempt to even up their two-game series against the Braves and regain the National League lead.

San Francisco fell from sole possession of first place into a tie with the Pittsburgh Pirates last night as the Braves edged the Giants, 3-1—and handed 21-year-old Mike McCormick his first setback against five wins.

Jones, who got shelled his last time out at Cincinnati Monday, seeks his fifth victory against three losses. Spahn, off to a slow start, is 2-1.

Milwaukee pitcher Bob Rush used some football tactics in the seventh inning to break a 1-1 tie and score the deciding run.

He singled and went to third on Billy Bruton's double. Then Red Schoendienst lifted a fly to Willie Kirkland, who rifled a perfect throw to Giant catcher Hobie Landrith.

Rush, who outweighs the Giant backstop by 50 pounds, barreled into the plate like a fullback and Landrith dropped the ball.

Rush relieved starter Carl Willey in the third, after he was hit on the knee by Orlando Cepeda's batted ball in the second.

Milwaukee scored in the second when Hank Aaron walked and was doubled home by Joe Adcock.

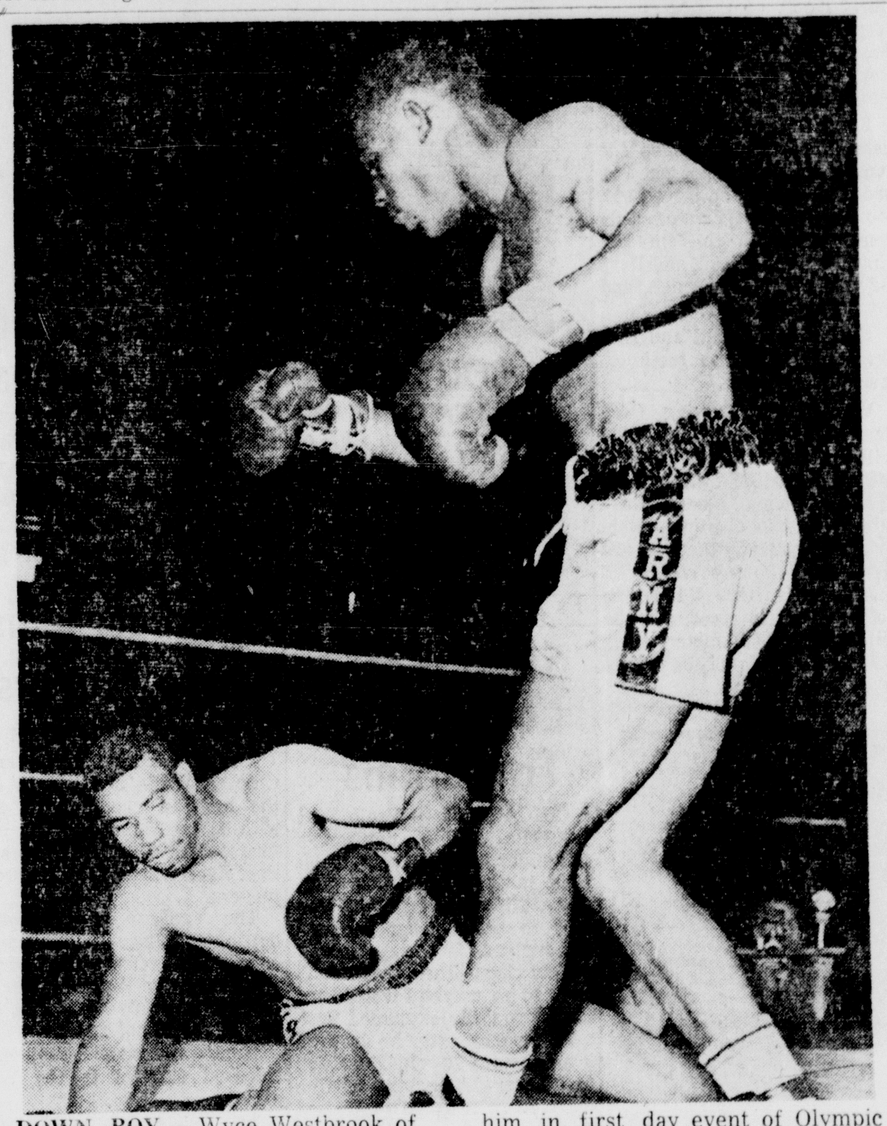
San Francisco tied it in the third when McCormick doubled, went to third on Jim Davenport's single and scored on Joe Amalfitano's secrifice fly.

Amalfitano played second base against last night, replacing the slumping Don Blasingame. Willy McCovey was returned to first base.

The Giants rallied in the ninth after two were out when Jim Davenport and pinch-hitter Dale Long singled and Willie Mays walked to load the bases.

Rush was then replaced by Don McMahon, who got McCovey on a fly to center.

"He had plenty of chances, but couldn't get the big hit," Manager Bill Rigney of the Giants said later. "The kid (McCormick) certainly pitched well enough to win." The Giants left 12 runners stranded.



DOWN, BOY — Wyce Westbrook of Cincinnati stands over Elmer Rush of Ann Arbor, Mich., after decking him in first day event of Olympic Boxing Finals at the Cow Palace last night. Westbrook won on a decision. (AP Wirephoto)

Glory Yachts Rebel, Quit Buckner Race

The classic 125-mile Buckner Cup ocean race May 28-29 will be without most of the glory windwagons of the Bay Area's Class A sailing fleet, it was revealed yesterday.

Five Class A yachts have withdrawn from the ocean classic because of a squabble over a switch in the start and finish lines.

Formerly held off the St. Francis Yacht Club in San Francisco, the start-finish line has ben moved to the Corinthian Yacht Club in Tiburon.

Rebelling against this move were skippers Dennis Jordan of the Bolero, Jim Michael of Baruna, Jack Hedden of Good News, Jim Wilhite of Athene and Tim Mosely of the Orient. All have announced withdrawel from the race.

Their complaint: The probability of light winds on the Marin County side of the bay during the morning starting period and evening finish. They contend flukey sailing conditions in the sheltered stretch along Marin's shores could lead to the possibility that the race could be won or lost in the bay, rather than the ocean.

Officials of Corinthian, sponsor of the event, refuse to yield to the Class A skippers' demands of keeping the start-finish off the San Francisco shore.

Said Commodore Ronnie Buist: "They're saying we have to do it their way or not at all. Well, we'll run the race the way it has been laid out for those who want to go in it, and we'll save ourselves some money on the Class A trophies."

Corinthian also announced it has added Memorial Cup races for Class C of the Cruising Club and handicap divisions 9, 10 and 11.

TIBURON SCORES

PITTSBURGH PARODY

Friend-Law Duo Makes Bucs Hum

By UP INTERNATIONAL

First it's Friend and then it's Law—and who in Pitt could ask for more?

Warren Spahn and Johnny Sain will have to pardon the parody on that famous refrain of 1948 because it looks like Bob Friend and Vern Law can keep the Pittsburgh Pirates in the National League race all the way.

The Pirates seemed to on the verge of collapse only two weeks ago, but today they've tied San Francisco for first place on the strength of seven victories in eight games.

Friend and Law have accounted for four of those seven victories and have two of the gaudiest records in the league. Friend is 5-1 with a 2.22 earned run average and Law is 6-1 with a 2.06 E.R.A. Friend, of course, is making a comeback from a dismal 8-19 mark last season, but Law is only picking up where he left off in 1959. He finished the campaign with 12 victories in his last 18 decisions for a final 18-9 slate.

Law, 29, was at his best last night when he pitched the Pirates to a 4-2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals that enabled them to tie the Giants who suffered a 3-1 loss to the Milwaukee Braves. The Cincinnati Reds beat the Los Angeles Dodgers, 5-4, in 12 innings in other N.L. action.

SOX HOLD LEAD

The Chicago White Sox held their one-half game grip on the American League lead with a 6-5 win over the Boston Red Sox, the Baltimore Orioles shaded the Kansas City Athletics, 5-4, the New York Yankees downed the Cleveland Indians, 4-2 and the Washington Senators beat the Detroit Tigers, 3-0.

Law, who helped his cause with a double in the seventh inning, shut out the Cardinals until the ninth when three singles and an infield out produced both St. Louis runs. Don Hoak and Bob Skinner had two hits each for the Pirates, who dealt ex-teammate Don Kline his third defeat.

Ed Bailey broke up the four-hour and four-minute marathan in Cincinnati by singling home Frank Robinson in the 12th. Robinson had tied the score at 4-4 with a two-run homer in the last of the 10th after the Dodgers had forced ahead, 4-2, in their half. Vada Pinson had three hits for the Reds and Junior Gilliam had four for Los Angeles.

Relief ace Gerry Staley allowed one hit and one run over the last four innings to win his fourth game for the White Sox, whose decisive four-run fifth inning rally was featured by Minnie Minoso's two-run double. Staley himself drove in the winning run with a sacrifice fly.

YANKEE TRIUMPH

Gil McDougald's three-run homer in the second inning proved enough for Ralph Terry to win his second game with an eight-hitter for the Yankees. The Indians threatened in the ninth, but Terry retired Johnny Powers on a fly with the tying runs aboard.

Camilo Pascual pitched a five-hitter for an 11-inning shutout over the Tigers, getting the runs he needed when Jim Lemon connected for a two-run homer off Dave Sisler. It was the fourth win of the year for Pascual, who struck out eight and walked five.

MILL VALLEY SCORES

The Realtors routed the Merchants 12-3 Tuesday night and the Corvairs shaded the Yankees 9-8 in Mill Valley Little League play.

Most Improved Giant? Kirkland Making Strong Bid For Honors

CONNOLLY

The finger points to "Willie" as the "most improved" Giant player in 1960, but the jury is "out" and may not return a verdict until later in the year.

I'm referring to right fielder Willie Kirkland. Rightfield in Candlestick Park is the most difficult pasture to roam. Even routine chances can be very tough in the wind.

The other Willie—the "Say Hey Kid" known as Mays, is particularly complimentary in his praise of Kirkland.

"I think he covers as much ground as any outfielder in the league," Mays was saying, recalling the catch "Willie K" made in the Los Angeles Coliseum recently.

"That play, in my book," Mays continued "will always go down as the most spectacular I've ever seen."

"From the foul line in right field in Candlestick Park into right center field is an overnight jump and requires speed as well as outfielding skill," explains Mays. "Kirkland does it in stride. I can only remember him making one bad play—the ball Carl Furillo hit in the first Los Angeles game here at Candlestick Park. It was a double down the line and got by Kirkland for a triple. Eventually it became the run that whipped us. Actually it wasn't too much Kirkland's fault. He was playing for the carom off the wall; instead the ball got caught in that drain trough against the stand and Willie had to chase it."

KIRKLAND, as everyone knows, is fast for a big fellow and is a good thrower.

A lot of suspicion about Kirkland's ability comes from his free and easy manner. Willie just shuffles along and some folks think he isn't hustling.

"Don't ever worry about Kirkland's hustle," says Willie Mays. "He's the most hustling player on our club and I'm including everybody."

Coming from the Say Hey kid, I can't think of a higher compliment.

IT TOOK a lot of convincing to keep Kirkland and trade other players since 1958. But Manager Bill Rigney steadfastly has stated he believes Kirkland is one of the most dangerous hitters in the league.

"He has power," Rigney states, "and the speed for a big fellow. And he has hit home runs in every ball park in the league. I can't ask any more of any player on my squad."

Kirkland's chief competition, ever since he joined the Giants, has been Felipe Alou. Many critics felt Rigney favored Kirkland over the righthand hitting kid. But on many occasions Rigney has assured me he rates Kirkland as having "beaten out" Alou for the starting rightfielder's job.

"MOST MANAGERS favor southpaw hitters," explains Rigney, "but that is true, for the most part, to speed. I have never rated anyone any faster than Alou, so in selecting Kirkland as my starting rightfielder I am very conscious that Alou is just as fast but not quite as powerful as Kirkland."

Whenever he gets the chance, Rigney has used Alou in substitute fly chasing roles, so it bears out his judgment on the kid from Puerto Rico.

"I like both Kirkland and Alou, but had to give the nod to Kirkland on merit alone," concludes Rig.

Ailing Stars Declared Out Of L.A. Relays

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Injuries and illness have taken some of the top athletes from tomorrow night's talent-loaded 20th renewal of the Coliseum Relays.

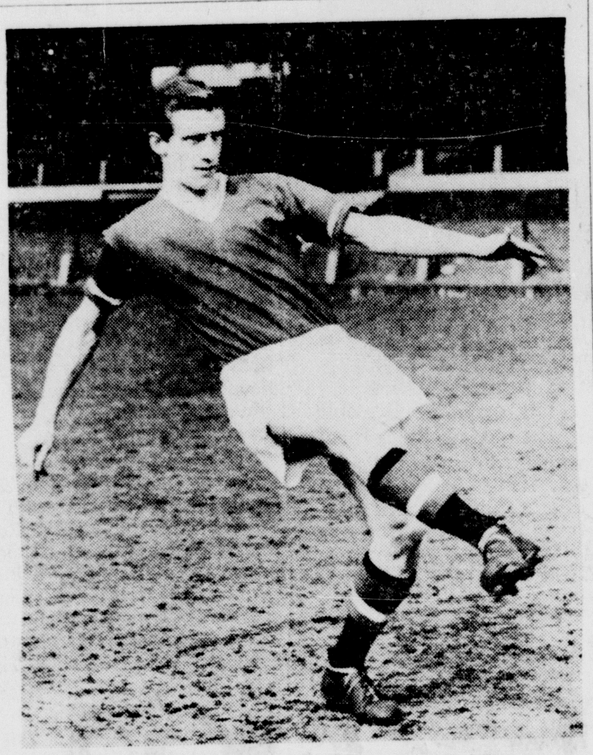
Definitely out of the event are Ray Norton of the Santa Clara Valley Youth Village and Chris Knott of UCLA, sprinters; Max Truex of Oxnard Air Base, Alex Henderson of Arizona State and John Macy of Houston, all 5,000-meters stars.

Parry O'Brien of the Los Angeles Striders, who holds the recognized world shot put record of 63-4, may be forced out, too. He is below par from a recent bout with the flu and sinusitis. Dallas Long and Dave Davis are still in, though, and possibly Bill Nieder.

Norton has a cold and sore throat. He had two teeth extracted last week.

With Norton missing, Occidental's Doug Smith probably will be the favorite for the 100-meter race. He will race against, among others, Dave Sime, Olympic champion Bobby Morrow, Bobby Poynter, Sid Garton and Jimmy Weaver.

Australia's Herb Elliott, holder of world records in the mile and 1,500 meters, has overcome a cold and the effects of as ore foot.



MANCHESTER SOCCER STAR

Dennis Viollet (above) center forward and leading scorer for the Manchester United Soccer team, will lead his mates in a game against Pacific Coast All-Stars June 5 at Balboa Soccer Stadium, San Francisco, starting at 2:15 p. m. He is one of the four players who survived the tragic plane crash in Germany in 1958 that killed 8 of the first 11 players on the outstanding Manchester United team. Frank E. Woods of San Rafael is chairman of the San Francisco soccer match.

BOUT POSTPONED, LOI WORKS ANYWAY

With the Golden Gate Bridge as a backdrop, Duilio Loi of Italy does road work along San Francisco's Marina in preparation for his title bout with World Junior Welterweight Champion Carlos Ortiz at the Cow Palace. The bout, originally scheduled for June 1, was postponed until June 15 because of a sprained wrist suffered by Loi in a recent workout. (AP Wirephoto)

TV FIGHT

Stale Rosi Loses Upset To Perkins

CHICAGO (AP) — Paolo Rosi, erstwhile No. 2 lightweight contender, may have left his fight in the gym before tangling with unranked Eddie Perkins in the Chicago Stadium last night.

"My legs, they just don't want to go, maybe I trained too hard," ruefully explained Rosi, a 9-5 favorite, after he dropped a unanimous 10-round decision to 23-year-old Perkins of Chicago in a nationally-televised bout.

It was just a year ago that Rosi from the Bronx, N.Y., gave lightweight champion Joe Brown a stiff battle before losing in the ninth round on a TKO because of cuts in a title match.

But last night Rosi never got untracked against the aggressive Perkins.

Perkins really had the right wave length in his punching against Rosi, who was missing badly and won only four rounds on the cards of all three officials. One official, Judge Harold Marovitz, didn't give a round to Rosi, awarding six to Perkins and calling four even.

Referee Joey White voted for Perkins 48-44. Judge John Bray also saw it for Perkins 48-44 and Judge Marovitz like the Chicago boxer 50-44.

Yankees, Chisox Each Cut Three Players At Deadline

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New York Yankees and Chicago White Sox had to do the heaviest chopping to get within the 25-player limit before last night's midnight deadline. Each had to release three players.

The Yankees gave veteran outfielder Elmer Valo his unconditional release and sent outfielder Ken Hunt and pitcher Fred Kipp to Richmond in the International League.

Hunt was optioned. Kipp was released outright to the Virginians.

The White Sox were three over the limit after buying pitcher Russ Kemmerer from the Washington Senators.

The White Sox optioned outfielder Jim McAnany and pitchers Don Ferrarese and Jake Striker to San Diego of the Pacific Coast League.

The Cleveland Indians sold pitcher Bob Grim to the Cincinnati Reds. The Baltimore Orioles called up their $115,000 bonus baby, outfielder Dave Nicholson, from Miami of the International League and sold pitcher Rip Coleman outright to Miami.

The Detroit Tigers sent Mike Rourke, a bullpen pitcher, to Denver of the American Assn. on a 24-hour recall basis and outfielder Em Lindbeck to the Louisville club outright.

The Boston Red Sox got under the wire after sending pitcher Red Worthington and infielder Ray Webster to Minneapolis of the American Assn. last Sunday.

The Kansas City Athletics released Wayne Terwilliger, a reserve infielder, to Richmond of the International League.

SENATE HEARING

Rickey Goes To Bat For Baseball Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Branch Rickey, silver-tongued spokesman for the fledgling Continental League, was listed as the lead-off witness today on the Senate's controversial baseball bill.

Baseball Commissioner Ford C. Frick, already an outspoken opponent, was ready to take his cuts at the measure in testimony before the Senate Anti-Monopoly Subcommittee.

Rickey was expected to favor the bill. A controversial feature would limit to 100 the number of baseball players which a major league team could control. Thus opening possibilities for the new league to obtain players.

One important line-up change was announced yesterday. Subcommittee Chairman Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), sponsor of the bill, announced that he was turning over the gavel to Sen. Philip A. Hart (D-Mich.) so that he could be in Tennessee today.

'SHOULD BE HAPPY'

Kefauver said yesterday that all baseball—majors, minors and the fledgling Continental League—should be happy with the pending legislation.

In a pre-hearing interview, Kefauver said he thought the bill would "expand baseball." He said he thought "just about everybody except the major league spokesmen was pleased with it.

Even the major leagues, Kefauver said, should be "happy" with the feature of the bill which would permit regulation of television broadcasts by one team into the home territory of another.

He said the minor league teams should like the provision which would limit the players controlled by any major league team to 100. That, he said, would let minor league teams operate without major league subsidy by selling promising talent to the majors.

The same provision, Kefauver said, should benefit the Continental League by freeing baseball talent from the control of the majors and making players available to the new league.

Frick did not make public a statement he cleared with major league executives at a meeting in Chicago on Tuesday. He has said, however, that he views Kefauver's bill as "vicious, discriminatory, disastrous and totally unacceptable."

Arrillaga Named MVP At Stanford

STANFORD (UPI)—Capt. John Arrillaga, Inglewood, Calif., has been named winner of the Hank Luisetti Award for "most valuable player" on the Stanford basketball team during 1959-60.

Guard Bub Bowling, Sunnyvale, and forward John Hendry, Napa, were elected co-captains of the 1960-61 quintet.

Cincy Buys Pitcher

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds bought pitcher Bob Grim from Cleveland and sent Raul Sanchez to Havana of the International League yesterday.

Li'l Giants Nip Padres; Marichal Spins 5-Hitter

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The eighth inning was the magic frame for the winning teams in Pacific Coast League action last night.

The Tacoma Giants shaded San Diego 1-0, getting their tally in the eighth. Vancouver's Mounties broke loose for six runs in the eighth and an 8-3 victory over Spokane. Seattle pushed across five runs in the eighth and beat Portland's Beavers 11-8.

Rain and snow forced postponement of Sacramento at Salt Lake City.

The Giants' young Dominican dandy, Juan Marichal, won his sixth game against only one defeat by five-hitting the Padres. He fanned six and walked three. Loser Bill Werle gave up four hits, fanned four and walked one. Bob Farley's single, Frank Reveira's single and a sacrifice fly won it for Tacoma.

The FISHIN' FOOL

Sturgeon Fishing On The Uprise; 206-Pounder Caugt In Upper Bay

With small craft warnings posted by the Coast Guard, and a continuing strong wind, reports today must be toned down to hopes for the future.

If history repeats itself, the prevailing wind, as this article is being typed, will calm down and fishing in general will improve a great deal. There is every reason to believe that the entire San Pablo Bay is well populated with striped bass, a fair amount of flounders and redtailed perch and STURGEON.

Why the capitals? Merely that indications are that sturgeon fishing has come into its own this year. Hardly a day passes but what we hear of one or more of the big fish being taken—or hooked and lost. A friend of ours called to tell of hanging, and eventually bringing to gaff a sturgeon measuring five feet, nine inches, from close to shore on the Contra Costa side of the upper San Pablo Bay. That 206-pounder taken by Johnny Silvera now stands as the top catch of the year, but who knows how heavy or long the next one caught will be? No reason to doubt that someone, some time in the near future, will hang and haul in one that will weigh well over 300 pounds.

THE LARGEST fish ever taken on rod and reel in California was a 324-pounder claimed by Sam Rountree of Newman, near Crows Landing, April, 1911. William Cravens landed a 360-pounder in the Snake River, Idaho, in April of 1956. Both were white sturgeons. We stress the color for the reason that we have two breeds of these big fellows in our waters. The white is extremely fine eating, grows larger and is more abundant, while the green sturgeon is usually discarded as unfit to eat. Its meat is coarse and the taste is said to be offensive.

How to tell one from the other? Just remember that the green sturgeon has an olive green color with an olive stripe on the median line of the belly and one on each side above the ventral plates. These latter stripes stop at the vent. No mistaking the green for the white sturgeon if you look for the stripes.

OH, YES! You probably know that the roe of the sturgeon, when processed, becomes the famous caviar. Want the dope on how to prepare sturgeon roe for becoming caviar? Send me a self-addressed and stamped envelope and I'll oblige.

NOW, GETTING back to smaller and more abundant fishes. Due to the high wind and rough water, salmon trolling came almost to a standstill the past five days. Rockfishing, ditto. Striper fishing has been poor since Sunday around noon and remained so until we began this column. However, to prove that the abundance of high winds and not a lack of fish caused the slow down, Joe Nerviani of Joe's Launching on the Santa Venetia Slough informed us that before the wind forced the boats in, Mrs. Elinor Lauckenauer and her hubby collected four nice stripers. Bill Mallory and two friends accounted for seven bass to 10 pounds and Grover Ahrens and wife unloaded a bass each: one of five pounds and one of six pounds. All fish (there were 19 taken the morning before the winds came) were taken on bait.

SHOULD YOU have a yen to eat some personally caught trout, here are the waters that have been restocked with catchables this week: Lake County — Anderson, Big Canyon, Kelsey, St. Helena creeks, Upper Blue Lake.

Marin County — Lagunitas and Phoenix lakes. Mendocino County — Cleone Lake. Napa County—Conn, St. Helena creeks. San Francisco County—Lake Merced (north lake). San Luis Obispo County — Arroyo Grande, Atascadero, Chorro, Lopez, Tassajara creeks; Reservoir Canyon Lake. San Mateo County—Gazos, Pescadero creeks; Upper Bean Hollow Lake. Santa Cruz County—San Vicente, Soquel creeks.

So that is another column. Goodbye, good luck and go get 'em.

Ex-USC Star Sears Signs With Chargers

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Former Trojan halfback Jim Sears has signed a contract to play with the Los Angeles Chargers.

Sears, 29, played three seasons with the Chicago Cardinals after leaving the University of Southern California.

Charger Coach Sid Gillman said he will use Sears as a defensive back. Sears has been on the USC coaching staff since he retired from pro football after the 1958 season.

Publicity Proves Downfall For 2 Radio Executives

ROYAL OAK, Mich. (AP)—Publicity, usually the dream of businessmen, toppled radio station presidents William Mortimer and Edward Wolfrum.

The two, former presidents of radio station WMEW, are 14 years old.

Their station operated from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. daily on 650 kilocycles with a signal that reached out half a mile.

They sold ads and played records—including ones plugging defense bonds and extolling life in the armed forces.

But a Federal Communications Commission official read a newspaper story about the boys and said the station must go—no license.

The boys built the station from $25 in radio parts and some help from adult buffs.

Arguments Against 9 Propositions Needed

SACRAMENTO (AP)—The secretary of state is looking for argumentative Californians.

If none comes forward soon, nine of the state propositions to appear on November's election ballot won't have official written opposition.

Written arguments against the nine propositions are needed to appear beside favorable arguments in pamphlets sent to all voters before the election.

They may be submitted to the secretary by any voter or group of voters before June 13. They must be no longer than 500 words.

The principal measure lacking an opposing argument is one to increase legislators' pay from $500 to $750 a month. Others would:

1. Authorize eight-year terms for members of the new state college board of trustees.

2. Allow local use of motor vehicle and gas tax fees to pay off bonds for construction of railroad grade crossings.

3. Give district appeal courts jurisdiction over cases from municipal and justice courts.

4. Augment the membership and function of the State Judicial Council and establish a judicial qualifications commission for claims made against chartered cities and counties and their officials.

6. Allow permanently and totally disabled veterans property tax exemptions for homes acquired after one for which they originally received an exemption, providing the first one is disposed of.

7. Allow two graduates of the same chiropractic institution, to serve on the state board of chiropractic examiners.

8. Eliminate several obsolete constitutional provisions.

Work on installation of runway lighting at Hamilton Air Force Base in Marin County will begin by late June, according to an announcement today by Col. John S. Harnett, San Francisco district Army engineer.

Invitations to bid on the project, which will cost approximately $400,000, were mailed this week. The bid opening is scheduled for about June 9 at the district headquarters, 180 New Montgomery street, San Francisco.

The job will include construction of 3,000 feet of approach lighting system, 11,000 feet of concrete encased electrical ducts, repair of a runway cable system, work on lighting vaults and control tower, installation of a new transformer vault and government property.

Summit Collapse Ups Civil Defense Interest

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The summit conference collapse apparently has created wide public interest in bomb shelters.

Civil defense officials today reported a sharp increase in telephone inquiries about protection from nuclear attack. The spurt coincided with Russian Premier Nikita Khrushchev's threats against the West.

In Washington, Leo A. Hoegh, director of the Office of Civil Defense Mobilization, said that in the past few days, civil defense officials have been asked to appear before groups, including home owners, industry and builders, throughout the country to explain costs, planning and building of shelters. Another civil defense official said he expected the number of shelters to double during the coming week.

In Minneapolis, telephone calls to civil defense headquarters rose from 10 a day before the shattered summit conference to 350 a day after it.

Richmond, Va., officials detailed several CD employees just to answer the calls. One caller couldn't wait for the mail, insisted that a clerk read him specifications for a bomb shelter over the phone.

An Hawaiian party is being planned by the Marin Kappa Theta alumnae for members of the San Francisco Alumnae chapter on Monday, May 23, in the Fairhills garden of Mrs. Kenneth Moynihan. Marin Women

Women Of Mineral Society Collaborating On Mosiac Map

Feminine members of Marin Mineral Society are involved in an interesting club project. A polished stone mosaic map of the State of California has been started, each county to be represented by its own indigenous material.

Of particular interest is the rock to represent Marin County, a light green chert with unusual transparencies of carnelian agate. It was found by Frank S. Rodgers of Tiburon, a charter member of the local society. About two years ago a slab of the material was accepted in his name by the Smithsonian Institution of Washington, D.C. Because the institution accepts only the rare or the very beautiful, it was a proud moment for both the donor and the local society to realize that this lovely rock from Marin County would henceforth be a part of the Smithsonian's remarkable mineral collection.

The project is in its preliminary stage and being handled by a design and selection committee under the chairmanship of Mrs. Charles Geller of San Anselmo. Members of the committee are Mesdames Erwin C. Paine of Fairfax, Ralph Erickson of Kentfield, Robert L. Schultz of Mill Valley, Herbert Phillips of Alto and Albert F. Kosh of San Rafael.

The project is not strictly a feminine one, as rocks from the various counties are being cut and donated by all members of the society. As work progresses other committees will be set up, composed of both men and women. Some of the stones are already in the lapidary stage, which is the initial grinding down to smooth surfaces. Mrs. Ambrose Canziani of San Rafael, wife of the president, is doing some of this work.

It is not expected that the map will be completed for several months, however, its progress will be shared with the public during the mineral show exhibit at the Marin Art and Garden Fair during the first week in July.

Santa Venetia Guild To Hold Pot Luck Supper

Instead of the usual monthly meeting, the Women's Guild of the Blessed Sacrament Parish in Santa Venetia, will be treated to a Pot Luck Supper on Monday evening, May 23, in the Parish Hall at 7 p.m.

Co-hostesses, Mesdames Glen Roberts and Joseph Redmond have planned an evening of food, entertainment and surprises for the Guild members and guests.

Working with the hostesses will be Mesdames William R. Forde and George Martus, table-setting; Joseph Redmond, entertainment; Albert Paczkowski and Dom Basile, decorations; James A. O'Sullivan, serving; Dan C. Crowley, coffee and tea; John A. Zamberlin, telephone, and Robert Pedersen, custodial.

Mrs. Delbert King, president, announces that although the Pot Luck Supper is a climax to the year's work and a means of thanking the members for their efforts throughout the year, there will be a June meeting on June 27.

Mrs. Russel Smith To Give Lecture

Mrs. Russell G. Smith, who has traveled extensively throughout the Orient in recent years, will show her colored pictures of Kashmir and Nepal and will also give an interesting account of the happenings in these two places which have figured so prominently in recent world news, on Tuesday, May 24, at 11 a.m. in the Parish House of St. John's Episcopal Church, Lagunitas Road, Ross.

The lecture will be sponsored by St. Mary's Chapter, Episcopal Churchwomen of St. John's. The members of St. John's League, Episcopal Churchwomen of St. John's Church, will also be present. An invitation is extended to all in the community to attend the lecture and bring a box lunch.

Floral Decorator Demonstrates Art For San Anselmo Women

Unusual centerpieces ranging from the informal to the traditional were demonstrated to members and guests of the San Anselmo Women's Club recently by Larkspur's floral decorator Katherine Eubanks, when the group held its recent meeting at the home of Mrs. J. Floyd Dennis.

Advising her listeners to "use imagination" in their arrangements, Mrs. Eubanks first demonstrated a floral grouping that would be suitable for a barbecue or an informal luncheon. Carrying out a Far Eastern theme here, Mrs. Eubanks used an Oriental figurine against a background of gray mullen foliage, with color accents of daisies and succulent blossoms.

Of particular interest to her audience was the use of a three-branch candelabra to make a distinctive and original design. In one branch Mrs. Eubanks centered yellow marguerites, while in the other two she used matching yellow candles.

Also demonstrated by the Larkspur decorator were two of her favorite arrangements, one using dark green slag glass contrasted with calla lillies and green loquat fruits, and the other her traditional nine-point floral centerpiece.

Plans for the group's next meeting, a brunch at the Alta Mira on June 9 were announced by the president, Mrs. Raymond Gordon at the meeting, which also featured a belated Easter Hat Parade and a dessert.

The special event at the next meeting will be the installation of a new slate of officers headed by Mrs. John F. Carr, this year's vice-president. In charge of the installation ceremony will be Mrs. George Spackman, who in 1958 originated the San Anselmo Women's Club, which is now an organization of the California Federation of Women's Clubs.

Other incoming officers will be Mesdames Hal Sharrow, vice president; William Mann, secretary, and Dennis, who will serve her second term as secretary.

MV Tennis Women Hostess Luncheon

Mill Valley Tennis Clubwomen were hostesses to visitors from the Southern Marin Recreation Center at a recent luncheon. A round robin tennis tournament preceded the luncheon. Prizes were won by Mrs. Robert Knapp and Mrs. John Barnard, and tied for third place were Mesdames Douglas Patten and William Davis.

A return visit is planned for May 18, when Mill Valley Tennis Clubwomen will be guests at the Southern Marin Recreation Center.

Valley Sewing Club

Members of the Valley Sewing Club, an affiliate of Blythedale Rebekah Lodge No. 305, will hold their monthly pot luck luncheon Wednesday, May 25, at 12:30 p.m. in the Mill Valley Odd Fellows temple.

In charge of the luncheon will be Mesdames Albert Young, Harold Owen and Clifford Spinney. President Mrs. Richard Bennett will conduct a 2 p.m. business meeting.

Dorcas Plans May Bazaar

The Dorcas Society of the Church of Fairfax will have its Congregational Community annual bazaar on Tuesday, May 24, at the church starting at 10 a.m. Among the booths will be sewing and fancy work, greeting cards and sationery, plants and flowers, cakes and pies and white elephants. The bazaar is open to the public. Luncheon will be served at noon and cards will be played during the afternoon.

At the recent meeting of the society, aprons made by the members for the bazaar were on display. On the serving committee at that meeting were Mesdames D. H. Myers, F. L. Jerew and R. G. Batcheller.

At the business session officers for the next year were elected. On the new staff are Mesdames J. W. Darlington president; Louis Dallara, vice president; August Rasmussen, recording secretary; C. F. Campbell, treasurer, and Austin Boulter, financial secretary. Installation of officers will be held in June.

Focus Show Blends A Prescription

A capacity audience of fashion minded women from all parts of Sonoma, Marin, San Francisco and the East Bay who came to honor the Pharmaceutical Auxiliary of Sonoma County on Tuesday at Rickey's delightful Fashion Focus luncheon agreed that they need just such a magic and fashion prescription.

Fashionwise, Tuesday's prescription was powerful, potent and pretty; provocative, pleasing and pleasantly priced, blended by the fashion pharmacists of the day, a San Rafael shop.

"Prescription for Summer": "One Devastating Swimsuit," all the better if it's a flower garden by Jantzen chaperoning a matching coolie coat, a green coolie straw and the charms of Beverly Hills of Sebastopol.

"Peignoir for Particular Husbands," sure to please, Mrs. Robert Trombetta and the misty magic of palest yellow flowers on white nylon peignoir and gown accented with a yellow daisy.

"Go Everywhere Dress," no muss, fuss or ironing to the patriotic striped Arnel summer delight, red, white and blue stripes parading without sleeves and riding through summer with a white cardigan and Mrs. Douglas Huewe.

"A Knowledgeable Knit," versatile, packable and pretty in jade linen knit, sheathed becomingly to Mrs. Lowell Hall and politely covered up for town or travel by a matching jacket. On her hair do, a perky crown of matching jade flowers.

"A Flower Garden Print," daisies blooming on white dacron, full skirted and feminine with a delightful leghorn hat wreathed in orange ribbon and daisies, plus Mrs. Douglas Huewe to grace any garden party.

Every Tuesday, Fashion Focus continues to honor a different community service organization, with distinctive fashions during luncheon.

Paul E. Ward Claims Bride At Church Rite In Kansas

At St. Martin's Church in Caldwell, Kan., Paul Edward Ward of San Rafael recently claimed Jane Marie Peters as his bride. The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Peters of Caldwell was given in marriage by her father. The Rev. David O'Leary officiated at the double ring ceremony. The bride's gown of white Chantilly lace over ruffled tulle and satin had a fitted bodice with Sabrina neckline, outlined with pearls and sequins, and long fitted sleeves. The fingertip length veil of imported illusion fell from a Swedish crown of lace ornamented with pearls and sequins. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of white rosebuds centered with a white orchid.

Janice Koehler of Wichita, Kan., maid of honor, and Charlotte Ast, of Caldwell, college classmate of the bride, wore blue sheaths of lace over taffeta with silk organza overskirts. Their headdresses were blue horsehair with flowers. Pink carnations were in their bouquets.

Claire Alene King, four-year-old niece of the bridegroom, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley King of Menlo Park, was flower girl. Her blue nylon frock was matched by her headdress and she had a nosegay of pink carnations.

Michael Koehler of Caldwell was ring bearer and Stanley King of Menlo Park was best man. Guests were escorted to their pews by the bride's brother, Donald Peters of Caldwell and John Sanderson and Larry Eck of Altus Air Force Base in Oklahoma.

A reception in the social hall of the church immediately followed the ceremony. The four tiered wedding cake was topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom. When the newlyweds left by automobile for a weeks honeymoon at the Lake of the Ozarks Resort in Missouri the bride was wearing a navy blue silk sheath with white accessories.

The young couple will reside in Altus, Okla., where the bridegroom is stationed by the Air Force. A graduate of San Rafael High School, he attended College of Marin for a year. He will continue his education when he completes his military service in August. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ward of San Rafael. Mrs. King is his only sister.

The bride is a graduate of Caldwell High School and Sacred Heart College in Wichita. She has two sisters, Mrs. Donald Schmitz of Wakita, Okla., and Joyce Peters who attends Precious Blood Convent in Wichita.

For the wedding, the bride's mother wore a beige lace and linen sheath dress with coral accessories. The bridegroom's mother accented her gold beige lace dress with pink accessories. Both mothers had orchid corsages.

Marinite's Invention Electronically Sterilizes Swimming Pool Water

New product of a local inventor, George Gray of San Rafael, is "Chloramatic," an electronic swimming pool sterilizer which draws purification components direct from the water it is sterilizing.

The machine is only 18 inches high, operates on 115-volt current and its cost, amortized over a period of one to two years, will balance the normal expense of chlorine additives now commonly used.

Chloramatic is manufactured in Oakland and is being distributed through Peterson Equipment Co. in San Rafael for Marin County and seven surrounding counties.

Gray claims it has been approved by the board of health and is being used in many local swimming pools. He has named the Country Club Bowl, the Santa Venetia Swim Club and Wilshire Motel as users.

Among other products originated by Gray is a novel one for coloring swimming pool water according to the taste of the owner.

BANKERS' HOLIDAY: More than 800 bankers, businessmen and their wives are expected to attend the 69th anniversary convention of the California Bankers Assn., May 22-24 at the Ambassador Hotel in Los Angeles

Approximately 110 banks in California and elsewhere in the United States will be represented.

Among those attending the convention from Marin County will be Burton R. Kirchner, vice president of the First National Bank in San Rafael, and Mrs. Kirchner.

"MARIN COUNTY still offers real estate investors the best dollar value in happiness."

This was the opinion expressed by G. C. (Jack) Kragen, representative in Marin for Saxe Mortgage Company of San Francisco in addressing last Tuesday's breakfast meeting of the Marin County Real Estate Board at King Cotton restaurant.

Kragen, speaking on the home mortgage market, pointed out that one method of financing often overlooked by real estate men in attracting home buyers to Marin is the "trade." He said that a group of realtors in San Francisco and on the Peninsula is specializing successfully in this field, enabling buyers with funds tied up in other property to negotiate for houses they would like to purchase.

NEXT SEPTEMBER, Flora, Ill., a town of 5,000 near the exact population center of the U. S. will be the scene of an unusual stunt by the Ford Motor Company. "Stupendous" is the Hollywood word for it.

Every man, woman and youth in the town who owns a car will be loaned a 1961 Ford for one week.

About 1,600 new Falcons, Fords, Thunderbirds and trucks —even fire trucks — will be moved into Flora, then out again a week later—less, of course, those which residents won't let go by right of purchase.

AUTOMOBILE STYLING during the next decade will reverse the trend of the past 10 years, according to Edward N. Cole, general manager of Chevrolet.

Shorter, higher, lighter, simple and unadorned with fancy gadgets is the forecast for the well dressed gasoline buggy of the future. Annual model changes will be in the direction of refinement rather than toward the massive and exotic.

Shucks—just when I was getting used to that luscious sweep of fenders 10 feet behind me in the rear view mirror, too!

Gone But Not Forgotten

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The morning after he made the final payment on his television set, Elmer Boggs sat watching it at home. The phone rang.

A man told him that a friend had been in an accident some distance away. Boggs jumped in his car and sped to the scene. No friend, no accident.

No TV set, either, he found when he got back. Neighbors saw three men drive up to the rear of Boggs' house while he was gone and load the TV and his new hi-fi set into their car.

Californians' Income Goes Up Sharply

The personal income of Californians more than doubled during the 10-year period from 1950 through 1959, according to a survey conducted by Wells Fargo Bank American Trust Co. and published in the bank's current business review.

The actual gain in California was 103 per cent, while areas elsewhere in the nation could cite only a 66 per cent increase for the 10 years.

The bank survey tends to the idea that the California showing was due solely to its burgeoning population. In 1950 the state's share of personal income in the nation was 8.6 per cent, while in 1959 it was 10.5 per cent. By way of comparison, California's population reprsented 7.0 per cent of the national total in 1950 and 8.7 per cent in 1959.

California personal income has registered new annual highs for 21 consecutive years. The total for the state was 39.9 billion dollars in 1959, about 9 per cent more than in 1958. The nationwide increase for 1959 was 6 per cent.

In per capita income, Californians topped the national average by 21 per cent in 1959.

The biggest gain by far in California income payments was chalked up by manufacturing. Manufacturing paid out 176 per cent more in wages and salaries in 1959 than in 1950, while the increase in manufacturing elsewhere in the nation was only 72 per cent.

Other fields in which wage and salary payments at least doubled over the 10 years are finance, government, construction, services, and communications and utilities.

A Welshman, Henry Tudor, was crowned King of England and Wales in 1485.

'MOST FEASIBLE'

Official Defends Appraisal System

Why is Marin reappraising one-fourth of the county each year (this year it is Southern Marin) and applying the results to the following year's assessment roll?

Why not reappraise one-fourth of the county each year, hold up the results, and after four years, apply the new values simultaneously for the whole county?

Assessor Bert W. Broemmel gave his answers today, in reply to protests charging that sectional reappraisal is unfair.

With the present staff, it takes four years to reappraise the whole county, said Broemmel. If the new values were applied at once after four years, the job of informing all property owners, maintaining adequate information bureaus, and reviewing the appraisals at the request of property owners would be too much of a load, he said.

"Under our present system, reassessing one-quarter of the county, every property owner has a reasonably good opportunity to get information, reconsideration by the assessor, and a proper equalization hearing should he desire it," the assessor declared.

The greatest need for equity is among properties in a specific area, where the maximum tax burden is felt, said Broemmel.

If a four-year reappraisal program were put into simultaneous effect, the new valuations could not be so current as the property owner might be led to believe, the assessor explained.

"It just isn't yet possible to gather market data for the entire county and apply it in valuation of individual properties in one year's time," the assessor continued. "Under such a program the countywide valuations would average three and one-half years behind the market, whereas under our present program the average lag will be two and one-half years, after completion of the first cycle."

Why start the reappraisal in Southern Marin?

Objective sampling by the state Board of Equalization showed that as of March, 1959, the assessor's appraised valuation of the entire county was some 8 per cent under market value, Broemmel said. "We found that the assessor's appraised valuation for the Southern Marin area was 12 per cent or more under market value."

The assessor also discussed other possibilities, such as appraising one-fourth of the county each year and making annual adjustments in the other three-fourths by sampling techniques.

He concluded that the most feasible and the most nearly equitable system is the cycle reappraisal over a four-year period.

The assessor once again stressed that his job is not to determine how many tax dollars are to be raised. His job is to distribute them fairly among the property owners. The county's 95 taxing bodies, most of them elected by the people they serve, are directly responsible for services rendered and the cost in tax dollars, said Broemmel.

In reply to criticism from Southern Marin, where assessed values have more than doubled on some homes, Broemmel made these points:

"The market place establishes the value, not the assessor." Delays in applying new appraisals would prolong and intensify inequities.

Until July 5, the assessor can adjust assessments to correct errors in judgment or allow for new facts to be brought up. From July 5 to July 18, property owners may carry their pleas to the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

Marin Cities To Ask For Census Figures

The total preliminary nose-count for Marin in the 1960 national census is harder to find than a needle in a haystack.

The haystack in the case is an office at the Sonoma County Fairgrounds at Santa Rosa. And the hay, those elusive census figures, have been pitchforked into that office for several weeks.

The office is that of James T. Hammons, First Congressional District census supervisor.

Ever since the decennial federal census started on April Fool's Day, the office has been the focal point of the congressional district nose-count.

Census takers began plodding the streets, knocking at every door.

At some doors there were no answers. There were no answers even when nose-counters went back the second and third times. Some census takers quit in disgust. Then a second phase of the census began in which every fourth householder was urged to fill out more elaborate forms about his life and times.

In Marin, there are three sub-districts, and the captains of each district have been pouring in their facts and forms to the office in Sonta Rosa.

Hammons said today he will give out no figures until every last nose has been counted in Marin. He said there are still a few to be counted "in the Tiburon area." It was in that area that several census takers quit.

Last week, he said the figures had to feed through a quality control system before they could be released. He has said also that he would release figures to municipalities if the chief administrators of those municipalities ask for them.

Today, the Independent-Journal asked the city clerks or administrators of Marin's 10 cities and Donald A. Jensen, county administrator, to request the figures. All agreed. Mayor John F. McInnis of San Rafael said he already has ordered that a request be sent Hammons.

Hammons said he is only following a rule set down by the Census Bureau, an arm of the U. S. Department of Commerce. Asked why the bureau has a rule that figures cannot be released except as he has outlined, he said he didn't ask why.

But 10 municipal chiefs in Marin want to know why, as do the (gosh, we don't know how many) people of Marin.

Doctor's Wife Asks Divorce

Mrs. Betty Bentinck filed suit for divorce in Marin Superior Court against Dr. Richard Bentinck of Tiburon, charging him with displaying a "violent and uncontrollable temper" and inflicting severe physical injuries.

She asks for support and alimony and all community property, including their home at 259 Strawberry Drive in Mill Valley, assets of his medical practice, two cashiers' checks for $6,000 and $4,000, and other monies in banks and safety boxes.

The couple was married in October of 1956 and separated this week. They have no children.

Mrs. Bentinck asks the courts to restrain the doctor from coming to the home and annoying her and from disposing of community property.

Hilarita Paint Job Under Way

Wood rose will be the new color of buildings of the Hilarita housing project.

Painting started yesterday in a rehabilitation of the project on Tiburan Boulevard. A total of approximately $40,00 will be spent, executive director Bert Klahn of the Marin Housing Authority said, in painting, landscaping and in installing a permanent connection with the Tiburon Sanitary District.

He said the paint was selected by a painting specialist to blend into the hills. "We hope it will overcome the objections we had at one time from the Belvedere Lagoon people regarding paint color," he said.

The project will be trimmed with white—the color to which the Belvedereans objected.

7 Named To Help Pick New College President

Five educators and two community leaders make up a screening committee that will help Marin Junior College District trustees select a man intended to succeed Ward H. Austin as president of College of Marin on Austin's retirement next year.

Appointment of the committee members was announced today by Rupert E. Kempf, president of the board of trustees.

Coordinator is County Supt. Virgil S. Hollis. Other educators on the committee include Dr. Julio L. Bortolazzo, president of College of San Mateo; Dr. Hugh Price, chief of the Bureau of Junior College Education, State Department of Education; Dr. Leland Medsker, assistant director of the Center for Study of Higher Education at University of California, and Dr. Bill J. Priest, president of American River College in Sacramento.

Others on the committee are Fred F. Enemark of San Rafael, executive vice president of Marin County Savings and Loan Assn. and president of the Marin Industrial Development Foundation, and Fred B. Galbreath of Kentfield, resident vice president of the Marine Office of America, insurance underwriters, and a former Kentfield School District trustee.

The committee has been asked to submit not fewer than three nor more than five names of outstanding candidates for the position to the board of trustees, said Kempf. The recommendations are to be submitted June 1.

"The board of trustees hopes to announce its selection for administrative assistant and the next president of the college about June 23," he added.

The trustees voted recently to pay up to $13,500 for the administrative assistant during his year as understudy to Austin. Trustee George G. Washburn dissented.

Judge Fines Man Who Bit Fireman

Gordon Stephen Gray, 23, of San Rafael, who bit a fireman who came to douse a house fire in Kentfield last month, pleaded guilty to battery in Marin Municipal Court.

The battery consisted of biting the thumb of fireman William John Williams, who was trying to put out a blaze at the home of Julius Paul, 112 Laurel Grove Avenue, Kentfield, on the night of April 23. Another fireman cooled Gray by turning a fire hose on him, according to sheriff's deputies who arrested Gray.

Judge Leonard A. Thomas fined Gray $25. Gray's attorney, James McKenney of San Rafael, told the judge his client had already made more than $300 restitution to the injured fireman.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul were away on a trip at the time, and their son, Ronald Louis Paul, 23, was having a party at the home when the fire broke out. Gray, who was not a guest at the party, suddenly appeared "out of nowhere" and started giving orders, according to witnesses. Then he bit fireman Williams.

Two concerts — one tomorrow and another Sunday — are scheduled at the First Presbyterian Church in San Anselmo.

At 8:15 p.m. tomorrow the Madrigal Singers of Long Beach City College will sing under the joint sponsorship of the church and the San Francisco Theological Seminary.

At 5 p.m. Sunday, Joseph Haydn's Mass in D Minor, also known as the Lord Nelson Mass will be given by the Marin Chorale under direction of Dr. John Milton Kelly.

Solo parts will be sung by sopranos Adele Cowan, Carol Solo and Marion Swartz; alto Ruth Goff; tenor Dale Smith and bass Cary Smith. Wilbur Franklin Russell will be at the organ.

Today is Thursday, May 19, the 140th day of the year, with 226 more in 1960.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning stars are: Mars, Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1536, Ann Boleyn, married to King Henry VII of England, was beheaded on Tower Green in London.

In 1898, the Spanish fleet sailed into Santiago Harbor, Cuba.

In 1928, 51 frogs entered the "Frog Jumping Jubilee" at Angels Camp, Calaveras County. The contest commemorated Mark Twain's story "The Celebrated Jumping Frog of Calaveras County."

In 1940, William Allen White, editor of the Emporia, Kans., Gazette, and a group of men and women dedicated to the overthrow of Facism, organized the committee to defend America by aiding the Allies.

A thought for today: American writer Mark Twain said: "Soap and education are not as sudden as a massacre, but they are more deadly in the long run."

Official Notes 'Squeeze' On Aged Persons

Increasing life expectancy and rising costs are putting a double squeeze on senior citizens of Marin who live in modest homes on fixed incomes, Assessor Bert W. Broemmel declared today.

He urged state legislation to aid retired citizens with fixed incomes by giving them tax exemptions.

"I am not thinking of any giveaway program but of legislation to meet a realistic problem," the assessor declared.

It is not unreasonable to assume that under present rising costs, retired citizens on fixed incomes will be unable to carry tax costs on their homes, said Broemmel. This problem will increase because of longer life expectancy, he added.

Of course, such legislation would have to include restrictions to prevent abuses, the assessor pointed out.

"Much of the rising cost is due to education and law enforcement in which these people exert little demand," he noted.

At the same time, the assessor urged vigilance by property owners to see that various taxing districts hold their spending within the taxpayers' ability to pay and desires for service. He also urged increased effort to attract industry into Marin to lift some of the tax burden off the backs of home owners.

Masons, Families To Be Honored

Members and their families of the four Marin Masonic lodges will be guests at 8 p.m., May 27, at the Corte Madera Lions Club, of California Bodies, Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of Freemasonry of San Francisco.

It will be "Marin Masonic Night," and members and families of California bodies living in Marin also are invited. Local lodges invited are Marin Lodge of San Rafael, Mill Valley Lodge, Fairfax Lodge of Larkspur and Hamilton Lodge of Novato.

Entertainment will include "Echoes of the South Pacific." Refreshments will be served.

Novato Summer Session Slated

Application forms for Novato elementary age summer school are being distributed to pupils in preparation for the session June 27 to July 29.

Pupils now enrolled in third through eighth grades are eligible to attend the summer session at Hill School. Classes will run from 8:25 a.m. to about 12:45 p.m. Eighth graders may enroll in classes at the high school the same dates.

This will be the second summer school program the Novato district has operated, Supt. W. J. J. Smith pointed out.

Nixon Cinch To Score Another California Win

By MORRIE LANDSBERG

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Richard M. Nixon has never lost an election in California. He can't lose in the June 7 presidential primary — that's for sure.

Fourteen years after his first campaign for Congress, the vice president finds himself unopposed on the Republican ballot for 70 delegates to the GOP national convention.

If nothing else, it will give the 47-year-old Californian a chance to sound out his popularity among home state Republicans.

Democrats won't be able to vote for Nixon in the primary. It's strictly a party affair. If you're a Republican, you get only the Republican ballot; if you're a Democrat, you can only express your preference for a Democratic slate.

This, coupled with the fact that Gov. Edmund G. Brown is bidding for the Democratic delegation as merely a nominal candidate, downgrades the importance of the comparative vote.

The Republican State Central Committee has urged Democrats to write in Nixon's name in the primary. There's one hitch, though. The secretary of state's office says it can't be done legally.

Nixon began his political climb in 1946 by defeating a New Deal congressman, Jerry Voorhis, 65,586 to 49,994. In 1948, Nixon capture both nominations in the primary.

His first major statewide test came in 1950 when, as now, the Democrats outregistered Republicans 3-2. Putting on a typically hard-hitting campaign, Nixon defeated the Democratic candidate for the U. S. Senate, Mrs. Helen Gahagan Douglas, by 680,947 votes.

The Eisenhower-Nixon ticket carried California in both 1952 and 1956.

Things have changed a bit since then.

The Legislature has gone Democratic. Every statewide office except one is held by a Democrat. Even Nixon's old congressional district, the 25th, elected a Democrat in 1958.

Registration in the state favors the Democrats by 1,156,520.

Much, but not all, of the open bickering that marked the GOP's downfall two years ago has died away. The party machinery, once shared or disputed by the Nixon, Knight and Knowland factions, is now pretty solidly in the hands of the Nixon people.

Beaten, discouraged, disorganized, the GOP has tried to fight back. It hasn't been easy, and the results won't show clearly until November.

Republicans staged a drive to attract new registrants. They keyed party efforts to the theme that Republicans will just have to work harder to get back in.

Bad Companions Can Mislead Child Even If Home Influence Is Good

"I expect our boys to be better than the other children in the neighborhood," writes a mother.

"I have twins, 11 years old. I can't see why they should do bad things just because their playmates do. We have a religious home. Our neighbors are non-believers. We have high moral standards. Our neighbors don't. The delinquency rate is rising fast, where we live.

"My husband warns me our boys will get into trouble. He says I expect too much from them. Do you think so?"

I'm afraid I do. I know that a few children from fine, religious homes can withstand a great deal of temptation. They get enough support from their parents and their churches to maintain their standards. They maintain them in spite of their playmates. But they are rare.

The general rule is that good kids don't stay good very long if they have bad companions.

While children are small, things aren't so difficult. When your boys were 2 and 3 they looked to you for everything. They accepted your standards, without question.

But they're growing up. Their teen years are just ahead. More and more they'll line themselves up with their friends against you. Probably you are asking the impossible from them.

What should you do? Move, quickly. Find a neighborhood where children are being raised according to your standards. Look for one with a low delinquency rate. Find a place with good schools, and good teachers. Put your boys into a neighborhood where they will be accepted, not razzed for being decent.

You won't be sorry.

READERS' FORUM

(Q) "Don't boys play hookey any more? I used to, on nice spring days. However, I believe my children never were truant from school. What has happened?"

B.L.K.

(A) Maybe your children played hookey without telling you. You could hardly expect them to confess it. However, it is true that in most schools there is much less truancy now than formerly. Children's attitudes toward school are much better.

Newly elected officers of the Novato Junior Chamber of Commerce will be installed at the group's meeting tomorrow at Novato Joe's.

David Catton will take over as president; David Douglas, external vice president; Kenneth Strockbine, internal vice president; K. W. Nye, treasurer.

Robert Robertson will be state director; Paul Scheller, secretary. John Anderson and Robert Strockbine have been elected directors.

Jaycees have just completed a count of all traffic signs in the city so appropriate ordinances can be drawn by the city council to cover them.

Members are preparing plans for the annual Western Weekend scheduled for June 17, 18 and 19. Plans include a carnival and an exhibition by the Novato Folk Dancers at an outdoor dance the night of June 17.

Garden Society Slates Showing Of Slides

Herman Hein, San Anselmo landscape architect, will show slides of European gardens and of Marin gardens to members of the Garden Society of Marin tomorrow.

Hein recently returned from Europe. The public meeting will be in the Chemistry Room, College of Marin at 8 p.m.

OPEN HOUSE—Jim Nichelini of San Rafael, College of Marin graphic arts student, discusses trial proofs of a collagraph with Mrs. Doris Meyer, college art instructor. The printmaking process, as well as many other art techniques, will be demonstrated during the annual open house of the industrial and fine arts departments of the college tomorrow through Sunday.

Art Departments Set College Open House

With the student Art Club as host, the College of Marin will hold its annual open house of the industrial and fine arts departments on the campus tomorrow through Sunday.

Art Club members will serve as guides to answer questions of visitors touring the displays of student work and "art in action" demonstrations in both wings of the art building and the industrial arts building.

Hours of the open house will be from 7 t 11 p.m. tomorrow and from 1 to 4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

By inviting the public to open house. art department chairman Edwin Cadogan said he hopes to emphasize the interest the college has taken in Marin County's reputation as "an artists' paradise" and an environment for participation and enjoyment of all the arts.

There are 14 instructors in the college art department. Both daytime and evening classes will be represented in the three-day show, Cadogan said.

A 400-acre tract about 12 miles west of Kansas City, Kan., has been chosen for a national shrine to be called the "Agricultural Hall of Fame." Its purpose will be to tell the story of agriculture and the role farmers have played in building the country.

Candidate For Degree

Benjamin S. Strout, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rogert S. Strout of 20 Terrace avenue, Kentfield, is a candidate for a bachelor of arts degree at Claremont Men's College. Commencement will be June 5. Strout is majoring in accounting.

STARFIGHTERS — These million-dollar fighter planes, F-104 Starfighters, will be among those on display on Armed Forces Day, at Hamilton Air Force Base. The plane holds the world altitude record at 103,000 feet. It can climb from takeoff to 80,000 feet in two minutes, 11 seconds. Twenty-five of the fighters are based at Hamilton in the 83rd Fighter Interceptor Squadron. (Air Force photo)

Fast Fighters To Show Power At Armed Forces Day At HAFB

"Power for Peace," theme of this year's Armed Forces Day, will be demonstrated at Hamilton Air Force Base as ultrasonic fighters intercept simulated attacks on the Bay Area Saturday.

Open house at the base will begin at 11 a.m. with fly-bys, exhibits, parades, band concerts and "scrambles" scheduled throughout the day.

The 18th Fighter Wing, only ultrasonic wing in the United States, will demonstrate its fighter power with the F-101 Voodoo, F-192 Delta Dagger, F-104 Starfighter and F-106 Delta Dart.

An eight-plane fighter flyby is scheduled for noon, followed by a fly-by of cargo planes, including a C-119, C-124, and C-133. At 1 p.m. a C-119 will take off and land. The planes also will be on display on the ground.

An F-104 and a F-101 will "scramble" for the sky at 1:05 and 2:10 p.m., heading for 40,000 feet where spectators may watch vapor trails as the fighters intercept a T-33 jet "attacker." Spectators will be able to hear communication among pilots, area radar sites and Hamilton through a special hookup.

About 2:40 p.m., the F-101 will demonstrate a ground control approach and landing, with fly-overs of various types of fighters beginning at 3:15 and an F-104 making a high-speed pass over the field at 4:15 p.m. to end the day's flying.

On the ground, spectators may see a Coast Guard helicopter in a tug-of-war against a two and one-half ton truck at 2:20 p.m.

A review of nearly 2,000 officers and men will open the show at 11:30 a.m. A motorcade from Novato, featuring Mayor Wayne Womack and the Novato High School band, will swing by the day begins.

Band concerts are scheduled by the Novato High band at 12:30 p.m. and by the 573rd Air Force Dance Band, the Airliners, at 1:40 and 2:45 p.m.

Maj. Gen. John D. Stevenson, commander of Western Air Defense Force, will review San Rafael Military Academy cadets in the retreat parade which will end the day.

Activities will center about Hangar 10, where base units will have displays depicting their operation, and describing why more than 6,000 men are needed to keep 50 aircraft flying.

Twenty Marin Boy Scout troops have been invited to camp out on the old football field at the base tomorrow night, as a preview to the day.

Closing ceremonies Saturday will be followed by the opening baseball game of the North Marin Pony League at 4:30 p.m. at the Fourth Air Force diamond. The Hamilton Jets will play the Novato Realtors.

Adequate parking is planned on the base. A concession stand will be open all day near Hangar 10 and base picnic grounds also will be open to visitors.

Sausalito Acts On Shelter Cove

The Sausalito City Council has passed a formal resolution advising the Sausalito Foundation of intention to participate in purchase of the Shelter Cove underwater lots and reimburse the foundation for monies provided by the foundation except those contributions received from the Shelter Cove Committee activities.

The vote was 4-1, with Councilman George E. Keeney abstaining. Mayor Philip S. Ehrlich Jr. said the foundation has raised $21,000 toward the total $75,000 needed for the lots.

By 1970, it is expected that Americans will own one trillion dollars in life insurance.

Absentee Ballots Available Now

Marin County voters who expect to be away from the county on June 7, the day of the primary election, may apply for absentee ballots beginning today at the office of County Clerk George S. Jones.

Absentee voters may go to the county clerk's office in the county courthouse between now and June 2. They may vote now and turn in the sealed ballot or mail their ballots in later. Mailed ballots must be postmarked not later than midnight, June 7.

SPECIAL EDITION

You name it; Marin has it . . . if it comes under the head of Outdoor Living.

You can swim in the ocean or a bay—or in your own pool. You can fish in ocean, lake or stream. You can hike or ride horseback on mountain trails almost in your own back yard right here in Marin County. You can camp beneath the towering redwoods in a state park. You can picnic at the beach, in a mountain atmosphere or beside a country road overlooking picturesque pastureland. Tennis, golf, bowling . . . you name it; Marin has it.

These things give Marin County its unique character. Our climate makes all this enjoyable for much of the year.

Each year about this time, the Independent-Journal presents its annual Outdoor Living section to "tell the world" all about these wonderful Outdoor Living advantages of Marin.

RESORT IN YARD — Custom builders of Marin, builders of "Custom Pools," engineered and constructed this pool for the Leavitt L. Olds who reside at 38 Moncada way in the Country Club area of San Rafael.

Marvelous Marin Is Ideal For Lover Of Outdoors

By WAT TAKESHITA

Wondering what to do or where to go during summer vacation or weekends? Just pack a picnic basket, fishing pole, and your family into a car and head in almost any direction.

You're bound to hit any number of pcnicking, camping and hiking spots close to home. There's a spot in the sun (or shade) for all of us among Marin's hills and beaches.

If you've seen enough of Stinson Beach, Camp Taylor or Muir Woods, why not try some side trails into lesser known areas? Or perhaps spend an afternoon at Angel Island? Or take a group moonlight cruise around the bay from Sausalito?

Here is how to go about it, and what to expect: (Much of the information comes from material gathered by the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission. The commission is headed by Chairman James M Fletcher. Mrs. Wayne Tharp, secretary, has the job of coordinating the information and compiling it into usuable form.)

ANGEL ISLAND

Angel Island has special fascination because it was only recently opened, and the only access is by water. But don't give up, because it's easy to get there. On Saturday or Sunday at 10 a.m., drive to the Sausalito sandspit. You turn off at the Village Fair toward the bay along a road adjacent to the new Bank of America building. Catch the Blue Spirit for a half hour ride to the island. If you've got a big group, call Capt. Russell G. Lewis first. His number is in the phone book.

The boat heads for Angel Island at 10 a.m. and returns at 3 p.m. Round trip s $2.50 for adults and $1.25 for children under 12. Later in the summer, Lewis may increase the number of runs if there is demand. For now, it's only Saturday and Sunday at 10 a.m., and back at 3 p.m.

John Biggio is supervisor at Angel Island State Park. Admission to the park is 25 cents. Bona fide groups with a responsible leader will be charged only 10 cents per person.

Private boats may pull up alongside 10 finger floats. Cost of tying up is $1 per boat. Small craft may come ashore in any of the coves without a boat charge. Admission price per person is still the same — 25 cents.

WHAT'S AT ANGEL?

What can you do at Angel Island? There's fishing from piers and from shore. No swimming is allowed because of pollution from boats that anchor in the cove overnight. There are barbecue stoves, restrooms, picnic tables, and two group areas for 200 to 300 persons by reservation.

The public park area is restricted to 20 acres of Hospital Cove. The rest of the island is still under security. No overnight camping is allowed on the island. There is no food concession; bring your own lunches and food supplies.

If you can line up a group of 40 or more, Captain Lewis will conduct moonlight cruises on a charter basis. For $2 per person, the boat takes the group for a three-hour moonlight ride under the Golden Gate Bridge, along San Francisco waterfront, near the Bay Bridge and back.

BEACHES, PICNICS

The Pt. Reyes-Tomales area is another gold mine of beaches, wide open spaces and picnic areas.

Two main approaches to the area are from Shoreline Highwayway (State Highway 1) out of Mill Valley past Stinson Beach to Olema, or Sir Francis Drake boulevard via San Anselmo, Fairfax, Lagunitas to Olema.

Go north from Olema, and just before you hit Pt. Reyes Station, you've got to decide whether to turn left for the west shore of Tomales Bay or continue through Pt. Reyes Station to the east side of Tomales Bay.

For a family outing, the road to the left may be a better bet. This takes you toward Inverness, past the yacht club and the boat launching areas along the west shore. Then the road veers away from Tomales Bay and starts up an incline. At the incline, the road forks—right is Pierce Pt. road; left is Pt. Reyes lighthouse road.

TOMALES STATE PARK

If you stay to the right, you are in Tomales Bay State Park as soon as you enter Pierce Pt. road. The park is about two miles north of Inverness. It has picnic areas, tables, sanitary facilities. From main park area, trails lead to various beaches as colorful as their names. Bathing and fishing on about two miles of beaches. Water is warm, and there are sheltered coves. Ideal for whole family.

Shell Beach — picknicking, but no fires. Bring own drinking water. Hearts Desire Beach —fires only in fire rings on beach; no fires in picnic area. Indian Beach and Pebble Beach—no fires. Willis Linn Jepson Memorial — wilderness of Bishop pines.

McCLURE'S BEACH

If you want to bypass Tomales Bay State Park and continue north along Pierce Pt. road, you come to McClure's Beach, which is about 10 miles north of Inverness.

From the parking area, you take a fairly steep path to the beach. McClure's Beach is long, wide and beautiful, good for picnics and fishing. However, the surf is dangerous for swimming, and there is no drinking water, tables, or sanitary facility. There are coves where you can get away from the wind. Good abalone hunting to north of beach, but it takes a strong hiker.

DRAKE'S BAY

Instead of turning right to Tomales State Park and McClure's, you can go left on the lighthouse road. That takes you past the RCA station to Drake's Bay or on to the tip to the Pt. Reyes lifeboat station. For Drake's Bay, you turn left off lighthouse road onto a dirt road to the beach. It is a county park. There are chemcal sanitary facilities. The long beach is comparatively safe for swimming, good for surf fishing, and strolling under the white cliffs.

So much for the west side of Tomales Bay. To get to the east side of Tomales Bay from the south, you drive past Pt. Reyes Station and head north to Marshall on the Shoreline Highway. First water you see is at Bivalve. There's good clamming between Bivalve and Marshall.

The Marshall area has several spots for skiff rentals, hoists, and boat repair shops.

NICK'S COVE

Continue north along the east shore and you hit Blake's Landing, then Nick's Cove where Miller Park is located. This park is county owned, has a launching ramp and floating pier, and parking area. The shoreline is 700 feet long. It's a good place for picnics.

DILLON'S BEACH

Continue north past Hamlet and you come to Tomales. Turn west at Tomales for four miles to reach Dillon's Beach. Dillon's Beach has launching, hoists, camping, picnic, and fishing facilities. College of Pacific Marine Station is located there. Overnight cottages and bungalows with comforts of home are available. You can get Washington clams at Dillon's.

STINSON, MUIR BEACH

Some of the other beaches are better known. Stinson Beach and Muir Beach are both on Shoreline Highway out of Mill Valley. Stinson draws thousands from the Bay Area each summer. Stinson Beach State Park has a half mile of white shoreline for swimming, sunning, surf fishing, and picnicking. There is drinking water at the park, and bath houses, showers, and sanitary facilities. Life guards are posted during the summer. Throughout the 30-acre park are 16 campsites, 20 barbecue stoves, 25 fireplaces on the beach. A small fee is charged for cars and for family use of picnic areas with grills.

Stinson also has a county beach. Go through the state park, turn off on Calle del Serra, down a narrow dead end street to the county beach. Muir Beach provides rock and surf fishing, swimming, and wading in the lagoon. Fires are allowed on the beach. There is a parking fee.

FT. CRONKHITE BEACH

Lesser known is Jolly Beach at Ft. Cronkhite. If you're headed south on 101, turn right just before you get to Golden Gate Bridge. Then follow the signs to Ft. Cronkhite. You go through a one-way tunnel, then follow the main road past some ponds until you see the ocean beyond the Army barracks. Good place to get small sand-like pebbles. The surf is dangerous for swimming, but there are some fish.

BOLINAS BEACH

Among other beaches is the County Park at Bolinas on Brighton avenue. You reach it via Shoreline Highway. You can swim at Bolinas Beach. The Near San Rafael are China Camp and McNear's Beach. Take Third street eastward about four miles, past the McNear's Rock Quarry and turn right to McNear's Palm Beach. It has a large picnic area, 350 tables, barbecue facilities, coffee shop, outdoor dancing, water skiing, swimming and sunbathing. You can launch your own boat.

Just to the north is China Camp, where you can rent skiffs for fishing. This and Joe's Landing in Santa Venetia are close to the striper fishing spots in the Hamilton mudflats. Joe's has tables, barbecue pits, boat rentals, and water skiing.

On the Tiburon Peninsula, you have Paradise Cove Park. Take Paradise drive out of Corte Madera, or take Tiburon road and Trestle Glen drive to Paradise drive. Continue south toward the former Tiburon Net Depot, and watch for the Paradise Cove Park sign. You pay admission and have access to tables, benches, barbecue facilities, washrooms and play area and beach. There is an outdoor dance platform.

Further south is the former net depot, which the county bought. It is closed now but should open next year.

Those who don't like sand, wind and waves can take to the hills.

HILLS FOR HIKING

The whole population of Marin could lose itself in Tamalpais State Park, Samuel Taylor State Park, and the water district lakes, with more than 200 miles of trails winding to the top of Mt. Tamalpais.

Those who take hiking seriously can order a trail map from the Tamalpais Conservation Club, Pacific Building Room 735, Market street, San Francisco. Best spots for the picnicker and casual hiker are Pan Toll and Bootjack Camps on the road to Mt. Tamalpais Summit.

From Mill Valley, take Shoreline Highway (State Highway 1) and turn off onto Panoramic toward Mt. Tam. The first state-park parking area is near the Alpine Club and the park supervisor's home. Across the street from the parking lot is the Mountain Home Inn, known for its German food.

BOOTJACK, PAN TOLL

Continue upward and come to Bootjack Camp, just before the Pan Toll ranger station and parking area at the crest of the ridge. Both Bootjack and Pan Toll have picnic areas suitable for the whole family. Both are good "jumping off places" for hikers, who can wend their way to the summit or to Muir Woods. The trails have signs pointing the way. You can take a lunch along and lose yourself among the deep redwood trees.

PICNIC, CAMPS

Here are some of the picnic areas you can hit along the trails: Rattlesnake Camp—picnicking but no camping. There are washrooms, drinking water, and fire places. Van Wyck — picknicking with facilities available but no camping. Camp Alice Eastwood — primarily for youth camping groups with prior reservations. Bootjack has 30 tables, 24 camp stoves, and is the focal point for several trails.

If you'd rather drive, you can do so to the summit, where there is a free parking lot, picnic area and drinking water. But no fires are allowed.

On a clear day, you get a sweeping view of most of Marin, across the bay to San Francisco. Clouds drift below, and sometimes you can see fog rolling in toward Sausalito and San Francisco. A camera comes in handy.

MUIR WOODS

If you like giant redwoods, take Panoramic Highway and turn off toward Muir Woods National Monument. No fires are allowed, but there are hiking trails. Light lunches are served at the gift shop.

TAYLOR PARK

Samuel Taylor State Park is another popular spot for families. From San Anselmo, take Sir Francis Drake boulevard westbound past Fairfax and Lagunitas. The park has 128 picnic areas and 60 campsites nestled in the forest. There's a swimming hole at the west end of the park. The creek has crawfish in season.

Lakes of the Marin Municipal Water District are popular for picnics, trout fishing, and hiking.

PHOENIX LAKE

Closest to the center of population is Phoenix Lake in Ross. From Sir Francis Drake boulevard, turn off at the Ross firehouse onto Laguitas road. Follow Lagunitas to the end and you hit the shady picnic area with tables, barbecue facilities and sanitary facilities. Follow the road a short distance up and there's the lake.

Trout season is open to Oct. 31. A state trout license and a water district permit are needed to fish in the water district lakes. In addition to trout, all lakes have crawfish. Phoenix has bass and bluegills.

BON TEMPE, LAGUNITAS

Lagunitas and Bon Tempe Lakes are off Bolinas road out of Fairfax. About a mile before you get to the Meadow Club, turn left at a sign that says Crest Farms. Bon Tempe is mostly for fishermen. For family picnics, follow the signs to Lake Lagunitas, which has picnic and camping areas.

Alpine Lake is mostly for fishermen and hikers. Follow Bolinas road past the Meadow Club and you can't miss the lake, nestled among the trees.

KENT LAKE

The largest lake is Kent Lake (formerly Carson Dam), which is mostly for fishing, and hikers. Take Sir Francis Drake boulevard past Fairfax and the town of Lagunitas. Before you get to Camp Taylor, watch for a sign on the left that says Carson Dam or Kent Lake. The gate is open during fishing season for cars to reach the like. Otherwise, you hike in for a short distance. This is one of the hiker's delights. You can pack a lunch and picnic among the redwoods, or hike up to the top of Mt. Tamalpais.

No swimming or boating on any of the water district lakes.

Water district property on the slopes of Mt. Tamalpais are also good picnic spots. Best way to get to these areas is to drive up toward Mt. Tam along Ridgecrest. Just beyond the Mountain Theater, watch for signs that say Rock Springs and Potrero Meadows. Park off the road and hike in to the picnic sites.

CAMPS, TRAILS

By following signs along trails, you can hike into Barth's Retreat, Rifle Camp, Shaver, Laurel Dell. Picnics are allowed in picnic grounds at Rock Springs, Lagunitas Dam, Rifle Camp, Laurel Dell, Phoenix Lake (no camping), Barth's Retreat, and Shaver (no fires). Convenience stations are located in almost all of these sites. Those who like to hike can weave among the secluded trails from one lake to the other, and up and down Mt. Tamalpais. But remember there is no hunting, and smoking is allowed only at permanent picnic and camp grounds.

Another popular picnic spot on water district land is behind Deer Park School in Fairfax. Take Bolinas road out of Fairfax. Just before you hit Deer Park Villa, turn left on Porteous avenue, which takes you to the school. Tables and picnic areas are behind the school.

PARKS, PLAYGROUNDS

Now, to get even closer home, almost every community has parks, playgrounds and picnickinig areas within a few minutes driving distance or a short walk. For mothers who want an afternoon of leisure with the youngsters, or grown-ups who don't like to walk, here are some ideal spots:

SAN RAFAEL

In San Rafael, you have Albert Park right in town at B and Treanor streets. Picnic-barbecue areas, play equipment, lighted tennis courts, athletic field.

Gerstle Park, at San Rafael and Clark streets—picnic-barbecue, play equipment, lighted tennis court, flower gardens.

Boyd Park, B and Mission avenue—picnic-barbecue, play equipment, lighted tennis court, flower gardens, scenic trail up to top of San Rafael Hill.

Sun Valley Park, Solano near K street—play equipment, athletic field.

Bret Harte Park, Irwin near Hazel — picnic-barbecue, play equipment.

San Rafael also has boat launching sites all along the canal, especially along Third street and San Pedro road.

Near the motor movies is a golf driving range.

NOVATO

Stafford Dam picnc area is located on Novato boulevard about two miles west of Novato. Only shore fishing is allowed at the dam. There are bass and blue gills.

Indian Valley Golf Club is nearby. It has an 18-hole golf course, with restaurant and clubhouse.

NICASIO

In center of town is the town square and ball park, with picnic area nearby. Rancho Nicasio has barbecue pits and picnic tables, pool, and raised platform for dancing.

SAN ANSELMO

The town's memorial park is at Sir Francis Drake boulevard and San Francisco boulevard, behind Isabel Cook School. There is a ball field, basketball, volleyball, and tennis courts.

Sleepy Hollow Stables on Butterfield road outside San Anselmo has riding rings, jumps, trail horses for rent, and instruction.

FAIRFAX

Fairfax Park and Pavilion is next to the firehouse on Bolinas road. The seven acres contain barbecue facilities, picnic tables, playground equipment, and a stream of water running through in season.

Fairfax Marin Town and Country Club off Pastori avenue has just about everything. Huge picnic area, five pools, restaurants, volleyball, basketball, Saturday night dances, badminton, golf shoots, outdoor gym, ball fields, football field, ping pong, horse-shoe etc. Housekeeping apartments and cabins are available.

LARKSPUR-CORTE MADERA

Larkspur's Jewell Park is a grove of redwoods with entrance at Madrone avenue. It has picnic tables and drinking fountain. Close by is Dolliver Memorial Park, with playground equipment.

Corte Madera Town Park on Tamalpais avenue has 22 acres of land with a ball diamond next to the Corte Madera Recreation Center.

MILL VALLEY

Mill Valley is dotted with parks and playgrounds for tots, and dense hills for hiking and strolling.

Boyle Park is bounded by E. Blithedale, Elm, Buena Vista and Thalia. Lighted tennis courts, handball, baseball with bleachers, restrooms, picnic grove, play lot, redwood grove.

GARDEN GAZEBO—The wonderful way we can live outdoors when we dare to be interesting was shown by Sunnyside Nursery of San Anselmo at last year's Marin Art and Garden Fair in Ross. The splendid green and white exhibit, all set for luncheon, was accented with white ruffled petunias, star jasmine and chrysanthemums combined with varigated ivy and Texas privet.

CARIBBEAN HOLIDAY

Art, Garden Show Plans Take Shape

The 15th annual Marin Art and Garden Show to be held in Ross from June 30 through July 4 promises to be a product of imaginative fairmanship.

Plans reveal that the 1960 edition of the Fair will match if not surpass the past 14 shows in beauty and variety of exhibits reflecting outdoor living in Marin.

William L. Kapranos, San Anselmo landscape architect, has designed the fair around this year's theme: "Caribbean Holiday." Vivid splashes of crimson, yellow, grey, orange and blue against the great greenness of the naturally landscaped Marin Art and Garden Center will accent the "islands in the sun" and shade of the fairgrounds.

Masses of blooms from leading Bay Area nurseries will add to the gayety of the grounds. Even the novice grower will have an opportunity to express and show how well-groomed planting can be prize-winning and beautiful.

Rod McLellan Company of South San Francisco and East Bay Nursery of Berkeley, both top winners in past Marin fairs, will show collections of orchids and anthuriums; Reedstrom's Nursery of Novato, Orchard of Lafayette, and Nix Nurseries of Castro Valley will create huge islands of fuchsias, gloxinias and begonias.

E. L. Egger and Son Nurseries of Mill Valley and Kentfield, Reedstrom's and East Bay will bring in prize begonias to add to the fair's floral beauty; Lila's Nursery of San Rafael, with Reedstrom and Nix will show fuchsias; cool, restful corners will be arranged with ferns by Reedstrom, Nix and McLellan; brilliant displays of pelargoniums covering at least 200 square feet will be entered in competition by Mueller Nursery of Berkeley, Sunnyside Nursery of San Anselmo, and Nix; West Marin Nursery of Olema, Sunnyside and Egger will bring in literally hundreds of geraniums; hydrangeas, which each year add so much to the show, will be shown by Sunnyside and Mueller.

Collections of African violets under cool oaks will be shown by Orchard, East Bay and Sunnyside nurseries; Sunnyside alone will enter the roses competition, showing not less than 50 blooming plants; Lila Lillie of Lila's Nursery will be alone in the field of succulents.

More and larger model gardens will be on view with ideas for home owners and gardeners, according to Marcell B. McCoy, fair manager. The total area allocated to professional and amateur garden exhibits will be doubled, Mrs. McCoy said. The spaciousness has been made possible by the use for the first time of newly opened Art and Garden Center property on the corner of Sir Francis Drake boulevard and Laurel Grove avenue.

Types of gardens and those competing for ribbons and cash awards in each category include: A contemporary outdoor living area featuring unusual treatment of structural material with appropriate plantings, Cagwin and Dorward of San Anselmo, West End Nursery of San Rafael, and Robert W. Graves of San Anselmo; a garden using water for a cooling effect in vertical treatment spray mist ferns and mosses and shade plants for color. Reedstrom, Mueller and McLellan; a patio garden in full sun featuring the brightest colors in annual and perennial blooms with emphasis on container plantings, West End, West Marin and Egger.

No fair in Marin would be complete without a Japanese type garden. Three leading experts in the contemporary and traditional Oriental field will design and create exhibits. These men are George Murata of Corte Madera, Kenneth Osaki and William Shimizu of Mill Valley.

While the orchids and anthuriums shown by McLellan and East Bay are noted among collections above, they will really be part of model gar-

Outdoor Living, Neighborliness Go Together

The chief reason for the current vogue for outdoor living is the "making of friends" amidst the relaxed atmosphere of beautiful gardens, terraces or patios. Outdoor living is conducive to neighborhood friendliness. The housewife can relax while entertaining and yet express her individuality in her choice of lovely shrubs, trees and other plants with which she "furnishes" the outdoor living area.

"Furnishing" the outdoor living room with lovely plants is still a bargain for the home owner who carefully selects and plans what he or she wishes to achieve.

Once the living area is planted it will be beautiful for many years if properly cared for. One may plant for permanence; or plant for semi-permanence by changing the smaller shrubs after three to five years in order to achieve new effects of color or shrub form.

Costs depend upon the elaborateness of the planting and other structures and furnishings that may be desired. A dozen attractive shrubs and a few trees may suffice for a small outdoor living area at a cost well under $100.

The home owner planning an outdoor living area is strongly urged to plan it thoroughly, or have it professionally planned, if possible. Thorough planning will have time and money.

A Cook-Out To Suit The Choosy

Why not make your next outdoor junket a cook-out for choosy people?

The fringe benefit in this picnic plan is that it only sounds complicated. Take a single food that everybody likes —versatile skinless frankfurters — and vary it with different fillings the picnickers can add themselves.

You'll want at least three fillings for your "Grill 'n Fill Franks" — more if your family is especially choosy! To add to the possible flavor combinations, pack a few skinless kosher franks along witht he regular, more mildly seasoned ones. Complete your menu with a bowl of cole slaw, hot dog buns, fruit and bottled beverages.

Prepare the fillings ahead of time and carry them in plastic bowls or empty plastic sherbet containers. If these are uniform in size, you can stack them for a neat picnic basket.

COOK-OUT PROCEDURE: Grill frankfurters until juicy and brown, or toast on sticks over an open fire if you don't have a grill. Pop them into buns and split lengthwise, almost through. Let each picnicker be his own cook-out chef, adding one of the following fillings to each frank.

SPICY BEAN FILLING: Blend prepared barbecue sauce into canned baked beans. Add chopped sweet pickle to taste.

GOURMET CHEESE FILLING: Add crumbled bleu cheese to softened cream cheese. Blend mayonnaise into mixture until good consistency for spreading.

CHEESE 'N OLIVE LINEUP: Cut sharp cheddar, Swiss and brick cheese into narrow sticks. Pack with sliced pimento olives. To fill frankfurters, alternate cheese sticks and add a few olives.

SWEET - SOUR FILLING: Drain large can of crushed pineapple. Mix in 2 tablespoons prepared mustard, 1 tablespoon vinegar and ¼ cup brown sugar.

FRUIT DELIGHT: Add white or dark raisins to thick, home-style applesauce.

Real Cool Trick

It's a real cool trick. Potato salad, or other salads, that go to the picnic, will keep cold if packed in the top of a double boiler with ice cubes placed below in the bottom section.

Swim Pool Maintenance Has Been Simplified In Marin

Gadgets Cut Down On Toil Involved

"Do-it-yourself" is making a big splash in Marin County's home swim pools.

A variety of new or improved gadgets has both simplified and eased the chores of average owners who want to attend to their own pool maintenance without excessive exertion.

The range starts with filters, now considered a basic necessity for pool construction but recently made easier to install and simpler to maintain.

There are improved vacuum cleaners, covering what's considered a basic chore; sweepers to keep sediment in solution and move it out to the filter; swimmers to remove floating material before it waterlogs and sinks; combination chemicals simplifying purification.

Automatic swim pool chlorination from tanks is available.

One of the newest and most fascinating devices removes the need for chlorination by itself making chlorine automatically through an electrical process. The overall result is said to be that all the owner must do about chemicals is add some rock salt when an instrument tells him to do so.

So although Marin still has some busy service organizations moving about their lists of customers with twice-weekly attention to pools, the owner has his choice and can manage by himself if he chooses.

New design sand filters have recently cut the cost of this type, formerly more expensive than the kind using diatomaceous earth though with less maintenance outlay. The sand filter is simple to use, cleaning by the turning of a single valve to provide reverse flow to expell waste after dirt has been trapped in a sand bed.

Now the recent redesigning of this type has brought cost to a level comparing closely with the earth variety.

Both filters employ electric pumps. In the diatomaceous earth variety it is necessary from time to time to remove and throw away the coating of material containing the siliceous remains of unicellular algae. Then a new "charge" of the earth must be applied to continue the filtering process.

Either system is considered a big improvement on the old type "fill and draw" pool which, as the phrase suggests, requires draining and refilling because no sort of filtering was built in.

Skimmers take floating material from the surface before it soaks up water and sinks. Here again both installation and operation have been markedly advanced of late.

A new combination device worked by pump draws part of the water through a surface skimmer while at the same time gives a vacuum cleaner action to dispose of material which gets to the bottom.

Separate vaccuum cleaners are also made and one dealer felt that in former years the use of such machinery was the largest single job any owner confronted.

"Now it's four times as fast if you use a new device that works off the filter and is like a rug cleaner," he says. "It picks up quicker and covers a wider path, therefore it takes much less time and effort."

A sort of substitute for the vacuum cleaner is a fascinating hose affair fastening to the side of the pool and whipping around due to flow of water through it. This keeps sediment in solution instead of letting it settle, so that soon the filter can deal with it.

"Actually it's a sweeper," explained a dealer. "It attaches to an arm which rotates back and forth across the pool so that it is the equivalent of an automatic brush."

Made in Marin by Jandy Products at 1218 San Anselmo avenue, San Anselmo, are two ingenious auxiliary devices — a speed coupler with "throw away your screw driver" as its slogan, and a four-jet "leafmaster" to dispose of floating leaves and similar floating debris.

The speed coupler consists of one unit to attach to the end of a pool cleaner pole, and three others to attach respectively to vacuum, brush and skimmer. Whereas usually the screwdriver is a major instrument for changing such heads, instructions with this device say to use the screwdriver once to tighten a single screw on the coupler and then give the driver a good lusty heave—not poolward.

From then on, the heads go on to the pole simply by pushing the two coupler elements together and givng a twist to lock. A little button frees them when you're through. The couplers are said to be lightweight, durable and corrosion-resistant.

"No fuss, no bother" is said to be characteristic of Jandy's four-jet affair which by pressure of water through the jet nozzles pushes leaves against a base of net and retains them by flow of the water. Stainless steel is used and instant water control is provided.

What's more, you can get 'em in either blue or gold.

When it comes to pool chemicals, a great deal has been happening. The use of chlorine has been basic for years as a safety factor to battle algae and bacteria but recently several new ideas have come to the fore in composition of the chemicals to provide for less residue and other helpful factors.

A combination chemical basically of chlorine is said to require much less acid to balance. Chlorine can, unchecked, form calcium deposits becoming like coral to give Waikiki's least pleasant aspect.

Incidentally, there's something new in the way of "algae sticks" which are rubbed against black algae with results pleasanter for the pool owner than the algae.

Various new chemicals of the chlorine family with iodine and bromine bases have recently come on the market but so far they have not been as well tested as chlorine and they aren't as yet widely available.

Fully automatic swimming pool chlorination can be effected through devices which feed liquid chlorine to the tank in metered quantities. These may be rented and they are warranted to remove both work and hazard.

But all need for buying chlorine is eliminated by the electric gadget, said to have been invented in Marin County but now made in Oakland, for which a countywide franchise is now exercised from San Anselmo.

This literally manufactures the chlorine from the pool water through a machine with the general aspect of a battery charger, connected into the return piping of the filter.

At the time of installation the pool is brought into "balance" by addition of chlorine to the amount shown necessary by test. After that the machine makes-hypo-chlorite gas automatically to chlorinate on a constant level with no possibility, it's claimed, that the safety level can ever fall dangerously as might be the case with chlorination by occasional treatment.

Need for acid, normally required from time to time to balance against the chlorine is said to be reduced about 90 per cent. As example, the distributor says that in 15 months his pool hasn't required anything.

What may be needed from time to time is salt. There is a meter on the machine and when the productivity of the machine drops, a needle moves into the "red range."

It needs salt to perform its job, so rock salt must be added when indicated which will cause the needle to return to normal as sign that the machine is working. But no such quantity of salt is added as to affect the water markedly—it runs a mere .3 of 1 per cent, comparable to the percentage of the skin of the human body according to the manufacturers.

As the machine is supposed to give 100 per cent 24-hour sterilization, Marin health authorities are keeping a sharp eye on it to check performance, but so far no complaints are reported. Tests show that with an allowable limit of 1,000 bacteria per cubic centimeter of pool water, the largest number found has been about 100.

Only a change in the pool water can throw off the proper percentages of purification, the makers say. Kits for testing may be obtained for check in case of water addition.

EFFECTIVE DESIGN—Custom Builders of Marin have achieved a beautiful relaxing area for Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Oberholtzer, 42 Treehaven drive, San Rafael, by the construction of a kidney shaped pool particularly effective in their Fairhills garden.

HERE ARE GIFT IDEAS FOR DAD

More dads than ever before are leisure time sportsmen and athletes and you can make yours happy on Father's Day with a gift he can use in his favorite recreation.

If your dad heads for the golf links whenever possible, he will probably appreciate a gift of that set of irons or woods he has had his eye on. Perhaps there is just one special club he needs, or it may be a new golf bag, new golf shoes, a golf jacket or slacks.

Every golfer can use a dozen or more extra golf balls as well as free-swing golf shirts and cushioned-foot socks.

A bowling dad would cherish a gift of a custom made bowling ball that has been fitted to his hand. Bowling shoes and bowling bags that hold his shoes,ball and other accessories are some other gift ideas.

A SYMBOL OF THE OLD WEST

What could be more poetic than soft meadow grasses, fluffy clouds and a sagging fence? This is a view of Marin that one sees in the rural county. The fence post runs through ranchlands two miles west of Nicasio. Nicasio almost once was the county. But it stayed the way it was, and with beauty. (Independent-Journal photo by Bob Hax)

Freeman Park between Nelson and Ryan—playlot for kiddes.

Miller Grove between W. Blithedale and Corte Madera avenues—Dense woods along creek, only for picnics.

Molino Park at Molino avenue and Janes street—playlot.

Kathleen Norris Memorial Park between Molino avenue and Helen's lane—natural forest area, steep terrain.

Old Mill Park between Throckmorton and Cascade and Molino avenue—picnic, playground, restrooms, historic lumber mill, beautiful wooded park.

Redwood Grove Park, north end of golf course in Country Club Canyon—wooded, picnic tables and fireplaces, barbecue.

Sycamore Park, Sycamore near Miller avenue—ball field, playlot, restrooms. Access from Sycamore avenue via pedestrian lane.

Mill Valley Golf Course in Country Club Canyon on Buena Vista avenue—nine hole course, dining room for meetings and parties. Youngsters can use nearby Redwood Grove Park facilities.

SAUSALITO

Boating and fishing are the chief activities. Facilities all along waterfront. Party boats go as far as Farallons. Salmon boats leave 6 a.m. daily from February to November. Take-off point for Angel Island.

Small beach for swimming at end of Valley street. Access via stairway between two carports.

BELVEDERE-TIBURON

Southern Marin Recreation Center is used by members. Boating is enjoyed by private homeowners who have lagoon frontages.

There is some cockerel clamming at Strawberry Point.

Belvedere owns 26-acre aquatic park on the north and west shores of Belvedere Island.

There is a wildlife sanctuary at Richardson Bay, owned by the Richardson Bay Foundation. But there is no specific parking area or park site as such. Most of it is water.

Tiburon also has launching facilities on the waterfront.

OTHER FAVORITE SPOTS

Countless other coves, meadows, trails, canyons, and forests, too numerous to mention, exist to satisfy any outdoors man, woman, and child. Just pack a lunch and head for the hills, lakes, or beaches.

Fishermen have their favorite stream or cove, hikers have probably blazed their own trails to a favorite hideaway, and picnickers can find their own sunny meadow or shady nook.

Follow the crowds if you like, or blaze a new trail. Just keep away from poison oak, dangerous surf, step crags, and don't get lost in the wilderness.

Protect The Pie

Protect the picnic pie. To make sure that your pie arrives at the picnic the same perfect specimen of culinary art it was when it came out of the oven, place an empty pie tin on the top of the pie (in a tin) and fasten the two tins together with cellophane tape.

Your Lawn Furniture Needs Paint

Lawn and garden furniture take a severe beating from the elements and require regular painting to keep them looking attractive and for protection against rain and sun.

The recommended finish for iron and steel furniture is a tough exterior metal enamel available in a wide array of colors. Before painting, clean away all dirt, oil and grease by wiping with a cloth saturated with turpentine or odorless paint thinner. Rust must be removed with sandpaper or steel wool. At the same time, get rid of cracked or peeling paint the same way.

Any bare spots should be coated with a rust-inhibiting metal primer such as zinc chromate. Spots of too high gloss on the old finish should be roughened to provide tooth for the new coating.

It will save your back when painting chairs and tables if you set them upside down on another table or a bench and do the legs and under surfaces at this much more convenient height.

You have your choice of brushing on the enaml, spraying it with a paint gun or a vacuum cleaner attachment or using one of the self-spraying cans. Follow label instruction for thinning the enamel if you are going to spray.

You'll find that aluminum furniture that was not protected by a factory-applied coat of lacquer or similarly guarded by you will have lost its sheen and become dull. In coastal areas and neighborhoods with strong industrial atmosphere the aluminum may have become badly pitted.

It is a lot simpler to cover the unsightly metal with a colorful enamel than to remove the oxidation in an attempt to restore its brightness. The surface should be cleaned in the same manner as iron or steel, be primed with zinc chromate and then finished with metal enamel.

BACKYARD BOAT DOCK

Marin's natural tendency toward marine outdoor living is being intensified by development of homes along the waterfront, with boat docking facilities right on the property. Typical of such developments is Paradise Cay, luxury yachting subdivision in Paradise Cove designed by T. I. Moseley. Here two boats, sail and power, nestle against dock and patio of model Paradise Cay home.

Here Are Some Sandwich Suggestions; Try Them

Small sandwiches, big sandwiches, open face sandwiches, single deckers, double leckers . . . sandwiches made with bread, with buns, with rolls . . . they all seem tastier eaten outdoors on a bright summer day. You can make a meal of sandwiches. Or you can make a meal with sandwiches for they mate perfectly with other foods.

Here, for example, is a suggestion for a tempting salad plate that includes sandwiches. Bring the ingredients outdoors to arrange on the picnic table. Or arrange the plates indoors and carry the outdoors to serve to family or guests under the shade of a big spreading tree.

GARDEN SALAD PLATE
- 1 lb. prunes
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- ½ cup cider vinegar
- 6 tablespoons brown sugar
- 6 whole cloves
- 1 cup bleu cheese
- 3 tablespoons mayonnaise
- 3 tablespoons milk
- 1 cup finely diced celery
- 8 center cut slices boiled ham
- 4 large pineapple slices
- *Orange-flavored sandwiches
- Chicory
- French dressing, Mayonnaise or Salad dressing

Cover prunes with water. Add cinnamon, vinegar, brown sugar and cloves. Simmer until most of the liquid is absorbed. Cool. Pit. Roll 3 prunes together to form a large plump prune. Make 12 of these prunes.

Cream together bleu cheese, mayonnaise and milk until smooth; add celery. Spread an equal amount on each ham slice. Roll-up jelly roll fashion.

Halve pineapple slices. On each individual salad plate; arrange 2 pineapple halves, 2 ham rolls, three plumped prunes and 2 orange sandwiches. Garnish with chicory. Serve with French dressing, mayonnaise or salad dressing. Makes 4 servings.

ORANGE FLAVORED SANDWICHES

Cream together butter or margarine and a little grated orange rind, enough to flavor the butter. Spread between bread slices; trim off crusts. Cut sandwiches in small triangular shaped pieces. Sandwiches, too, are a happy choice for picnic lunch at the beach or in the park. To have them at their freshest and best, take along the makin's and put the sandwiches together on the spot. Wrap bread and rolls well and carry the spreads in jars. Then, let everyone choose and spread his own.

Barbecued Tuna

So handy when the fish don't bite—the makings for barbecued tuna buns. In the supplies for camp include several packages of bakers' buns and cans of tuna. Make or buy a barbecue sauce. To ¾ cup of sauce, add a seven-ounce can of flaked, drained tuna and simmer until flavors are well blended. Place a generous spoonful of the mixture between warm bakers' buns.

Treats For Either Utensils, Or For Eating With Fingers

Fingers may have been popular before forks as eating utensils, but both are in high favor today when a picnic is in order.

Fortunately, by the use of hard-crust rolls and varying sizes of crusty French or Italian loaves, it is easy to please both schools of thought at any picnic without preparing separate menus. Here are two sandwich suggestions

Chicken-Ham Sandwiches
- 6 large, hard-crust rolls
- 1 cup diced chicken
- 4 slices cold boiled ham diced
- 1 tablespoon minced onion
- ⅓ cup chopped celery
- 2 minced, hard-cooked eggs
- ¼ cup raisins
- ⅓ cup real mayonnaise
- 1 teaspoon mustard-with-horseradish
- ⅛ teaspoon caraway seeds
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- Dash of pepper

Cut off tops of rolls, scoop out soft centers. Mix remaining ingredients and fill hollowed out rolls. Wrap in waxed paper. Munch on "as is" or remove top and eat with fork as a salad. Serves 6.

B & B Sandwiches
- 6 small loaves French bread
- 12 slices large bologna
- 1 can oven-baked beans
- ¼ cup crisp pickle slices minced
- 3 hard-cooked eggs chopped
- ¼ cup minced celery
- 1 grated carrot
- 2 tablespoons ketchup
- 1 tablespoon mustard-with horseradish

Slit loaves near top, nearly through. Scoop out soft centers and line with bologna slices. Mix remaining ingredients and fill hollowed-out bologna-lined loaves.

Marin Restaurant Men Are Proud Of Open-Air Facilities

By HARRY CRAFT

Fortunate indeed is the Marin County restaurant man who can boast of open air dining facilities. He that has also a view to offer, and good food, is thrice blessed. His customers shall multiply at the first sign of fair weather.

Probably the most classic example is the Alta Mira Hotel in Sausalito's "Banana Belt" where the famous Tree Top Terrace becomes a natural extension of the dining area with the turn of a few door handles. Its elevated outlook over bay and islands is a constant attraction for tourists and local residents alike, many of whom find in it a Mediterranean likeness.

Down on the waterfront, Ondine's new Yacht Dock restaurant bids fair to draw noonday and evening crowds in much the same manner though the deck space at the edge of the water is less extensive.

Still another waterfront outdoor eating area can be found at Zack's. Here the view is more confined to a foreground of jetties, pilings, masts, booms and small craft that ply in and out of Richardson Bay. Yet it has the advantage of bringing you intimately into the very scene you are witnessing —subject material for predatory lensmen and artists, particularly the long shadows and silhouettes at twilight.

An "in the picture" feeling is also part of Sam's Anchor Cafe in Tiburon where a vast expanse of deck juts out into the boating activity at the new Corinthian Yacht Club docks. Sam Vella's tables are numerous but seldom vacant in reasonably good weather.

Similarly, but more to the leeward and with far less seating capacity, the after deck of Tiburon Tommie's Pier 41 is another vantage point to look across the same yacht harbor toward Racoon Strait and Angel Island in the background.

Almost directly across Main Street from Tommie's is the Back Stage Coffee House. It has no marine outlook but is Marin's nearest approach to the sidewalk cafe, with the possible exception of Sausalito's Cafelito which can be opened to look out on passersby or enclosed at will.

Sabella's restaurant on Highway 101 is situated more advantageously for capturing clientele from passing traffic than for any breath-taking view. Its open air patio, however, is cleverly designed with internal self-sufficiency. Glass enclosed at the sides, open at the top except for bordering canopies and umbrellas, its protection from brisk weather makes it more utilitarian than many outdoor areas. A center pond with a volcanic rock mound that becomes a flaming torch at night adds to its attraction.

Somewhere in Marin you would expect to find an outdoor German beer garden. Just such a place exists at the Mountain Home Inn perched half way up the slope of Mt. Tamalpais. It is a waypoint for tourists, hikers and sightseers, and picturesque in a Bavarian-type setting.

San Rafael offers three open-air eating spots—each distinctive according to its natural endowments. Pete's Pier 15 on Harbor street off Francisco boulevard adjoins a backwater of San Rafael Creek which harbors a cluster of fishing boats and other small craft. It has just opened an outdoor patio overlooking this scene. Pete Lind also organizes and provides food for boating excursions.

Eugene's Restaurant on Lincoln avenue has an outdoor pancake garden in the rear, facing the parking lot off Third street. It has some of the attributes of the sidewalk cafe and many people have yet to discover it. Aficionados of Gene Lackenbach's 57 griddle varieties may sit under umbrella covered tables in semi-privacy.

The little French restaurant at Fourth and Tamalpais known as La Petite Auberge conceals its vine covered wine garden from the street. During mild weather most patrons prefer its coolness and quaint, old-world arrangement to being seated in the dining room proper.

The lanai and poolside tables at Rickey's Rancho Rafael in Ignacio suggest a country club atmosphere, lacking only tennis and golf courses to make the picture complete. Tuesday noon style show visitors attend again and again, probably not so much to keep up on the latest creations as an excuse for being there and relaxing.

There is still another category in this treatment of outdoor eating spots—the barbecue area. Two prototypes come immediately to mind—the Deer Park Villa in Fairfax with its expansive woodsy setting, and the Rancho Nicasio which suggests an outpost of range and frontier country.

Both cater more to groups and parties for this outdoor service, though members of Rancho Nicasio's swimming club have certain picnic privileges which permit them to use the outside tables provided.

Whichever you prefer as a backdrop for your outdoor restaurant pleasure — the grand vista, the mountain arbour, the sidewalk cafe, the intimate patio, the waterfront outlook, the smart or the casual—in Marin you will find all of them, each one representative of some phase of gracious living.

Make Their Own

Letting picnickers make their own sandwiches saves work and gives everybody a "part in the act." Just take along wholesome enriched, buttered bread slices and fillings that travel well. These might be—processed cheese, peanut butter mixed with apple sauce or crushed pineapple, jam or canned deviled meats.

Finger Foods Picnic Natural

Finger foods are a natural for any picnic—and the lack of a fork need not bother the most fastidious. Super strong paper napkins, carefully tucked under the chin, are adequate protection when eating the slipperest and most unmanageable of foods.

Such foods as fried chicken, lobster, crab legs and steamed clams hold no terrors for the picnic gourmet—the napkin is sufficiently sturdy and absorbent to take care of the situation.

Paper napkins — especially the triple and quadruple variety—eliminate much of the soiled linen which ordinarily would have to be taken home.

Try This Quiz On Landscaping

What do neighbors think of the appearance of your home property? Is it pleasing from the street? Do people, in passing, think "I'd like to live there?"

Often the answer to this question is to be found in the character of the landscaping, which in effect provides the "showcase" of the home. Sometimes the planting of a single tree or a few shrubs can change the whole aspect. A flowering tree or shrubs, well placed, or evergreens that keep their green all year add "life" to the property.

Test the "curbside" rating of your home by standing on the sidewalk and asking yourself the following questions as suggested by the American Assn. of Nurserymen:

1. Is the home blended naturally into the landscape, presenting a pleasing aspect from the curb, both winter and summer?
2. Is the foundation of the home bare, or well-planted?
3. Are the foundation plantings overgrown and scrawny, obscuring windows? Do they need pruning, or would it be better to replant entirely with more tasteful plants?
4. Are there color and variety from the use of shrubs or trees with different foliage and flower textures and forms?
5. Does the property as seen from curb "hail" the various seasons of the year?

If the answers to the above questions are in the negative, then it is time to call in your nurseryman for suggestions.

Here Is How You, Too, Can Be A Chef

Backyard Cookery Can Be Enjoyed By All In Marin

BY DONALD G. DAVIS

This is a story of how you, too, can be a big chef, delight your family, amaze your friends and be popular for ever after. All that and on a shoestring, so to speak.

It may be news to you that backyard and patio cookery can be enjoyed by everyone, whether you have a flair for cooking and whether your budget calls for wieners and chuck roast rathtr than steaks and filet cuts.

It probably isn't news to you that Marinites like to live outdoors during the long spring, summer and fall months—and even some in winter. Outdoor living in Marin is one of the joys of living in Marin, and one of the joys of living in Marin is outdoor living.

Cooking outdoors is not, and need not, be a chore. Because it can be so simple it can be an enjoyable event for the whole family. It can be plain or fancy. And it can cost as much as the mint, or as little as a pocketful of change. It just depends on how much money you want to spend.

But nowadays you can get sturdy, serviceable and easy-to-operate barbecue equipment at the five and dime. You can also go on to add an outdoor table with an umbrella, a swimming pool and a butler.

But let's be practical. A plain brazier, about 18 inches in diameter, a round tublike object with a grill and fastened to a table-height stand, can be had for around $9. This price and other mentioned here may vary a few dollars one way or the other, depending on quality, size, whether you buy during a sale, and where you buy. There are smaller grills that will fit on the ground or a stone table for only a few dollars.

Some plain braziers on a wheeled stand are available for around $10.

Costing more but still considered in the low-price bracket are fancier barbecue grills that cost around $40. Such a piece of equipment usually consists of a stainless steel brazier with a hood with a heat indicator. Also there is an adjustable spit that can be moved toward or away from the coals. Some braziers in this price class do not have adjustable spits, but some do have adjustable grills. Electric motors turn spits so that just about anything can be cooked on them from whole turkeys to kabobs.

For $10 to $15 more, a slightly more elaborate cooker is available with chopping boards, storage drawers and fancier wagon wheels.

Most braziers are round and are plenty big enough to feed a large family or party. Slightly larger ones, oblong in shape, will feed many more persons.

Fancier cookers cost up to $300. There are also a variety of cookers that have hoods that will close down so foods can be smoked. These too are available in a wide price range, comparable to those already mentioned.

With anyone of these pieces of equipment, the fuel, the food, and the desire to prepare it, you are ready for outdoor cooking.

For a few more dollars you can get the extras. Here are some examples: Barbecue mittens, $1 to $1.50; aprons, $1.29 and up; skewers for meat and or vegetable kabobs, four for $1; forks, turners, long handled spoons and brushes, from $1 and up each, or perhaps less than $4 for a set of four; baskets in which to barbecue chickens, rabbits and other loose foods, from $3; electric barbecue lighter, around $5.

If you wish to experiment with only a small cooker, suitable for canapes—small sausages and bits of this and that—you may want to try a small cast iron Japanese style hibachi. You may want to have several so that each member of the family or each guest may cook his own, or several in addition as satellites to the larger barbecue. Small hibachis sell for as low as $3 each, and are about six to eight inches in diameter.

(Apologies to those of you who already have built-in barbecues. Some people say there's nothing like them. Some of them are so fancy they are like outdoor kitchens. If you have the materials, piling up around the garage from some old home construction job, maybe you will want to build your own.)

A few words about fuel: Lumber scraps and old newspapers are not exactly the things to use, but don't think that some people don't and with success. But when you can buy a 10-pound bag of charcoal for as little as 88 cents, and less when it is on sale, there's no reason to use anything else.

If you really are a novice you probably don't know there is such a thing as fire lighter.

Any good commercial fire starter will do the job. Sprinkle it over a piled up bed of charcoal, light it and wait. The coals should be glowing in a quarter of an hour, less time than it will take you to tie the apron behind your back, tote the food to the grill and mix a tasty sauce.

Some people say the fire has to get grey as old whiskers before being usable. The fire is intense but comfortable and with braziers that do not have adjustable grills this really is the best time to start cooking.

Otherwise the food can be lowered or raised, or the fire itself lowered or raised in order to keep the correct amount of heat on the meal.

Another way to start a fire is to crush several wax milk cartons and lay them on a bed of crumpled paper. Arrange a mound of charcoal over this and light the paper.

Some people keep a little plastic squeeze bottle full of water around to squirt the fire if it gets out of hand; or to control cooking.

Beginner cooks probably should start with hamburgers. Or small pieces of halibut. Both are easy to cook. Patties usually are cooked to just a tender juiciness when they are lightly browned. Salt and pepper can be added while they are cooking. If the grill is large enough buns can be toasted while the meat is cooking. Let someone else put on the mustard and pickle.

Halibut steaks are ready when they are just tender to the touch of a fork. A thin layer of mayonnaise can be added after the pieces have been turned. Larger pieces of chicken might be the next step in getting used to outdoor barbecuing. These can be cooked plain and brushed occasionally with oil, butter or margarin, or marinated ahead of time with some of this liquid added during cooking.

Less expensive cuts of meat take particularly well to barbecuing. This might be the next stage in learning the art of outdoor cookery.

Lamb chunks marinated in a mixture of wine vinegar and oil come out surprisingly well. Even those who favor a steak flavor are impressed. Just about anything that can be grilled on the stove or roasted in an oven can become a masterpiece on a barbecue.

Even some cuts that ordinarily require long tenderizing in a pot are available to the patio chef. Among these are chuck and pot roasts and flank steak. The chuck roast particularly is becoming more and more popular with Marin families.

A two to two-and-a-half-inch thick chuck should be marinated in wine vinegar, garlic oil, spices and wine for several hours (but you use ingredients to your own taste.)

The roast should be placed over a moderately hot bed of coals and cooked, with periodic basting and turning for 50 minutes to an hour. It will be crisp on the outside but pink and surprisingly tender on the inside.

Flank steak is a surprise addition to the menu. It requires special preparation and handling, but the result is delicious. Instead of scoring and pounding the steak as is usual, have the butcher leave it whole. Marinate it for several hours in a cup of red wine, cloves of chopped garlic, a teaspoon of salt or savor salt and a little freshly ground pepper.

Cook the flank steak over hot coals for five minutes on each side, basting with the marinade. The next step is the really important one. Slice the meat for serving with a very sharp knife, cutting across the steak diagonally, much like you would a small salami but at an exaggerated angle.

Slice the pieces about one-quarter of an inch thick and serve on a hot platter. It will be rare with a tender, full, rich beef flavor.

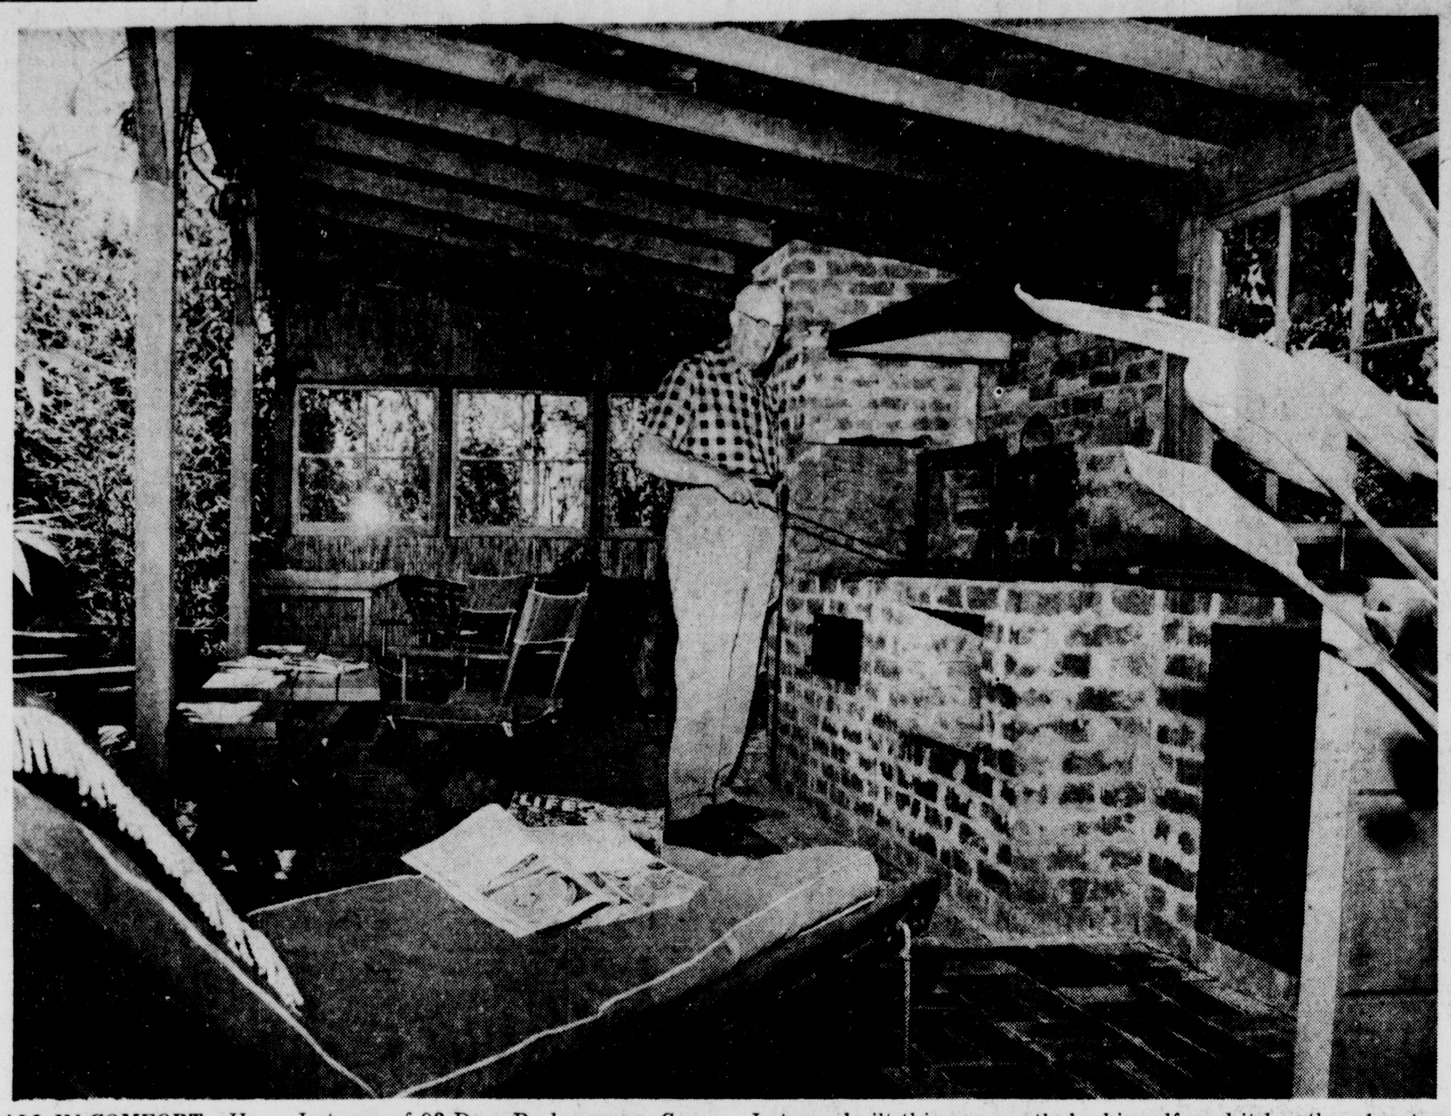
Wine vinegar, oil and wine are the most common ingredients for marinating meat. Some cooks say meats of all kinds should be marinated in white wines and that red wine vinegar should be used for basting during cooking. Others like the addition of prepared mustard and the various tomato sauces and pastes, and some even would add sugar. Raid the spice shelf, but experiment with caution. Whatever you do won't be quite like the next fellow's.

Check the barbecue seasoning shelf in your favorite grocery and supermarket. There are things in bottles and cans for adding all kinds of flavors, including some for more smoke flavor.

The emphasis here has been on meat, fish and poultry. Barbecued meals easily are filled out with beverages, bread, butter and tossed salads. The fare is easy to prepare and serve. But the basic ingredient is what comes from the fire.

Spend a few dollars, spend many, the result depends on how simple you make it for your needs.

For a few dollars you can get together enough barbecue equipment and fuel to last several seasons. And the least expensive cuts of meat may well turn out to be the tastiest.



ALL IN COMFORT—Harry Lutgens of 93 Deer Park avenue, San Rafael, prepares his barbecue for dinner. Outdoor barbecuing can be elaborate, as it is here, or very simple with portable cookers. Lutgens built this one mostly by himself, and it has the advantage of having shelter as well as being outdoors. (Independent-Journal photo)

Summertime Just Ahead; Time For Outdoor Living

Summertime means outdoor living, relaxation, fun. Then the family has a good time together, in the backyard, at the beach, or just stopping by the side of the road for a picnic lunch.

Outdoor eating symbolizes the relaxed freedom of American family life. And to get the best, most characteristic pictures of your family, keep your camera busy when you go on a picnic. Kids are at their best: the boys intently trying to get the fire going; little Patsy taking a bite of hamburger; the 3-year-old helping mommy clean up.

On pictures like these, be sure to keep it simple. The child is the thing, don't try to put too many other elements into the picture. Come in close, to get the boy's expression when mother breaks out the surprise freezer-full of strawberry ice cream.

There's far too much going on at a picnic to waste film showing a group of people staring stiffly into the camera. That sort of posing should have gone out with the tintype. Get candid pictures; show the family doing things, from dad taking a huge swig of pop to the little boy taking a huge swing at a softball.

New fast films and the new cameras that set exposures for you automatically, make picture taking—whether color or black and white, movie or still — easy under all conditions. If the weather changes, heaven forbid, you can still get good pictures, and if you're deep in the shady woods photography without flash is now practical. As a matter of fact, pictures in a forest are often better on cloudy days because the contrast between light and shade is less harsh.

So load up the family car and camera . . . and get the family's portrait outdoors.

Leisure Placed At Top Of List Of Fastest-Growing Occupations

NEW YORK (UPI) — A leading brokerage house places leisure at the top of the list of America's fastest growing "occupations."

And it's big business too with an impact on the stock market.

The stock exchange firm of Francis I. Du Pont and Co. estimates leisure spending this year will reach 43 billion dollars, up 2 billion dollars from 1959.

It wouldn't be surprising if the total crossed the 50-billion-dollar mark by the end of the decade.

Americans this year will enjoy 70 million weeks of vacation. Also they have the advantage of short work weeks and high pay to build their vast leisure expenditures.

Companies catering to leisure pursuits are making money and their stocks have outshone most others in recent markets, it is noted.

The Du Pont firm mentions the trend toward more active participation in active sports and other pastimes. Hence a decline in such lines as movies, ball games, and prize fights.

More time is being spent, however, on the theater, operas and concerts—313 million dollars in 1959 against 188 million dollars in 1947.

Much time is devoted to television viewing—also hi-fi and stereo.

The firm finds a shift in the national attitude toward borrowing for leisure pursuits.

"Credit spending," it says, "has become not only moral but patriotic, and people have little reluctance to borrow to finance a back-yard swimming pool, a vacation, or a boat.

"In fact, many banks which now are actively promoting their boat loan programs, find borrowers often more willing to keep up payments on their boats than on their cars."

Here are the Du Pont firm's estimates on the total leisure time spending: total, 10.4 billion dollars; do-it-yourself items and gardening, 12 billion dollars; TV, radio, phonographs and records, 3.8 billion dollars; reading material, 3.3 billion dollars; fishing, 2.6 billion dollars; boating, 2.5 billion dollars; spectator amusements, 2.2 billion dollars; swimming pools, bathing suits, acquatic games and equipment, 1.3 billion dollars; pleasure dining, 1.1 billion dollars; hunting, 1 billion dollars; bowling, 1 billion dollars; golf, 800 billion dollars, and photography, 700 million dollars.

Stuffed Franks

Frankfurters travel along with the best of company when stuffed with mushrooms and cheese. Simply make three slantwise slits entirely through the meat. Insert a slice of canned mushroom, a small slice of onion and a 1-inch square of cheese in each slit. Roast over hot coals; serve on toasted or plain buns.

WATER AT THEIR DOORSTEPS

On San Rafael Canal, homeowners walk only a few steps from their front doors to their boats. The deck of the Tom Cleverdon residence extends almost to the shore of the canal, provides lots of space for outdoor living. Katy and Paul Steinmetz are the landscape architects responsible for the Cleverdons' outdoor living area.

TWO FRONT YARDS

Many Marin Boatsmen Enjoy Advantage Of Living On Water

Outdoor living is at its best for Marinites who reside on the water. Boating enthusiasts can keep their sailboats or power craft right in their own front (or back) yards. For those who like to entertain, the patio or deck of a waterfront home offers a delightful place for lunch, barbecue, or cocktail party.

To get the most from the waterfront home, there are several special approaches to designing the outdoor areas, according to landscape architects Katy and Paul Steinmetz. The approach adopted by the home owner depends entirely upon preferences of all members of the family, young and old.

Are their primary interests boats, swimming, and entertaining? Then they should have lots of paving or decking and a simple garden of which the water is actually a part. Plants and flowers are selected for their ability to "take care of themselves."

Do they like privacy from the busy waterfront with its passing boats? Then they need intimacy created by fences, and planting to provide a screen between house and water.

Is the family "divided," with some addicted to boating and others to gardening? Then the garden on the street side may be fenced as a "gardener's garden," and the waterfront side used for deck and dock.

In any case, the usual ideas of "front" and "back" yards are dropped, because the waterfront home is likely to have two "front" yards—one on the street and the other on the water. There are many variations to provide attractive areas for planting and entertaining.

A special problem in waterfront locations is wind control, and this may be easily solved by using not only fences but tall, wind-tolerant trees and shrubs.

Here are some easily grown, hardy plants for water locations suggested by the Steinmetz team of landscape architects:

Escallonia (tall shrub).

Leptospernum (tall shrub).

Myoporum (tall shrub with shiny green leaf; grows rapidly on the waterfront).

Raphiolepsis (low shub with apple-blossom-pink blooms in the spring).

Echium Fastuosum (Pride of Madera; low shrub with gray-green leaves and tall spikes of pink or blue).

Comprasma (spreading shrub with shiny green leaf; sometimes called Mirror Plant).

Cistus (Rock Rose).

Flowers: gazanias, Shasta daisies, Red Hot Pokers.

Ground covers: Verbena (perennial variety), alyssum (annual).

Outdoor Eating Events Are Fun

Outdoor eating time is fun.

Whether it's a simple family affair or a get-together for friends, plan the menu for all to enjoy.

Canned pork and beans with tomato sauce offer a great possibilities for "easy-to-fox" sandwich fillings. Mix pork and beans with chopped onion, sliced frankfurters, and mustard. Serve on toasted buns or rolls for a double hit. Fill your largest skillet with the bean mixture . . . for everyone will be back for seconds.

While you're preparing the sandwiches let all help themselves to a refreshing appetizer . . . a delicious combination of condesned beef broth and tomato juice served "on the rocks."

RUSTIC FENCE—A rustic patio fence such as this one will go up fast. A power chain saw and hammer and chisel cut slots in red cedar posts in about three minutes each.

Plants In Pots Add Color, Grace

Gardening in pots has now become a full-blown phase of landscape design.

This isn't surprising, as pots full of color add grace to outdoor living areas: decks, terraces and porches. Some industrious few even go further by bringing potted color to bloom in some out-of-the-way garden spot so it can be moved into the spotlight wherever and whenever the situation calls for it. With such a system, you merely sink the pot (or nursery can) into the ground and presto! You have a blooming flower bed again.

Keeping pots full of color at all seasons is a challenge with which your neighborhood nurseryman can help you. And once you've mastered it, we guarantee you'll have a pot full of fun.

Fences Can Serve Many Uses

Fences are the key to privacy and happy living in today's house.

Modern planning uses fences not as continuous guards or stockades, but as screens and baffles. Well-placed fences are now a thoroughly tested means of getting more living space from your property at the very lowest cost. With fences, you can use all the space you own.

A fence is easily drafted to serve as a back support for an awning to shade a sand pile. Tack the canvas closely to the fence, so wind will not find an opening. Or, have metal eyelets inserted and push hooks through these. Two poles set on an outward slant will give steady support to the free end of the canvas.

In just this same way an existing fence can be used to support a sunshade made from short lengths of snow fencing or woven reeds. Grow gourd vines over them to deepen the shade.

Fences five or more feet tall can serve as supports for outdoor lights including everything from spotlights and bracket fixtures to panels designed to give out a soft glow.

The plainest of fences will support vines, shrubs, and fruit trees trained in fan shapes.

Tips For The Chef

Check-ups for the chef. Build your fire early enough so that it will have burned down to coals by the time you are ready to cook the meal. Keep the fire near the front of the grill for cooking meat. There will be enough heat at the back for making coffee, warming the buns, and other hot foods.

More than one million Americans a year are becoming stockholders.

Marin Paradise For Sportsmen

By JIM GILMARTIN

Marin County sportsmen are fortunate, indeed.

Where else can you leave work at 5 o'clock, hustle off to a nearby lake, and catch your dinner of trout by 7 o'clock?

Or, we know a Greenbrae resident who gets up at the crack of dawn occasionally during duck season, paddles out to his "blind" not far from home, bags a few birds, and still has time to change for work and catch the 8 o'clock commute bus.

Our famed striped bass fishery also is convenient for the working stiffs. When word is circulated that the stripers are running, the angling army doesn't have far to go after work and many times the missus has a delicious bass in the oven for that same day's meal.

"Yes, Marin's sportsmen have a pretty good deal," Game Warden Al Giddings declares, "You name it, we have it right here."

He was referring to the local angling army of about 25,000 strong and the hunting corps, about 12,000 in number, who don't have to leave Marin's boundaries to quench their recreational thirsts.

The anglers particularly are most fortunate because Marin offers all types of fishing—deep sea, surf casting, rock, pier, shore fishing on bay or ocean or stream or lake, and shell fishing.

"We're one of the few counties in the west that can boast of such a variety," Giddings proudly claims.

From the salt water fisheries you can hook into such tasty creatures as Chinook salmon, Silver salmon, striped bass, flounders, perch, sturgeon, rock fish, eels, steelhead, abalone, crab and four species of clam (Cockles, Big Neck, Washington, Geoduck).

Fresh water fisheries here yield Rainbow trout, black bass, blue gills and spawning silver salmon and steelhead.

Our striped bass and Chinook salmon fisheries are about the best in the state.

The hunters' major targets here are deer and ducks, but they can legally set their sights on rabbits, coons, bobcats, quail, geese, pigeons, doves, mudhens and Black Sea Brant.

And, there's something for someone the year 'round.

Just recently, April 30, the trout season opened with a bang. Marin Municipal Water District lakes, Phoenix, Lagunitas, Bon Tempe and Kent, are the popular fishin' holes because the state sees to it there are plenty of fish for everybody. For the opener the generous state planted more than 35,000 catchable-sized trout in the four lakes and periodically they restock the waters.

So, that opening paragraph about catching your dinner after work is not uncommon. As the boys down at the bait shop say, there's nothing like planting your dragging posterior on the shore of a picturesque lake and relax after a hard day on the job. To fish trout on the MMWD lakes for the full season costs you $5 for a license, $2 for trout stamps and a $3 MMWD permit, but the recreational value alone is worth the fee.

Papermill Creek, once a popular angling spot, has been poor in recent years, but still you many tie into a lunker steelhead during the trout season, which runs from April 30 to Oct. 31.

Tide waters of Papermill at Pt. Reyes and Walker Creek at Tomales are heavily fished for steelhead during the Nov. 1, Feb. 28 season.

The striped bass bay fishery extends all the way from the Golden Gate north to Petaluma. Right now, or usually always from March to September, there's good fishin'. From skiff, pier (Marin Rod and Gun Club's at Pt. San Quentin) or shore, the fish are easily accessible. The season is open all year.

The Marin coastline, inside and outside the gate, also offers plenty of flounders and perch, and their season is open all year, although the best time usually is February through May. Along the Pacific shoreline you also may reel in some rock fish and salt water eels; inside the bay don't be surprised to find a gigantic sturgeon on your hook — some whoppers have been caught.

Sausalito berths one of the state's largest party boat fleets to capitalize on the rich Chinook salmon fishery outside the Gate.

Boats leave daily during the season from mid-February to mid-November.

From July to the end of the season is usually when the larger 30 to 40-pound whoppers delight the trollers.

Now, you shell fishermen, pack up your spades or tire irons and take a trip to the ocean coast where you'll find some mighty productive land.

Open 10 months of the year (March 16-Jan. 14), abalone season is popular at Tomales Point, Pt. Reyes and Abalone Point near Bolinas, and occasionally at Slide Ranch. Best months for the hardy souls who dive for abalone are May, June, July, November and December and the best tides are from minus .5 to minus 2.0 feet.

The clam family offers us Cockles, Washington, Big Neck and Geoducks primarily at Drake's, Bolinas and Tomales Bays beaches.

Geoduck clams are taken at the mouth of Tomales Bay off Dillon's Beach.

Check your regulations for limits.

Most clams can be taken all year, but Bolinas Bay and Tomales Bay south of San Point are closed for Washington and Big Neck during July, August and September.

Also, it should be noted that mussels are extremely dangerous for human consumption during May, June, July and August. During these months clams are not in prime condition, but may be eaten if thoroughly washed and cleaned of all black parts of the meat. Both clams and mussels can be used for fish bait throughout the year, however.

Now, getting into the hunting department, Marin offers plenty of deer, but the county property restrictions are so tight you must belong to a private hunting club. There are many groups who lease land from property owners during the season which usually runs from early August to mid-September.

The larger bucks are found out in the western area of Marin.

Our Bay ducks population consists of Canvasbacks, Bluegills, Redheads, Golden Eyes, Buffle-heads and Ruddyducks, and are found on San Pablo, Tomales, Drake's and Bolinas bays.

Also, Mallard, Sprig, Wigeon, Teal, Shoveler and Gadwalls species can be taken on the county's ponds. This season usually runs from early October to mid-January.

For quail, the season goes from mid-November through December and they are found throughout the county.

The month of September caters to dove shooters and December is set aside for band-tail pigeon hunters.

And, Black Sea Brant season, usually the same as duck season, offers shooting in the Tomales and Drake's bays area.

Mudhens, or coots, can be shot the same time as ducks.

Yes, we have a variety of recreation for Marin's hunters and fishermen. It may not be the greatest in the world—far from it—but the accessibility of wholesome recreation 12 months a year puts Marin in a special category: "A sportsman's paradise."

BOY SCOUTS KNOW MARIN'S HILLS

There are trails to ride and trails to hike in the hills of Marin. Some who know them are Boy Scouts, who learn much about nature and about taking care of themselves on long and short hikes. Boys in this photo are en route to Camp Tamarancho, the Boy Scout camp above Fairfax. Scouts will show off some of their skills at the Scout-o-Rama on June 4 at Hamilton Air Force Base.

Picnicking Not Only Fun, But It's Also Economical

Modern American families are moving out-of-doors this summer in larger numbers than ever before. And it's no wonder, because picnicking is a perfect package of family fun time.

What's equally important, too, is the picknicking is one family entertainment that's convenient and economical. Just a few basic picnic necessities, some good food and a measure of sunshine—and you and your family are on your way to an enjoyable day.

High on the list of essentials for a successful picnic is a plentiful supply of cold, refreshing drinks. Romping in the warm summer sun brings on a big thirst in active youngsters — and adults, too. And this is when a cool drink is really appreciated.

A word to the wise. Even small eaters develop lumberjack appetites once they're out in the fresh air. So it's a good idea to bring along plenty picnic fixin's. Easy-to-prepare sandwiches, a healthy helping of salad, fresh fruit and cookies or cake ought to satisfy even the hungriest of the picnickers.

HOME ON CANAL SHARES OUTDOOR ADVANTAGES

Typical of many new homes along the San Rafael Canal is that of Al Quilici at 30 Seaway, San Rafael. The house was designed so that the canal would provide a "back yard" and enhance the beauty of the home, built by William H. McDevitt Co. of San Rafael.

The Secret Of Care For Lawn Is To Keep At It

The perfect carpet of green is no accident.

It doesn't just happen that one man's lawn is ragged and worn while his neighbor's looks so inviting. That neighbor, whomever he is, has been hard at it, giving his lawn the attention it loves.

It's one of the truths about gardening that lawns love to be pampered. But, as the nurserymen point out, a good lawn repays you in full for whatever investment of time you make. No lawn substitute, however many merits it has, can ever quite replace an apron of green grass.

The secret of lawn care is to keep at it. A little effort frequently applied goes farther than the big effort at infrequent intervals. Watering with modern sprinklers and soakers is easy. And a lawn that lacks sufficient water is doomed in California's long, dry summer. Light monthly feedings will keep the grass growing and frequent mowing will keep it from matting.

Such pests as lawn moths and weeds can be controlled to a degree with modern chemicals your nurseryman can recommend. We caution only that you use lawn weed controls on the type of lawn recommended on the container. If in doubt, ask a nurseryman.

If your lawn shows the ravages of time, a trick that usually works is to rough it up with a renovator (a good stiff rake will do). Then, cut it close, rake again, and cut for second time.

Let's Plan A Picnic, Mom; And Here's How

Take one balmy summer evening. Add a cloudless sky, just a slight whisper of a breeze and a brilliant setting sun. Also a good measure of family and friends, all ravenously hungry.

Combine with some gay chatter, a bit of whimsy, even a dash of romance, on occasion. Stir well with a brazier of glowing coals and garnish with a generous whiff of pungent hickory smoke mingled with that of meat roasting in a luxuriously fragrant barbecue sauce. From Los Angeles to Portland, Miami to St. Paul this spells picnic. And a more beguiling way of spending a balmy summer evening just can't be found.

So let's plan a picnic, mom. Here's how; you say when.

Though only a few men will have anything to do with the kitchen range, practically all accept the fact that cooking over an outdoor grill is a job, that by tradition, belongs to them. And it's a wise woman who latches onto this custom and gives her spouse free reign.

Your job is to get the food ready, mom, before turning the apron over to dad. Then, simply sit back and let him do the cooking, without comment, naturally.

You might do well to assemble his tools as well as the food. For instance his favorite piece of equipment for dousing flames, be it a long spouted sprinkling can or a child's water pistol. Also tongs or a long handled fork, perhaps two, depending on what he's cooking. Above all don't forget his padded mits or big pot holders to protect his fingers. Another must. A long handled swab (cloth on stick) or a new paint brush for dabbing the food with butter or sauce. Remember, too, dad loves to flaunt his outdoor cooking talent and turn the job into a real ceremony. Encourage this.

And now let's see what's on the grill. For any occasion dictating an elegantly simple menu we recommend one of dod's best friends, the kabob, in particular two skewer combinations. Both have chunks of pineapple and pimiento olives interspersed between Swiss cheese and meat chunks. One uses the cubes of Swiss wrapped with bacon, the other strips of sliced, baked or broiled ham.

You'll find that the smokiness of the bacon and ham will combine well with the Swiss cheese. Besides, whereas other cheeses will melt away over the open fire, Swiss won't.

For best results brush both the olives and pineapple chunks wtih melted butter before roasting. Then grill five to 10 minutes or until the kabobs are tender and lusciously browned. For service push off the skewers onto hot toasted buns that are lavishly spread with butter.

The rest of the meal couldn't be easier. There's a big bowl of tossed salad, made up of crisp fresh vegetables, then topped with a mound of cottage cheese and a few tomato wedges when you're ready. Also a bowl heaped with crunchy potato chips.

For a finale, an assortment of ice cream is spooned into paper cups. Each person chooses his own personal favorite.

Lacking time for the slow baking that's necessary to savory baked beans open a can of commercially packed pork and beans. Stir in a tablespoon of sweet pickle relish for each 16 ounce can. Or add a quarter teaspoon prepared mustard and a quarter cup of cubed process cheese. Heat over the grill for a fine substitute to the home baked variety.

Golden toasted French bread is another star. This is a real quickie to fix. Simply slice a loaf of French bread in half lengthwise, then place on a sheet of foil and toast on the back of the grill. It will take five to 10 minutes depending on the coals. A big bowl of tossed greens, laced with a nippy dressing makes a colorful sidekick dish.

The grand finale, for which the rest of this menu was but a buildup is a chocolate orange torte, whisked from the refrigerator at dessert time. Though it sounds fancy, it's not al all difficult to make. The base of this superb creation is a large 10 inch angel food cake purchased at your favorite bakery or grocery.

Trees, Shrubs Can Mean Cleaner Air

For every pound of the dry weight of trees and shrubs in your yard, eleven cubic feet of pure oxygen have been given off.
